PREFACE.

ALTHOUGH Preston Parish Church, past or present, cannot be classed amongst the number of churches which are great or magnificent, still it is hoped the account of its history as told in the following pages may be of use and service. Preston Church can at least claim to have had more than one Parson of note, and the facts about these men, in most instances now for the first time printed, are not without interest.

By no means so complete as he could have desired, the writer has spared no pains to make his work accurate, and for much of his success he is under great obligations to the works of others (and more particularly the MSS. of Canon Raines), and to the ready assistance of numerous friends. To all his thanks are tendered, but especially so to C. T. Boothman, Esq., of London, without whose most valuable aid this book would have lacked many important facts, and to whose just criticism and revision it owes so much.

He also desires to express his indebtedness to the following:—To the Rev. Canon Rawdon, Vicar of Preston, for permission to copy the parish registers, as well as for his cordial sympathy shown in many ways. To Mr. R. P. Woodhouse, parish clerk, for facilities in copying the registers. To Messrs. Edward Myres, J. J. Myres, T. H. Myres, and Richard Veevers, of Preston, for the loan of important MSS., and for the practical interest they have shown; and to Sir Charles de Hoghton, Bart., of Hoghton Tower, to Sir Henry Dryden, Bart., of Canons Ashby, to Joseph Gillow, Esq., of Bowden, to the Rev. S. F. Harris, Vicar of Walton-le-Dale, to the Rev. Gregory Smart, of Lytham, to the Rev. C. H. Wood of Preston, to the Rev. Charles Boardman, of Longridge, to the Rev. Jon. Shortt, of Hoghton, and to C. W. Sutton, Esq., of Manchester Free Library, for aid in various directions.

CHAPTER I.

General History.

IN old times the Church, Rectory, and Parish of Preston in Amounderness lay in the Deanery of Amounderness, in the Archdeaconry of Richmond, and in the Diocese of York. Its name, which it bears in common with not a few other spots in England, betokens clearly for the town an ecclesiastical origin, whether Welsh or English; which origin, however, in the case before us is lost in the mists of antiquity. From this twilight Preston church at length emerges to view in the reign of Edward the Confessor, though some writers, with a sharpness of vision which is not ours, pretend that they can discern it earlier. In the seventh century, perhaps upon King Edwin's conversion, there seems to have been a grant made of Amounderness to the see of Northumberland or York. At the consecration of Ripon minster in the year 670, Heddi (in his Vita Wilfridi, xvii.) gives an account of what took place:—

"Stans itaque sanctus Wilfridus Episcopus ante altare conversus ad populum, coram regibus enumerans regiones quas ante reges.....illi dederunt, lucide enuntiavit: necnon et ea loca sancta in diversis regionibus, quæ clerus Britonum aciem gladii hostilis manu gentis nostræ fugiens deseruit."

Hence it is clear that the lands in question, whether gifts of English kings, or British church-lands forsaken by fugitive British clergy, had already been made over. As to the lands thus bestowed on St. Wilfrid by English kings, Heddi tells us what they were:—

"Erat quippe Deo placabile donum, quod religiosi Reges tam multas terras Deo ad serviendum pontifici nostro conscripserunt. Et hæc sunt nomina regionum, juxta Rippel [that is Amounderness], et in Gaedync et in regoine, Dunitinga, et in Cactlevum, in cæterisque locis."

How much or little truth there is in the generally accepted notion that the parish church of Preston was erected about the year 700, and that on the canonization of Bishop Wilfrid the new building was dedicated in honour of that Saint,¹ or that in the sixth year of King Æthelstan (930) the whole district of Amounderness was granted to the cathedral church of York, it is impossible to say. Rash at least is the statement hazarded by a Preston historian that "Archbishop Wilfrid of York repaired the Church of Preston in the year of Christ, 700."²

Leaving this uncertain ground for the sure field of historical fact, we find that at the Domesday Survey (A.D. 1086) Amounderness, still comprised in Yor' shire, contained but sixteen thinly inhabited villages, and three churches—Preston, Kirkham, and St. Michael's—nearly all the rest of the wapentake being waste, as appears from the following extract from Domesday Book:—³

AMOUNDERNESS.

"In Prestune (PRESTON) Earl Tosti had six carucates rateable to the gelt [sic], and to it these lands belong:—

ASHTON-ON-RIBBLE, two carucates; LEA, one carucate; SALWICK, one carucate; CLIFTON, two carucates; NEWTON-WITH-SCALES, two carucates; FRECKLETON, four carucates; RIBBY-WITH-WRAY, six carucates.

KIRKHAM, with six more townships, nineteen carucates.

LYTHAM, with five more townships, thirty-two carucates.

² Whittle's Preston, i, 51. It seems necessary, judging from the prevailing error with regard to Bishop Wilfrid's ecclesiastical rank, to point out that St. Wilfrid was simply Bishop of York, not Archbishop. For example, Heddi describes him thus: "Sancto Wilfrido presbytero omnis conventus in nomine Domini accipere gradum Episcopalem præcepit." Bede also thus speaks of him: "Wilfrido administrante episcopatum Eboracensis ecclesie." In fact, after St. Paulinus, the first Archbishop of York was Egberht, who was consecrated Bishop of that see in 734, and who, by reception of a pall in Rome, became Archbishop.

³ Baines's Lancashire (new edition), i., 40, 41.

ROSSALL, with five more townships, twenty-one carucates.

ECCLESTON, with five more townships, thirteen carucates.

ST. MICHAELS, with four more townships, eleven carucates.

BROUGHTON, with four more townships, eight carucates.

THRELFALL, with five more townships, nine carucates.

RIBCHESTER, with nine more townships, twenty-two carucates.

STALMINE, with two more townships, eleven carucates.

All these vills belong to PRESTON; and there are three churches. In sixteen of these vills there are but few inhabitants; but how many there are is not known. The rest are waste. Roger de Poitou had the whole."¹

William the Conqueror conferred the land between Ribble and Mersey, at that time included in Cheshire, on Roger of Poitou, and Amounderness was afterwards added to his great possessions. During his little day of dominion in Lancashire, or rather in what was to be Lancashire, Roger of Poitou gave Preston rectory, with other neighbouring rectories, to the Abbey of Séez, in Normandy, the mother house and mistress of Lancaster Priory. This impropriation if ever really effected,² which is open to doubt, was shortlived, as the advowson appears to have been obtained by the Crown before 2 John (1201).³ Moreover, Roger's grant was compounded for in 1196 by saddling Preston rectory with a yearly pension of ten marks or £6 13s. 4d. to Lancaster Priory, daughter house and cell of the Abbey of Séez. In Richard the First's reign there was strife between Theobald Walter, a successor of the rebel Roger of Poitou in the lordship of Amounderness, and the Abbot and Convent of Séez, concerning the advowsons of the churches of Preston and Poulton, the contending parties at last coming to agreement by means of a fine levied on Friday after the Finding of the Holy Cross (that is, in May), 1196, "by which fine the aforesaid Theobald gave and quit-claimed for himself and his heirs to the aforesaid Abbot and Monks and their successors, and the aforesaid Abbot and Monks gave to the aforesaid Theobald and his heirs for themselves and their successors, the advowson and presentation of the church of Preston, with all the chapels and appurtenances thereof, for ever, so that any parson whatsoever presented to the same church by the said Theobald and his heirs shall pay every year to the Abbot and his successors ten marks of silver, to wit, five marks at the feast of Pentecost and five marks at Martinmas, which fine was levied by consent and assent of William Chymley, then Archdeacon of Richmond, the place's diocesan,¹ in whose archdeaconry the aforesaid churches are situate, and at the time of the levy of which fine the aforesaid church was void, of which rent the aforesaid William, sometime Abbot, etc., was seised by the hands of Adomar de la Roche, sometime parson of the aforesaid church of Preston, next presented to the aforesaid church of Preston by the aforesaid Theobald after the levy of the aforesaid fine (Coucher Book of Lancaster Priory, Harl. MSS., 3,764)."

² Whitaker says the advowson "seems to have been repurchased by one of the old lords of Lancaster, who in succession presented to it till the time of Henry, Duke of Lancaster (Richmond, ii., 425)."

In 1332-4, Thurstan Holland, rector of Preston, was condemned in the Court of York to pay damages to the amount of 50 marks to the Prior and Convent of Lancaster for despoiling that house of certain tithes in Fulwood (see chap. II.). Untaught by this mishap Thurstan Holland tried another bout with the same adversary, and was again worsted. We have just now said that Preston rectory was charged with an annual pension of ten marks to the Abbot and Convent of Sééz, of which house Lancaster Priory was a cell. This pension Sir Thurstan chose year by year to withhold, until at length the Abbot and Monks of Sééz sued him in the King's Court for the sum of £40 for arrears, recovering judgment against him. The various pleadings are fully set forth in the Coucher Book of Lancaster Priory, and are very interesting reading. After recitation of the history of the quarrel between Theobald Walter and the Abbot and Convent of Sééz, we learn that:—

proxy, the ordinary induction fee of half a mark being presumably required. In like manner the Rural Deans within Richmond archdeaconry exercised jurisdiction by commission of the Archdeacon and not of the Archbishop. In every other English diocese, and in all other archdeaconries of York diocese, these acts of episcopal authority were done by the diocesan Bishop or his Vicar-general.

"All the abbots, predecessors of the now abbot after the aforesaid William Chymley, then Archdeacon of Richmond, were seized of that rent by the hands of the parsons of the aforesaid church of Preston who afterwards were, until six years before the day of obtaining of their [the Abbot and Convent's] writ, viz. : on the first day of May in the fourth year of the now King (1330)."¹

It will be noticed in Chapter II. that Henry III. presented to the rectory ; in 1359 Henry, Duke of Lancaster, was patron, and in 1371 John of Gaunt presented to this church. From a Subsidy Roll of York diocese, made in or about 1380,² it is clear that at that time Preston church had not yet undergone impropriation, although the latest editors of Whitaker (Hist. Whalley, i., 168) state that "the church of Preston and five others were granted," in 1356, "by Henry, Duke of Lancaster to his college in the Newark at Leicester." About this time (before the year 1356) the Abbot and Convent of Whalley presented a petition to the Archbishop of York for a gift of the "wealthy benefice" of Preston church, partly on the ground of the large sum of £3,000 that their new buildings were estimated to cost. In their supplication the Abbot and Convent of Whalley pray :—

That you would charitably vouchsafe to them and their monastery of Whalley to unite canonically and to assign to their own uses for ever the parish church of Preston in Amounderness, of your diocese of York, and in the archdeaconry of Richmond, late of the presentation and collation of the noble lord Henry, Earl of Lancaster, the patronage and advowson whereof the same religious men have, by perpetual right and with sufficient authority, lawfully obtained for themselves and their monastery of Whalley, to be canonically possessed, by grant of the said Earl, so far as belonged to lay gift, whose fruits, income and annual receipts do not exceed [] pounds according to the tithe taxation. The perpetual vicar to receive £20 sterling a year.³

In the above-mentioned Subsidy Roll of York diocese, made in or close to 1380, we find the Rector of Preston assessed at 40s. 5d., the Rector of Ribchester at 11s. 2d., the Rector of Chipping at 8s. 6½d., the Vicar of Kirkham at 9s. 2d., and the Vicar of Garstang at 8s. 6½d. A list of 22 named chaplains in Amounderness deanery is also given. Unfortunately, the collectors give no names of rectors or vicars of North Lancashire parishes. Although the Roll thus fails to give the name of the Rector of Preston, it at least shows us that in 1380, or a year or two later, there was still a sole Rector of Preston, and that Preston church had not yet undergone impropriation.⁴

⁴ Clerical Subsidies, 37 (R.O.).

Between the last known date at which a Rector, and the earliest known date at which a Vicar of Preston, explicitly occurs, it will be noticed in Chapter II. that there is a gap of 40 years. It was during this interval (1374-1415) that the Dean and Canons of St. Mary Newark at Leicester became possessed of the impropriation of Preston church, by gift of their founder the Duke of Lancaster and agreement of every party concerned, and that a vicarage, of which they were patrons, was ordained.¹ No copy of the ordination of Preston vicarage is known to be extant. Upon the dissolution of the College of the Newark at Leicester in the reign of Edward VI., the patronage of Preston vicarage passed to the Crown, the Bold family thereto presenting more than once. In the early part of King James the First's reign, the advowson of the vicarage was conferred by that prince on Sir Richard Houghton, Knt., of Houghton Tower; most previous writers say the grant was made in 1607, but give no authority. In this family it remained for about two centuries, until 1828, when it was finally sold by Sir Henry Philip Hoghton, Bart., to the trustees of Hulme's Exhibitions, who are the present patrons thereof. To the Vicar of Preston now belongs the patronage of eight churches in the parish, and of two alternately with other patrons. Though they have parted with the advowson of the vicarage, the impropriate rectory of Preston in Amounderness, which apparently they acquired also from the British Solomon, still remains in the hands of the Hoghton family, Sir Charles de Hoghton, Bart., being the present lay Rector.

VISITATION OF THE PLAGUE, 1349-50.

In the English Historical Review for July, 1890, Mr. A. G. Little published a most interesting copy of several documents, lying in the Record Office, which concern the deanery of Amounderness.² These documents give approximately the number of persons who died between September 8, 1349, and January 11, 1350, while the plague, generally called the "Black Death," was raging, the number thus given being 13,180. This is no doubt a large sum total; but it must be variously called "St. Mary Newark," that is the "New Work," and the "New College."

² English Hist. Review, v., 524 et seqq.

remembered that historians say that one-half or one-third of the human race perished during that pestilence. In Norway, for example, according to the annals of the time, two-thirds of the whole population perished.¹ There is, therefore, hardly room for doubting the accuracy of the computation given in these documents. It should be stated that the Archdeacon of Richmond was dissatisfied with the accounts rendered by Adam Kirkham, Rural Dean of Amounderness, as his proctor in matters relating to wills and intestacy. The sums claimed by the Archdeacon, where they differed from the assessment of the jurors appointed to settle the matter, are crossed out in the documents (they are here put in square brackets), and the awards of the jurors substituted. The following, relating to Preston, is translated from the copy of the MSS. printed in the Historical Review and couched in Anglo-Norman French, a speech still alive then:—

“Item that within the parish of Preston there died 3000 men and women, of whom 300 made wills, and the goods of each were worth 100 shillings and more, and the said Sir Adam took for probate of the said wills more than he has computed [20 marks], the Jury say 10 pounds.

Namely, from the executors of William Mirreson and his wife, half a mark; from the executors of Thomas Mareschal and his wife, 6 shillings; from the executors of Robert Litester and his wife, 40 pence; Item from the executors of John Tilleson and his wife, 4 shillings; Item from the executors of William de Wrokhol [? Brockhole] and his wife, 40 pence; and from several others, to the said sum of twenty marks.

Item that the said Sir Adam took, received, or by right and custom of holy Church could have received, for the acquittances of the said wills, of which he has rendered no account [11 pounds].

Item that 200 parishioners of Preston church, each one's goods worth 100 shillings and more, died without making a will, and the administration of their goods belonged to and was for the archdeacon of Richmond, which administration was worth 10 pounds, of which administration he has rendered no account.

Namely, of the goods of Robert de Witeneye and his wife, which were worth 60 shillings; and of the wife of Long Aubrey, the goods 100 shillings. Item Richard Waddere and his wife, their goods 60 shillings. Item Jakke othe Hil, the goods 40 shillings; and the goods of several other intestates, whose administration was worth the said sum of ten pounds.”

VALUE OF PRESTON RECTORY AND VICARAGE.

In 1222-3, according to the Testa de Nevil, the church of Preston was appraised at 50 marks yearly. This differs considerably from the value given in the Taxatio P. Nicholai (p. 307), where the church in 1291 is set down as worth £66 13s. 4d.; and both estimates are widely different from that of Matthew Paris, who says that Preston church in 1252 was worth £100 a year. "Medio tutissimus ibis" may here be good counsel, accordingly the value given in Pope Nicholas's Taxation may perhaps be nearest the truth.¹ This appears to be borne out by the following extract translated from the Nonarum Inquisitiones in Curia Scaccarii, temp. Regis Edwardi III., page 37:—

"Inquisition of the Wapentake of Amounderness, taken at Preston on the Tuesday next following the feast of St. Peter's Chair (this feast is on the 18th January), in the fifteenth year of the reign of King Edward the Third after the Conquest (1342), before the Abbot of Furness and his associates, to inquire into and inform themselves of the true value of the ninth and fifteenth granted to our lord the King for two years in the county of Lancaster, assigned by Robert Ouswen (Curwen?), Lawrence Travers, Richard Cateral, Edmund Wedacre, William Singleton, Robert Blakeburne, Robert Prees, William son of Paulinus, William son of Roger Ethelston, Richard Ingolfheved, Robert Pulton, and Adam Blakeburne, sworn. Who, being questioned on their oath as to the true value and certain articles relating to the true value of the ninth of sheaves, fleeces and lambs coming from each parish of the said Wapentake for the first year of the said two years present as follows.

THE CHURCH OF PRESTON.

Taxed anciently at one hundred marks, but now at thirty-five marks, the ninth of sheaves, fleeces and lambs of the same parish is worth, according to the true value, 28 marks and 20 pence, for which the under-mentioned hamlets shall answer, namely:—Assheton, 36 shillings and 8 pence; Lee, 46 shillings and 8 pence; Broughton, 73 shillings and 4 pence; Barton, 66 shillings and 8 pence; Halghton, 28 shillings and 4 pence; Grimesargh, 30 shillings; Brockholes, 21 shillings and 8 pence; Ethelston,² 28 shillings and 4 pence; Ribbleton, 21 shillings and 8 pence; Fysshewyk, 21 shillings and 8 pence. The said sworn men, being asked why the said ninth does not reach the first tax, say that there are other things in which a great part of the true value of the said church consists, namely, the tithe of hay, which in ordinary years is worth 10 pounds; other small tithes, for example, fortieths of mills, fisheries, calves, fowls and other small things liable to tithes, which in ordinary years are worth 15 marks; offerings and other casual profits pertaining to the altarage, 5 marks; church glebe, which is worth 25 shillings a year. Also the ninth of sheaves, fleeces and lambs of the town of Preston, which is taxed by itself up to the ninth part of its goods because it is a burgh, is worth 7 marks, which is excepted from the above tax for the fore-mentioned reason. They also say that on vowson that lord died seised) to be worth £100 yearly.

account of the ravage there made by the Scots, and on account of other unendurable burdens which increase day by day, there are lands in the same parish lying waste and uncultivated to the detriment of the said tax up to 28 marks a year."

For all taxable purposes, Preston rectory continued for about two centuries to be valued at this greatly reduced sum. But in the Valor Ecclesiasticus of Henry VIII. (iv., 189), among the ten or eleven English or Welsh rectories impropriated to the New College of Leicester, the rectory of Preston in Amounderness is set down as worth £41 17s. a year. Even making all due allowance for the merciless harrying done by the Scots after Bannockburn, and for the bit of the rectory assigned for endowment of the vicarage, one would have expected this rectory to be worth more in 1535. It was, however, at this very rent of £41 17s. a year that Preston parsonage in 1521 was leased to Richard Hesketh by the Dean and Canons of St. Mary Newark at Leicester.

In the Valor Ecclesiasticus of Henry VIII. (v, 262), the endowment of Preston Vicarage appears as follows:—

Manse with garden thereto attached, worth yearly	2s.	0d.
Tithe of the portion of corn to this vicarage belonging	56s.	8d.
Tithe of wool and lambs	53s.	4d.
Tithe of calves	21s.	4d.
Small and privy tithes, offerings, and other things as in the Easter Book	14l 16s.	8d.
Sum Total of Gross Profits	22l 0s.	0d.
Reprises:—
Synodals	2s.	8d.
Yearly pension to the Lady Abbess of Sion Monastery	6l 13s.	4d.
Sum Total of Reprises	6l 16s.	0d.

The estimated value of Preston vicarage in 1535 is therefore yearly and clearly £15 4s.

At an inquisition,¹ taken at Preston in Amounderness, 21 June, 1650, before the Parliamentary Commissioners, it was testified upon the oath of 15 good and lawfull men of the Hundred of Amounderness:

"That the parish of Preston in the said Hundred doth contayne wthin itselfe the Viccaradge of Preston, beinge a Viccaridge representative by S^r Richard Hoghton, Baronett, Patron & Impropiator of the tithes of the whole parish (excepting the tithes of Barton & Elston);

And the said Jurors further say that there are two Chappells within the said parish, viz^t Broughton, four Myles distant from the Parish Church, being a Parochiall Chappell, to w^{ch} is onely allowed fourtie pounds p. annum by order from the Comittee for plundred Ministers, paid to Mr James Knott, now Minister there, the Inhabitants of Haighton, livinge within a Myle of Broughton Church and foure Myles from theire parish Church of Preston, together wth the Inhabitants of Broughton aforesaid, consistinge of three hundred families at the least, Humbly desire that they may be made a Parish, And that competent mayntenance may be allowed to the minist^r there. And that the Chappell of S^t Lawrence within Barton, seaven Myles from Preston, and hath neither Minist^r nor maintenance, the townp. large and consistinge of a great number of families, the Inhabitants humbly desire it may bee made a Parochial Chappell to Broughton and a minister and competent maintenance may bee allowed. The Inhabitants of Lea, distant from Preston three Myles and but a Myle from Lund Chappell, yet desire they may be continued to their Parish Church of Preston.

Writing in the year 1717, Bishop Gastrell says that in 1705 the Vicarage of Preston was certified by the Vicar as worth not above £57 (£4 of which was to be paid to the Curate of Broughton Chapel), viz. : —“one Acre of Land; Great Tithes of one Township about £12 per annum; Small Tithes and Easter Dues uncertain; the rest Surplice Fees.” By other accounts, he adds, “it appears to be a good £100 per annum, part of which is precarious; but the Vicar now allows it to be above £80 per annum, in such dues as may be legally demanded.”¹

In 1834 Preston vicarage was returned as worth £665; its present value (according to Crockford) is put at £850 per annum, with a house (or gross £930).

In the way of church extension nothing was achieved until the year 1716, when the elder Peploe, at that time Vicar of Preston, moved apparently by the alarming number of six Catholic priests in his parish, made a successful attempt to remedy the spiritual danger of the remoter portion of his flock by the erection of a chapel at Grimsargh² (see Chapter V.).

DEALINGS WITH THE GLEBE AND TITHE.

During the first half of the sixteenth century disputes were continually arising between various individuals who claimed to be lessees of the glebe lands and tithes of this parish, belonging to the Dean and Canons of St. Mary Newark at Leicester, Rectors or Impropriators of Preston Church, and the lessees of the vicarage lands. It would seem from what follows that the glebe and tithe of the rectory were let to the Heskeths of Rufford, and by the Heskeths sublet to the Osbaldestones of Osbaldeston; while the vicarage lands and tithes were leased to the Singletons of Broughton, whose sub-lessees were the Houghtons of Houghton Tower. The claims and counter claims (a summary of which is given) are extremely contradictory, but at the same time afford an interesting narrative.

On the 28th June, 1521, the parsonage of Preston and the demesne glebe lands belonging to the said parsonage, with the chapel of Broughton and all lands thereto belonging, were leased to Richard Hesketh, Esquire, for a term of five and twenty years, at the annual rent of £41 17s.¹ Within less than three years, upon the death of Richard Hesketh, a dispute arose, which was settled in 16 Hen. VIII. (1524) by the Chancellor of the Duchy and his Attorney General issuing their judgment upon the variances depending between Sir Richard Houghton, Knt., and Sir Alexander Osbaldeston, Knt., as to the title and possession of the farm of the parsonage of Preston in Amounderness. After reciting the means they had taken, by careful examination of witnesses, etc., to arrive at "the very true title thereof," they proceed to make their award in favour of Alexander Osbaldeston in the following terms:—

(1st) That the said Sir Alexander shall henceforth enjoy the said farm, and term of years yet enduring, expressed within the indenture made to Richard Hesketh deceased, by which indenture Sir Alexander had made his claim; and shall expel from the possession of the said farm Sir Richard Houghton and every person pretending to have any claim thereto from the said Sir Richard, or from John Singleton of Shingil hall, Esq., in whose title Sir Richard claims the said farm.

(2nd) Whereas Sir Richard Houghton and divers others have taken the whole profits of the farm for two years ended at the Feast of the Annunciation of the Blessed Virgin Mary without any lawful title, whereby Sir Alexander Osbaldeston has sustained great loss, the said Sir Richard is ordered to pay to the said Sir Alexander, in full recompense, in the "Lowe Church in the towne of Walton in the Dale at the feaste of St. Martyn in Wynter and Penthecost between x. of the clocke in the forenoon and ij of the clocke in the after none of eider of the same days," £75 sterling. Sir Richard Houghton was to be permitted to retain the profits of the farm in consideration of payment of the sum mentioned.

(3rd) Sir Alexander Osbaldeston had to discharge Sir Richard Houghton of the rents paid to the latter by the tenants of the farm; and both parties are ordered to withdraw all actions and suits against each other from the beginning of the world unto the last day of June next." Dated 14 July, 1524.

Thus was apparently confirmed the statement of the Dean of St. Mary Newark at Leicester, who some years before (1515-22) had charged John Singleton with forging certain grants of the advowson of Preston Church, as is set forth in the following summary of the Duchy Pleadings:—

William Knyght, Dean of St. Mary Newark or the New College of Leicester (1515-22), and the Canons of the same, complain to Sir Henry Marney, Knt., Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster, that whereas they are seized in their demesne as of fee, in right of the said College, of the advowson of the Vicarage of Preston in Amounderness, now John Singleton, gent., and Gilbert Beckynshawe, clerk, claim the next avoidance of the said Vicarage by reason of two pretended grants supposed to be made to them severally by the Dean and Canons of the said College, whereas of truth the said pretended grants are forged and untrue, to the jeopardy and "disheritson" of the plaintiffs.

Having no remedy by the common law but only in the County Palatine of Lancaster, where the said Singleton and Bekynshawe are so "kynned, allied and frended," that plaintiffs are not likely (they say) to "refourme" the said untruths, or to have an indifferent trial; therefore they pray that a writ of subpoena be directed to the said Singleton and Bekynshawe. ² of the same, with their common assent by deed sealed under their common seal, dated 1494, granted to the said John Singleton and Sir Alexander Osbaston [Osbaldeston], now Knt., and to James Singleton, the next avoidance of the said Vicarage, jointly and severally. Now of late (he adds) the said Vicarage void by the death of one Thomas Bolton, late Vicar there, which was the next avoidance of the said grant, by virtue whereof the said Sir Alexander of his good favour which he bore to Sir Robert Singleton, son of the said John Singleton, without the knowledge of the said John, presented the said Sir Robert to the Ordinary and to the Vicarage; whereupon the said Dean and Canons made their presentation to the said Vicarage of their clerk. By consent of both parties (he goes on to state) a commission to inquire de jure patronatus was awarded to certain persons, before whom the title of the said presentation to the next avoidance of the said Vicarage is found for the said Sir Alexander Osbaston, and thereupon his said incumbent is admitted and instituted. For this cause the Dean and Canons have a quare impedit hanging before the Justices at Lancaster for that presentation. The defendants therefore pray to be discharged from this wrongful vexation.

Thomas Hesketh succeeded to his brother Richard's estate, and thereupon sub-let Preston rectory lands, etc., to Sir Alexander Osbaldeston, Knt., for the term of years then remaining under the original lease. Sir Alexander, on 10 August, 1535, re-let the tithe corn and hay growing within the precinct of the township of Fishwick, being within the bounds of the parsonage, to Gilbert Osbaldeston, gent., William Evys of Fishwick, yeoman, and Edmund Sudell of Fishwick, yeoman, on a yearly tenancy. Whereupon the said tenants sub-let their rights and interest therein to Hugh Tyldsley of Osbaldeston, gent., who in 1536 entered a bill of complaint in the Duchy of Lancaster Court.¹ On the 10th February, 1535-6 (he says) the three lessors, along with Robert Woodcroft, yeoman, acting at the instigation of William Brown of Ribbleton, gent., with force and arms, came to the tithe barn of Fishwick, broke open the doors, and proceeded to carry off the tithe corn, to the utter undoing of the plaintiff.

Answering this complaint² William Browne and Robert Wood-croft say they know nothing of any lease made by the Dean and Chapter of St. Mary Newark at Leicester to Robert Hesketh. On the contrary they allege that John Singleton was the true lessee of the said Dean and Chapter for a term of years still enduring. In right of which lease the said John Singleton had granted his interest therein to Sir Richard Houghton, who in turn had sub-let the same to William Evys, Edmund Sudell and Robert Woodcroft.

Plaintiff, in his rejoinder,¹ states that his claim is made under a lease bearing date 10 January, 1517-18 [sic], granted by the Dean and Chapter to Richard Hesketh, for a term of 25 years, of all the lands, etc., belonging to the parsonage of Preston, except the mansion place, tithes in Ribbleton, Lea, Ashton Bank, and three burgages in Preston, then in the tenure of John Singleton; the said tithe corn and hay in Fishwick being parcel of what was leased to the said Richard Hesketh.

Then by deed dated the 12th December, 1531, the Dean and Chapter demised to Robert Hesketh, Esquire, a portion of the rectory or parsonage with the appurtenances for a term of years. Apparently the lease was renewed, for in 1560 Sir Thomas Hesketh, Knt., states that he then was, and for many years² had been enjoying the profits thereof. On the 31st March, 1560, however, Richard and Henry Curedall, accompanied by eight persons unknown, with force and arms and in very riotous manner, went to a certain messuage and 30 acres of land in Preston, parcel of the said rectory, late in the holding of Richard Curedall, deceased, and made attempt to expel Sir Thomas Hesketh from his lawful possession of the same. Accordingly he laid a complaint in the Duchy Court, adding that the Queen was then owner of the said rectory and parsonage by the statute of dissolution of Colleges and Chantries, and that his rent paid to the Queen in right of her Duchy was more than £40 a year.²

One of the defendants, Richard Curedall, gave a very different version of "the facts" of the case. He was not guilty of unlawful assembly (he asserts), because long before the said Robert Hesketh had any interest in the rectory of Preston, the Dean and Chapter of St. Mary Newark at Leicester, by deed dated in their Chapter House, 28 June 1521, demised the said premises to Richard Curedall, grandfather of defendant, for a term of 61 years, at a certain rent [amount not stated]. The premises comprised: "One house of iiij bayes newlie buylded, with one closse called Priests-crofte to the same house belonging."¹ Sir Thomas Hesketh replied with a simple denial of everything the defendant had said, and nothing further appears in the Pleadings.

In 1572 occurred another dispute with regard to Preston church lands, as appears from the complaint of Roger Fowke and Francis Fowke, administrators of the goods of Robert Bradshawe, deceased, in which they stated² :—

That whereas the Dean and Chapter of the New Collegiate Church of the Blessed Mary of Leicester by deed dated 28 August, 1545, had granted and to farm let to the said Robert Bradshawe their rectory of Preston in Amounderness and the benefice of the rectory of the said church, as well as all the glebe lands belonging thereto, with the chapel of Broughton, [and their lands in] Ribbleton, Ashton Bank, and Lea, and their burgages etc. with the tithe corn and hay and all other rights appertaining to the said rectory (excepting only the advowson of the vicarage of the said church of Preston), for a term of sixty years, rendering therefore yearly to the said Dean and Chapter and their successors £41 17s. By force of this agreement Robert Bradshawe was seized of the interest of the said term, and, being so seized, died intestate about January, 1554. After his death, by reason that he was possessed of divers goods in different dioceses, Matthew [Parker], Archbishop of Canterbury, by letters patent, dated 23 October, 1566, committed the administration of his estate to the plaintiffs, who thereupon took possession and entered into the said rectory in the year 1572, the reversion thereof belonging to the Queen and her noble progenitors in right of her Duchy. But of late (they say) Thomas Grymesdicke has so much disturbed them by taking possession of the premises that they (the plaintiffs) have been unable to pay the rent due. Accordingly a writ of Privy Seal is asked for.

In his answer, the defendant² Thomas Grymesdicke declares that the Queen was seised as of fee in right of her duchy of the said rectory of Preston. Her Majesty being so seised, by indenture of lease dated at Westminster 1 December 1571 demised to the defendant the said rectory as above, and the tithes of the Manor of Lea (except one burgage with a garden, a horse mill, and one furnace within the borough of Preston, late in the tenure of James Walton, and lately granted to Richard Venables and John Maynard; also the dwelling house of the parsonage of Preston, and the tenths of corn and hay of the villages of Lea and Ashton Bank, and three burgages in Preston which John Singleton lately held for certain years now ended, and the advowson of the said church) for a term of 21 years. By force of which agreement defendant took possession.

In the replication of the plaintiffs nothing fresh appears; and the Calendars are silent as to how the matter ended.

About 1515 the Dean and Canons of St. Mary Newark of Leicester "piteously compleyned" to the King that Dame Elizabeth Houghton, widow, late wife of Sir Alexander Houghton, Knight, deceased, for the space of two years past had received a great part and portion of the spiritual tithes of certain lands lying in the parish of Preston, which belonged and appertained to the said Dean and Canons. They state, in their petition, that Lady Houghton had done this without any grant, lease, or consent from them, or without any payment of money by her or any other in her name. They accordingly ask that letters of Privy Seal may be directed to the said Dame Elizabeth Houghton.¹

PRESTON CLERGY IN THE EARLY SIXTEENTH CENTURY.

The clergy in the parish of Preston, in 1525, with the clear annual value of their clerical incomes, are thus recorded* :—

Sir Robert Singleton, vicar, £7 10s. 4d.

Sir Roger Bradshaw, curate, £2 13s. 4d.

Sir Henry Coventry, chaplain, £3 6s. 8d.

Sir James Tarleton, chaplain, £3 6s. 8d.

Sir Robert Wilkinson, chaplain, £4.

Sir Richard Ainsworth, chaplain, £1 6s. 8d.

Sir Richard Walshman, chaplain, £2 13s. 4d.

From a Subsidy Book in the Record Office, dateless, but of the year 1530 or thereabouts, the following list is extracted, showing the names and yearly stipends of the clergy in Preston parish¹ :—

Sir Robert Singleton, vicar, £7 10s. 4d.
 Sir Roger Bradshaw, curate, £4 13s. 4d.
 Sir Robert Wilkinson, chaplain, £4.
 Sir Henry Coventry, chaplain, £3 6s. 8d.
 Sir Henry Arkwright, chaplain, £2.
 Sir Richard Walshman, chaplain, £2 13s. 4d.
 Sir Richard Kendall, chaplain, £2.
 Sir Ralph Ainsworth, chaplain, £1 6s. 8d.
 Sir Thomas Bostock, chaplain, £2.
 Sir Robert Swanley, chaplain, £2.
 Sir James ffidler, chaplain, £2.
 Sir Henry Helme, chaplain at Broughton, £2.

It may be useful for sake of comparison to state the numbers and stipends of the clergy in adjoining parishes at this period :—

In Lancaster parish, the vicar, curate, and eleven chaplains, who received amongst them £77.

In Cockerham parish, the vicar, and six chaplains, £22 13s. 4d.

In Garstang parish, the vicar, curate, and seven chaplains, £20 13s. 4d.

¹ Mr. C. T. Boothman sends me the following estimate of the clerical population of Preston parish at the beginning of Henry the Eighth's reign: "I account it as numbering about a dozen secular clergy, all told, I mean clerks who had reached the order of priesthood. These would be the Vicar of Preston and his parish priest (the name given in the middle ages to what we now commonly call the curate), the Curates of Broughton and Barton, the Master or Warden of Magdalen Free Chapel or his deputy, the chaplains or cantarists of the Rood chantry, of the Lady chantry, and of Fernyhalgh, and the chaplains of such gentry as might have episcopal or archidiaconal licence for a private oratory—say altogether about a dozen clergy, beneficed or unbeneficed, to whom add a few Franciscan friars, of whom perhaps three or four might be in priest's orders. As to clerks of first tonsure, clerks in minor orders, clerks in greater or holy orders below the order of priesthood, we have no data for making even an approximate reckoning of their number, which must always have been variable. If it be thought that the vicar and the parish priest or curate and the two chantry chaplains are an insufficient allowance for the parochial church of a town enjoying the dignity of a borough, I am quite willing to increase the allowance by one or two priests more. Unless they had a deacon or subdeacon to press into service (which I feel sure they generally had), the vicar and his parish priest would have been insufficient for the performance of Solemn High Mass. On the other hand, it may be that the chantry priests, by the conditions of their beneficial tenure, were bound to assist at the public offices of Preston church, if not even to help in the administration of the sacraments to the parishioners. What I should like to know is this—how was a poor, lean vicar with £15 income a year to pay the wages of more than one or two stipendiary chaplains?"

In Poulton parish, the vicar, curate, and two chaplains, £18 9s. 4d.

In Kirkham parish, the vicar, curate, and four chaplains, £27 6s. 8d.

In St. Michael's parish, the vicar, curate, and chaplain, £11 6s. 8d.

In Lytham parish, the curate, £4.

In Chipping parish, the rector and curate, £16 10s.

In Ribchester parish, with extraparochial Stydd, the rector, curate cantarist, and two chaplains, £29 13s. 4d.¹

Preston parish, it will be observed, was second in this list.

MASS UNDER QUEEN ELIZABETH.

The following incident, slight in itself, affords an idea of the "thorough" manner in which Dr. William Chaderton, Bishop of Chester (1579-95), carried out the instructions of his superiors in matters ecclesiastical² :—

William Cowell, of Preston, deposed "that on Monday, 8th March, he took Edmond Haworth, priest, saying mass after the popish manner, in a loft at the east end of the house of one Dilworth, a widow, in the village of Broughton, about 10 o'clock in the morning, attired in massing apparel, wearing a vestment, albe and stole, and with a mass book, a superaltar, chalice containing wine, and a patten, with other massing furniture. There were present on the occasion the said widow, and Nicholas, John, and Edward Dilworth, her sons, with two of her daughters, certain women, and a poor old man." The informer goes on to tell how he went secretly to the place "of verie purpose to take the said priest," but so frightened was he with what he had done and so terrified with the cries of "strike, strike, kill, kill, now or never," with which he was assailed, that he promised to say nothing, and not only restored to the priest the patten and chalice he "had there and then partly taken," but also accepted seven nobles to conceal the matter. He adds that as soon as he had escaped from "his danger" he disclosed the affair to the Mayor of Preston and certain Justices of the Peace, and that he had thought good for the discharge of his "duty to God and his prince" to inform the Bishop, so that punishment may be executed upon them, "to the terror of all such heinous offenders, and to the suppression of such abominable idolatry and superstition."

So fully is this important period in local ecclesiastical affairs dealt with in Chapter II., that no further reference is necessary to the events which took place in the neighbourhood of Preston from about 1560 to 1590.

THE GREAT PLAGUE, 1630-1631.

In the Parish Register under date, November, 1630, is the brief but terribly pregnant sentence:—"Heare begineth the Visitation of Allmighty God the Plague."

The Guild Order Book, 6 & 7, Chas. I. (1630-1) has the following record of this awful visitation:—

"The great sickness of the plague of pestilence, wherein the number of eleven hundred p'sons and upwards dyed within the Towne and Parish of Preston, begann about the tenth day of November, in Anno 1630, and continued the space of one whole yeare next after. Will'm Preston, Maior."

From the list of burials printed in Chapter IV. of this work, it will be seen that in some instances whole families were swept away; that many of the best inhabitants bearing the oldest names in the district were carried off by the contagion. So calamitous was the effect of the plague upon the trade of the town that prosperity was not restored when the Civil War broke out eleven years later. The Parliamentary Commissioners in 1650 stated that the Vicarage of Preston in 1620 was worth about 100 marks, but significantly add, "in these distracted times the same is not so much worth."

Under the Commonwealth, as is noted in Chapter II., Preston was the meeting place of the Seventh Presbyterian Classis of Lancashire, and usually the meeting place of the Lancashire Provincial Synod.

The modern history of Preston Parish Church is fully dealt with in the various chapters which follow. A few words may be added as to the extent and situation of the parish, since 1847 included in the modern diocese of Manchester. In length it extends from Ashton on the S.W. to Elston on the E.N.E., eight miles; and in breadth, seven miles, from Preston on the S. to Barton on the N., comprising an area of 12,588 statute acres. The remarkably fine site upon which the town is built has been often described in glowing terms, by none more glowingly than by the historian of Lancashire who, when speaking of "the spirit of St. Wilfrid himself"¹ as being responsible for the choice of situation, certainly lets his patriotism for his birthplace outrun his discretion. There appears no reason to doubt the correctness of the generally supposed origin of the name "Preston," namely from some very ancient ecclesiastical establishment, whether British or English, that obtained for the place the name of Priests' town.²

² Not Priest's town, as commonly stated, but Priests' town—in old English

Preōsta tūn, preōsta being genitive plural of preōst, priest, which is a contraction or corruption of Latin presbyter.

CHAPTER II.

The Rectors and Vicars of Preston.

HE previously published lists of Rectors of Preston, before the impropriation of the rectory to the College of St. Mary Newark at Leicester, are so exceedingly deficient and incorrect, that I may be pardoned for saying that the list, as printed below, contains a good deal that will be new to antiquaries generally. For the major part of it and for many of the particulars I am indebted to Mr. C. T. Boothman, of London. A hasty comparison of the list below printed with that in Harland's edition of Baines's Lancashire, or in Hardwick's or in Hewitson's Preston, will go a long way to make the reader wonder how such ludicrous blunders could possibly get into print, and whether it would be easy to match such a farrago of rubbish as is contained in those lists of the Rectors and Vicars of Preston before the middle of the sixteenth century.

² Lawrence Wall, described by Whittle as brother to Evan Wall, Mayor of Preston, has generally been regarded as Vicar of Preston about 1562, but, failing satisfactory proof, I have deemed it best to omit his name from this list. In 1562 one Lawrence Wall was Clerk of Preston Guild.

ADOMAR DE LA ROCHE, 1196.

As we learn from the Coucher Book of Lancaster Priory (Harl. MSS., 3764), 80b,¹ Adomar de la Roche was presented to Preston Rectory by Theobald Walter, Lord of Amounderness, and duly instituted, being the first clerk presented to this church after the fine levied in May, 1196, between Theobald Walter and the Abbot and Convent of Séez in Normandy. Thus was he the first Rector of Preston to be charged with the annual payment of ten marks to Séez Abbey, or rather to the Priory of Lancaster, a cell of that alien house.

RALPH DE LA TOUR, 1201.

Of this Rector we know only that he was presented by King John, 25 February, 1200-1 (Rotuli Chartarum, 101b). The royal order for institution ran as follows:—"John, &c., to the officials of the arch-deaconry of Richmond, greeting. Know ye that we have given to our beloved clerk Ralph de la Tour the church of Preston, which is void and of our gift. Furthermore, we command you that ye forthwith receive him to that church at our presentation and thereto institute him parson. Witness myself, at Merton, the 25th day of February, in the second year of our reign."

PETER RUSSINOIL, 1202.

On 11 July, 1200, Peter Russinoil, or Russingnol, received a grant of £100 yearly out of the King's Chamber until he should be provided with an ecclesiastical benefice of equal value (Pat. Rolls, 2 John; Harl. MSS., 6957, 13). To Preston rectory we find him presented by King John in 1202 (Pat. Rolls 4 John, m. 11, n. 25; Harl. 6957, 17). From 1205 to 1210 he was Keeper of the Seal to Peter des Roches, Bishop of Winchester (Millard and Baigent's Hist. of Basingstoke, 325). On 26 June, and again on 1 Nov., 1213, during vacancy of the see of York, he was presented by King John to the precentorship of York minster (Le Neve's Fasti, iii., 154). And in 1236 he was admitted

Rector of Adderbury, in Oxfordshire. on presentation of the Bishop of Winchester (Harl. 6950, 120). It is recorded that Peter Russinoil gave up Farnham Castle, committed to his care, 17 June, 1238 (Harl. 6957, 74). In the "Testa de Nevil" (page 401) occurs the following reference to him:—"Ecclesia de Preston est de donacione domini Regis occasione terre de Aumundernesse. Petrus Russinol tenuit ex dono domini Regis J. et mortuus est"

AMER DES ROCHES (1222-1241).

In the "Testa de Nevil," page 371, is the following entry (1222-3):—"Ecclesia de Preston est de donacione & dominus J. Rex dedit eam semel Petro Russinol qui obiit & dominus H. Rex qui nunc est iterum dedit eam Henrico nepoti episcopi Winton' & valet L marcas." It is not inconceivable, I think, that "Henry, nephew of the Bishop of Winchester," mentioned in the above extract, supposing him indeed to be Henry des Roches, is really identical with Aimery des Roches. The names "Henricus" and "Emericus" might be mistaken one for the other. In 25 Hen. III. (1240-1), Emericus des Roches claims Chipping church as a member of the church of Preston (Piccope MSS., viii., 155)—an attempt to establish that Chipping was a chapel of Preston parish, and not an independent parochial church, which utterly failed.

WILLIAM HAVERHULL, 1243-1252.

William Haverhull, or Haverhill, was constituted the King's Treasurer in 1240, at which time he also occurs as Canon of London (Matthew Paris, Chronica Majora sub. anno). He had previously been Rector of Luffenham, in 1228 (Harl. 6957, 51), and in 1241 King Henry presented him to "Wensintre" rectory in the diocese of Winchester (ibid., 80), and, in the following year to a prebend in the church of Lichfield (ibid., 82).

On 3 July, 1243, he was presented by the King to the rectory of Preston (Pat. Rolls, 27 Hen. III., m. 3; Harl. 6957, 85), which at this time was said to be worth £100 a year or more (Matth. Paris, under 1252).

In May, 1246, he occurs as Rector of Stotttesten, in Shropshire; the benefice being contested by a papal provisor, William Haverhull was summoned out of the realm, whereat the King was furiously indignant, describing his treasurer as "unum non solum de magnatibus sed de majoribus regni nostri" (Lansdowne MSS., 967, 14b; Eyton's Shropshire, iv., 157). He was also Prebendary of S. Mary's, Shrewsbury (Harl. 6957, 105). In 1190 one William Haverille was Sheriff of London (Chron. Majora Lond., Camden Soc.); possibly he was akin to the Rector of Preston. William Haverhull died 23 August, 1252.

Says Matthew Paris:—"On the same day as the King arrived at St. Albans, as above mentioned, namely, on the eve of St. Bartholomew, there died at London William de Haverhull, Canon of St. Paul's, and Treasurer to the King, having devoted many years of his life to his Sovereign's faithful service. It was believed that the King would install John the Frenchman in Haverhull's office, but it having been reported that John had died in the North, whither he had gone to plead against certain religious people, Philip Lovel, clerk, was appointed to fill the vacancy" (Chronica Majora ii., 514, Bohn's edit.). His so-called epitaph, given by Matthew Paris, is translated as follows:—

William, the King's High Treasurer, here lies:
Nor e'er will mourning Haverhull give birth
To any like him. Whilst he was on earth,
She furnished him as well as she was able
With costly wines and viands for his table,
But now Christ's kingdom is his heavenly prize.

ARNULF, 1252-1256.

Two days after the death of William Haverhull, viz., 25 August, 1252, Henry III. gave Preston rectory to one Arnulf (Pat. Rolls 36 Hen. III., m. 3; Harl. MSS., 6957, 105), a chaplain of his half-brother Geoffrey Lusignan, which chaplain was used as a fool or buffoon by the King and Geoffrey. Very outspoken is Matthew Paris in his strictures of "how the King distributed vacant revenues amongst unworthy persons." As if in revenge (he says) for the opposition of the prelates to his wishes, the King "continued to distribute the vacant escheats and revenues amongst unknown, illiterate, scurrilous, and utterly undeserving foreigners, in order to inflict an irreparable wound upon the heads of his natural subjects." The case of Arnulf is mentioned by Paris as "one out of many." "In the service (he says) of Geoffrey de Lusignan, the King's brother, was a certain chaplain, who served as a fool and buffoon to the King, the said Geoffrey, his master, and all the court, and whose sayings, like those of a silly jester and club-bearer, contributed to their amusement, and excited their laughter; and on this man the King bestowed the rich church of Preston, which had formerly belonged to William Haverhull, the lately-deceased treasurer of the King, the yearly proceeds of which church amounted to more than a hundred pounds. This same chaplain, a Poitevin by birth, utterly ignorant alike in manners and learning, we have seen pelting the King, his brother Geoffrey, and other nobles, whilst walking in the orchard of St. Albans, with turf, stones, and green apples, and pressing the juice of unripe grapes in their eyes, like one devoid of sense. Despicable alike in his gesture, mode of speech, and habits, as well as in size and personal appearance, this man might be considered as a stage actor rather than a priest as he was, to the great disgrace of the priestly order. Such are the persons to whom the King of England intrusts the care and guardianship of many thousands of souls, rejecting such a vast number of learned, prudent, and proper men as England has given birth to, who know the language of the natives, and how to instruct the ignorant. "This digression from the subject of our narrative," patriotically and pathetically remarks the chronicler, "is elicited by our sorrow for the causes of it." Truly, it is no pleasant picture thus vividly brought before us (Matthew Paris, Chronica Majora, under 1252; Bohn's Edition, ii., 522-3).

This precious Arnulf was also Archdeacon of Thouars¹ (Harl. 6957, 113, 117) and Prebendary of York, receiving the latter preferment from the King, 18 May, 1255 (Pat. Rolls, 39 Hen. III., m. 8; Harl. 6957, 113.) He died shortly before the 2 May, 1256 (Harl. 6957, 117.)

HENRY DE WINGHAM, 1256-1262.

Born at Wingham in Kent, whence he took his name, Henry de Wingham was probably bred in some office of the Exchequer, since he was entrusted with the spending of £200 in 26 Hen. III., and in 1245 was assigned, together with John de Grey, Justice of Chester, to assess the tallage for that city (Foss's Judges). At the time he was deacon, but there is nothing wonderful in his being Archdeacon of Thouars in his native Poitou, and one of the three archdeaconries of the diocese of Poitiers.

one of the King's Escheators (Ibid). In 1252 Henry Wingham became Chamberlain of Gascony; furthermore we read of his employment in two embassies into France (Ibid). King Henry, who held him in high favour, gave him, on the 13th Jan., 1254-5, the deanery of the collegiate church of Tettenhall in Staffordshire (Harl. MSS. 6957, 112).

On the 22nd May, 1256, he had his royal master's presentation to our rectory of Preston (Pat. Rolls, 40 Hen. III., m. 13; Harl. 6957, 117; and on the 2nd Nov., 1257, he was presented by the King to the neighbouring rectory of Kirkham (Pat. Rolls, 42 Hen. III., m. 17; Harl. 6957, 124). Meanwhile, on the 5th Jan., 1255-6, the great seal was delivered into his keeping (Foss). Provision for a yearly income of 300 marks sterling in ecclesiastical benefices in Ireland of royal gift was made for the new Keeper on the 25th Nov. following (Harl. 6957, 116). On the 6th March, 1257, he acquired of Bishop Bronescombe the Chancellorship of Exeter Cathedral (Le Neve, i., 417), having two or three years previously been promoted to the rich deanery of the collegiate church or royal free chapel of St. Martin-le-Grand, London (Harl. 6957, 116, 117, 130). He also held, at one time or another, the following preferments:—Rectories of Worfield in Shropshire (Ibid, iii., 138; Eyton's Shropshire, iii., 119), Milsted in Kent (Harl. 6957, 97, 109, 112), Charlwood in Surrey (Ibid, 84), Handborough in Oxfordshire (Ibid, 109), Pulham in Norfolk (Ibid, 110), Thingden in Northamptonshire (Bridge's Northamptonshire, ii., 160), Grimsby in Lincolnshire (Harl. 6957, 106, 130), Woolsteston in Shropshire (Ibid, 110), etc.; and prebends in the cathedral or collegiate churches of Exeter (Harl. 6979, 44), Sarum (Jones's Fasti Eccl. Sarisb., 446), London (Newcourt's Repert. i., 187; Le Neve, ii., 417), Hastings (Harl. 6957, 109), and Bridgenorth (Eyton, i., 121).

Henry Wingham was one of the twelve men on the King's side who were appointed by the Mad Parliament of Oxford, in June, 1258, to take part in making provision for the government of the realm (Foss). On the 12th January, 1259-60 the monks of St. Swithin's at Winchester chose him for their bishop; but, doubtful perhaps of the King's real approval, he declined the proffered mitre and with it the richest bishopric in England, alleging his insufficiency. However, not long afterwards his scruples vanished, for on the 15th February, 1259-60, he was consecrated Bishop of London in the priory church of St. Mary Overies in Southwark, by Boniface of Savoy, Archbishop of Canterbury, King Henry having assented to his election some eight months before (Le Neve, ii., 285; Newcourt, i., 14; Stubb's Registrum, 44; Pat. Rolls, 43 Hen. III., m. 7; Harl. 6957, 130). Moreover, on 14th July, 1259, he received the King's leave to retain, along with the bishopric of London, and so long as the Pope should allow, his deaneries of St. Martin's and Tattenhall, and his rectories of Alveley (which was his Bridgenorth prebend), Worfield, Kirkham, Preston, and Grimsby Pat. Rolls, 43 Hen. III., m. 6; Harl. 6957, 130). With all these additions his yearly income could not have fallen very short of that of his episcopal brother of Winchester. On the 18th October following his episcopal consecration he withdrew from the office of Keeper of the Great Seal (Foss). This "discreet and circumspect courtier" died July 13th, 1262, and was buried in his own cathedral church. His tomb stood on the south wall of old St. Paul's, above the choir; the epitaph thereon we here reproduce from Dugdale's History of St. Paul's, where may be seen likewise an engraving of the whole monument (pp. 80, 81):—

"HENRICUS DE WENGHAM, REGI HENRICO TERTIO A SACRIS, & CANCELLARIUS, DECANUS DE TOTENHALE, & S. MARTINI LONDINI, CAMERARIUS GASCONIÆ; VIR (UT INQUIT FLORILEGUS) EURIALIS, DISCRETUS & CIRCUMSPECTUS, ELECTUS ANNO CHRISTI MCCLIX. WINTONCENSIS EPISCOPUS, CONSENTIRE MOLUIT: TANDEM, POST MORTEM FULCONIS BASSET, HUIUS ECCLESIE PONTIFICIS, EODEM ANNO IN EPISCOPUM LONDINI CONSECRACTUS FUIT; SED VIX TRIBUS ANNIS SEDIT."

Bishop Wingham founded a perpetual chantry of two chaplains at St. Michael's altar in St. Paul's to offer masses for his soul.

WALTER MERTON, 1262.

Walter Merton is commonly supposed a native of Merton in Surrey, but in Baigent and Millard's recently published History of Basingstoke it seems conclusively shown that he was born at Basingstoke, where his father William and mother Christina, daughter of Walter Fitz-Oliver of Basingstoke, lived, and in whose church they are buried. Moreover, at Basingstoke Walter Merton inherited property and founded a hospital; so that, as Bishop Hobhouse says, he was connected with Basingstoke "through property and through blood."

It would appear that he took his surname of Merton from Merton Priory, where he was bred, and where a Basingstoke man, Henry Basynges, was Prior from 1231 to 1238.

Becoming one of the clerks or masters in chancery, Walter Merton received various ecclesiastical preferments, among which were prebends in St. Pauls, Exeter, Salisbury, and Wells (Newcourt's Repertorium, i., 169; Jones's Fasti Eccl. Sarisb., 372, 342, &c.); as also the rectories of Preston, Braunston, Stratton St. Margaret, Cuddington, etc. Foss states that in 1258 and 1259 "several records show that the Great Seal was temporarily placed in his hands, no doubt as one of the clerks in Chancery." In the former year he was entrusted with "an important diplomatic mission relating to the kingdom of Sicily" (Hist. Basingstoke, 571-2). On the 5th July, 1261, he was made Chancellor, and so continued for two years. For his services during this troubled time he was rewarded with our rectory of Preston, receiving the King's presentation thereto 20 June, 1262 (Pat. Rolls, 46 Hen. III., m. 9; Harl. MSS., 6957, 140). In 1263, he was superseded in the Chancellorship by his predecessor, Nicholas de Ely; however, in 1272, upon the accession of King Edward I., absent in the Holy Land, the Council selected him to fill the office of Chancellor, a choice the new King warmly approved.

About July 20, 1274, Chancellor Merton was elected Bishop of Rochester, resigning the Great Seal about two months after his episcopal election. His consecration took place at Gillingham on the 21st October following, at the hands of Robert Kilwardby, Archbishop of Canterbury. After occupying his see for little more than three years, Bishop Merton caught his death by being thrown from his horse into the water while attempting to cross a stream (some say the Medway), October 27, 1277, and was buried in Rochester Cathedral.

The original marble slab covering his tomb, under an arch at the north end of the north choir transept, and inlaid with brass of costly Limoges work, was horribly defaced at the Reformation. In 1598 a recumbent effigy of alabaster was substituted for it at the instance of Sir Henry Saville, Warden, and the Fellows of Merton College. A fine engraving of it will be found in Nichols's Leicestershire, ii., 648*. In 1852 this tomb underwent a thorough and tasteful repair. It stood next to the shrine of St. William.

Bishop Merton's character has been happily described in Leonine hexameters in the Chronicon of Thomas Wykes, Canon of Osney Abbey, for the following rendering of which verses I am indebted to Mr. C. T. Boothman:—"In the same year [1277], upon the eve of Simon and Jude the Apostles, died Walter Merton, Bishop of Rochester, of whose character a certain versifier hath written:—

"There was a bishop of Walter hight,
In Rochester his throne,
A blameless pontiff, passing bright
His crown of virtue shone.
From Merton fair, it so befell,
He drew his honoured name,
For pleasant carriage bore the bell,
Unspotted was his fame.
Modest in speech, in promise sure,
A righteous man was he,
Wary in counsel, generous, pure,
Nor scorning company.
Clerks loved he well, to them his hand
Free maintenance did give;
A house, wherefore the student band
Shall bless him while they live.
And Oxford University
By him doth bloom amain;
The Almighty King that rules on high Ease Walter of his pain."

But, as Nichols says, what has rendered Merton's life most illustrious, was the munificent foundation of the college which bears his name. For it ought not to be forgotten that Merton College at Oxford was the "first literary community in the kingdom that had the sanction of a royal charter," being incorporated in 1263-4, in 1270, and again in 1274. Its rules served as a pattern to the sister University on the foundation of Peterhouse. Trusted alike by king and nobles, Walter Merton was undoubtedly one of the ablest statesmen and prelates of the glorious 13th century. (Nicholas's Leicestershire, ii., 648; Hobhouse's Sketch of Merton's Life).

From his will, made the 29th March, 1275, I gather the following extracts, rendered into English:—

"To the same holy and undivided Trinity do I commend my spirit, my body I leave to be buried in the church of St. Andrew of Rochester [his cathedral church], should I die without the county of Southampton, but should the mercy of God grant me to die within the aforesaid county, then [I leave my body to be buried] with the bodies of my parents in the church of St. Michael of Basingstoke." For the bishop's soul five chaplains are to celebrate masses for a twelvemonth at Basingstoke or thereabouts, and five more during the same space of time at Rochester. "To the bishop my successor, and to my church of Rochester, I bequeath my precious mitre, together with my precious pastoral staff and one of my rings." Fifty marks are left to the Convent of Rochester to provide a yearly obit for for the bishop's soul, with ten shillings worth of bread to be distributed on that day to the poor. "To the poor of Staindrop, 20 marks; to the poor of Sedgefield, 40 marks; to the poor of Hautwyse (Haltwhistle?) 25 marks; to the poor of Barningham, 10 marks; to the embellishment of the same church, 100 shillings; to the poor of Cuddington, 20 marks; to the poor of Braunston, 15 marks; to the poor of Finsbury [his prebend in St. Paul's], 40 shillings; to the poor of my Sarum prebend, 30 marks, to wit, 18 marks at Bere, and 12 marks at Charminster.Also one hundred marks to provide a chaplain to celebrate for ever in the aforesaid hospital [of St. John the Baptist at Basingstoke] or in the church of St. Michael of Basingstoke, if my body shall therein be buried.Also to the same [Mr. William Ewell, my nephew, I bequeath] six silver dishes and my great mazer bowl that is at Sedgefield, and be there paid him out of the fruits of the church of Sedgefield each year from the time of my consecration, one hundred pounds, the residue to go to the supplementing of my will.In like manner be it done to John de la Clyve, my nephew, every year, from the time of the said consecration, so that there be paid him fifty pounds a year, the residue to go to the supplementing of my will."

Walter Merton's bequests to Staindrop, Sedgefield, and Haltwhistle, together with his bequest of ten marks to the Friars Minor of Hartlepool and of a like sum to the Friar Preachers of Newcastle-upon-Tyne, show plainly enough that he had preferment within the diocese of Durham, which preferment perhaps was bestowed upon him by Nicholas Farnham, a Hampshire man, who was Bishop of Durham from 1241 to 1249.

The will being long and its legacies exceedingly numerous, I have space for no more excerpts therefrom, beyond simply stating that to the House of Scholars of Merton are left one thousand marks; to the Hospital of St. John the Baptist at Basingstoke (another foundation of good Bishop Merton's), four hundred and fifty marks, besides one hundred for the chantry mentioned above; and to King Edward the First the testator's best cup of silver with cover, together with a pair of silver basins.

in Archbishop Peckham's Register at Lambeth.

JAMES FAIRSTEAD, until 1321.

James Fairstead, ffayrestede or ffayreforde, was Rector of Preston early in the 14th century (Coucher Book of Lancaster Priory, Harl. MSS., 3,764, 68a). In 1321, he exchanged livings with his successor, Thurstan Holland, Rector of Hanbury, in Staffordshire (Add. MSS., 6,065, 267).

THURSTAN HOLLAND, 1321-(1347).

Thurstan Holland, or Holand, as already stated, was Rector of Hanbury, and was instituted to Preston by exchange, at the end of 1321 (Add. MSS., 6065, 267), the Earl of Lancaster being then patron of the rectory (Harl., 3,764, 81a).

On the Thursday before the Conversion of St. Paul, 1323-4, he was cast in the Court of York for despoiling the Prior of Lancaster of certain tithes in Fulwood Forest and elsewhere, and was condemned in 50 marcs for expenses of the cause (Harl. 3,764, 68b).

Thurstan Holland was Rural Dean of Amounderness, in which capacity, along with the Rector of St. Michael's-on-Wyre, he received a letter from the Vicar-general of the Archdeacon of Richmond, dated 23 August, 1345, giving them power to enforce certain repairs in connexion with the church of Poulton and the chapel of Bispham. (Misc. Chart., xviii., 1227).¹ He still occurs Rector of Preston in 1347, beyond which date we lose sight of him (Piccop's MSS., x., 9, 13, 15; Harl., 3764, 79b, 80a).²

HENRY WALTON, 1348.

Henry Walton was instituted to Preston rectory 24 Sept., 1348, on presentation of Henry, Earl of Lancaster (Harl. 6951, 256), the appointment being ratified by the King 4 Nov., 1354 (Harl. 6960, 39). Besides this parsonage, he at one time or another acquired a prebend in St. Mary's by Leicester Castle, the prebend of Henstridge in the church of Wells (1352), Botevant prebend in the church of York (1355), the prebend of Highworth in the church of Sarum (1350), the prebend of Yetminster Secunda in the same church (1352), the prebend of Nassington in the church of Lincoln (1351) (Harl. 6965, 248; 6959, 305, 311; 6960, 39). On 18 July, 1349, he became Archdeacon of ¹ Also see Cheth. Soc. (N.S.) viii., 38, 207-8.

² It is probable that Thurstan Holland was a member of the family of that name long settled in Lancashire.

Richmond, in which office he was confirmed by the King 4 Nov., 1354 (Harl. 6960, 39). As mentioned in chapter I., Henry Walton was Archdeacon of Richmond while the Black Death raged in Lancashire, "Sir Adam de Kirkham, Dean of Amounderness," being the Procurator of "Sir Henry de Walton, Archdeacon of Richmond." It will have been noticed that the archdeacon was dissatisfied with the account rendered by the dean, and so the dispute was referred to a local jury, who appear simply to have ignored many of the archdeacon's claims for the administration of the goods of persons dying intestate. Two years later (in October, 1351), Henry Walton "personally visited" the archdeaconry, and called upon the prior and monks of St. Mary's, Lancaster, to show their right to hold (amongst other things) the parish church of Poulton-le-Fylde, with Bispham chapel. Replying satisfactorily to this inquiry, they were "dismissed in peace" and confirmed in their possessions, "the rights, liberties, customs, and honour" of the archdeaconry being duly safeguarded (Antiq. Cartæ, E. 8; Chet. Soc. (N. S.), viii., 38, 39, 205-7). Henry Walton died in 1359.

ROBERT BURTON, 1359-(1361).

Robert Burton was instituted Rector of Preston, 9 December, 1359, on presentation of Henry, Duke of Lancaster (Piccoppe MSS., iv., 149). In 1326 he (or a namesake of his) was presented to the free chapel of South Ockenden in Essex, and two years later to the same church under the name of rectory (Newcourt, ii., 448). He also seems to have held the prebends of Netherbury-in-Terra and Shipton in the church of Salisbury, and the Rectory of Ripple in Worcestershire (Harl. 6,960, 126; 6,957, 99; Jones, 408); and on 27 July, 1345, the see being void, the King appointed him Archdeacon of Winchester (Harl. 6,959, 206).

From Early Lincoln Wills (page 23) I cull the following abstract:—Robert de Burton, Rector of Preston in Amounderness. Dated at Leicester Abbey, 16 Jan., 1360 [fo. 157.] To be buried according to the disposition of my friends, ita quod corpus meum & alia membra mea revestiantur ad modum capellani prout moris est in isto casu. To my mother Matilda de Burton, lx marcas, & parvum cultellum meum quem solebam portare. My brother Thomas, John, and William de Burton. My sister Alice de Claxton and her son Robert. My sister Lady Cecilia de Burton, a nun of Wykham. John de Claxton. My brother William's wife and children. My brother William to be compelled to account for the emoluments of my church received by him. Bequests to my niece Matilda de Seuynnton, and to Alice, bastard daughter of my brother William, to be in the disposition of my mother and my brother Thomas. Dns. Roger de Burton. My chantry priest. Executors:—John Aubrey, John de Clayton, and Robert Lannay, my clerk. Supervisors: My mother and my brother Thomas. Witnesses: John Spicer and Wm. de Seuynnton. No probate annexed.

JOHN CHARNELS, (1366)-1374.

A notable man in his day was this Rector of Preston. Sprung from a great Leicestershire stock, he is described in 1366 as a Knight's son, of the blood of Earls and Barons; for 26 years and more he has served the King in various offices—as Keeper of the Great Wardrobe, as Constable of Bordeaux, etc.; he is a priest, now 60 years old and more; the expenses of his household commonly amount to £50 sterling a year; he was locum tenens of Henry, Duke of Lancaster, and principal executor of his will (Add. MSS., 6,069, 96). In 1338-9 John Charnels was presented by the King to the rectory of Tredington in Worcestershire; in 1342 we find him exchanging Alton Barnes for some Upton in Wiltshire; and in 1350 he became Rector of Swepstone in Leicestershire (Harl. 6,959, 135; Phillips, 37; Nicholls iii., 1,038). King Edward the Third in 1344 constituted him Keeper of the Great Wardrobe (Rot. Scacc. Abbrev. ii., 166). He occurs as Constable of Bordeaux on the 1st Dec., 1351 (Rymer, old edit., v, 730). As Rector of Preston in Amounderness he occurs 21 Sept., 1366, when the taxation (he says) was 35 marks, having been 80 marks before the Scottish war; then it was that he exhibited to the Bishop of Coventry and Lichfield the full tale of his ecclesiastical benefices and their several values, which exhibition was certified to the Archbishop of Canterbury by the said Bishop on the 28th Nov. following. It may be remarked that these exhibitions were in accordance with Pope Urban the Fifth's constitution of 1366 against "plurals," or, as we now call them, pluralists (Add. MSS., 6069, 96). In 1367 he occurs as Rector of Burton-in-Wirral, which means Master of Denwell Hospital, to which that church was inappropriate. As to prebends in cathedral churches, he at one time or other held the following :—a prebend in the church of Ferns (conferred on him seemingly by William Charnells, Bishop of Ferns from 1350 to 1362, doubtless his kinsman); the York prebend of Laughton-en-le-Morthen; the York prebend of Langtoft, which, as he states, was taxed at £100, the true value yearly and clearly being not above £47 17s.; and the Lichfield prebend of Colwich (Add. MSS., 6,069, 96; Harl. 6,959, 170; Le Neve, i., 591). On 15 September, 1344, the King nominated him for Chancellor of Hereford, a dignity he soon vacated (Harl. 6,959, 197); and in 1364-5, he figures as one of the executors of the will of Henry, Duke of Lancaster (Cotton Charters, xvi., 62). John Charnells died in 1374, aged about sixty-eight years (Le Neve, i., 591).

RALPH ERGHUM, 1374.

Absurdly described in previously printed lists as "L.B. of Cocker-sand Abbey," Ralph Erghum, was juris civilis professor (that is, LL.D.) et Lancastriæ Cancellarius (Harpfield 555, Camden Soc.). His earliest preferment that we know of was the Yorkshire Rectory of Winestead; as parson there and juris civilis professor we come across him on the 21st Mar., 1369-70, when William Whittlesey, Archbishop of Canterbury, issued a commission of dispensation for his admission as Advocate of the Arches Court (Add. MSS., 6070, 18). Erghum was a fairly common name in Preston from the fourteenth to the middle of the sixteenth century. In the Guild of 1397 William de Ergh'm occurs as Guild Mayor, along with several of the same name, so that possibly this Rector was a native of Preston, or he may have been, as is perhaps likelier, a Yorkshireman.

On 23 Jan., 46 Ed. III. (1373), a warrant was issued by the King to deliver to Maister Rauff de Erghum, Chancellor of his Duchy of Lancaster, 12 oaks of timber out of Myerseough Forest to repair the chapel (what chapel?) at Preston (Duc. Reg. No. 13, 153).

He was instituted to the Rectory of Preston, 13 Oct., 1374, and inducted by proxy, on presentation of John of Gaunt, King of Castile and Leon and Duke of Lancaster (Harl. MSS. 6,978, 9b).

On the 9th December, 1375, Ralph Erghum was consecrated Bishop of Salisbury, at Bruges, by Simon Sudbury, Archbishop of Canterbury, and in 1388 he was translated to the joint sees of Bath and Wells (Le Neve, i., 139, ii., 600; Jones, 94; Stubbs, 59). To his former bishopric he was promoted by Pope Gregory XI., 12th October, 1375, being described in the apostolic bill of provision as priest, native of York Diocese, and L.D. (Add. MSS., 6071, 312; to his latter bishopric he was translated by Pope Urban VI., 3rd April, 1388 (Ibid., 6072, 48).

He died 10 April, 1400, and was buried at Wells. St. Michael's Hospital, near Salisbury, was of his foundation, and he caused a cross to be erected in that city by the Earl of Salisbury for penance. A chantry was established for him at St. Edmund's altar in the nave of Wells Cathedral, where a chaplain celebrated for the soul of Bishop Erghum the second Morrow Mass, receiving £4 yearly, and at the same altar a chaplain celebrated for the Bishop's soul, receiving 7d. weekly (Reynolds's Wells Cath., 74; Harl. 6968, 141b).

Vicars of Preston.

RICHARD WALTON, (1415)-1419.

The earliest mention of Richard Walton as Vicar of Preston is in Preston Guild Rolls, where he occurs under that title at the Guild Merchant held in 1415. Whitaker (Richmond., ii., 427) names Richard Walton as Vicar here, but without date.

JOHN WHITE, 1419-21.

After his predecessor's death, this Vicar was instituted Jan. 17, 1418-9, on presentation of the Dean and Canons of the College of St. Mary Newark at Leicester; the first fruits being put at 40s. (Harl. 6978, 20a; Raines MSS., xxii., 395). He held the living but two years, resigning in 1421.

JOHN YORKE, or LEGEARD, 1421-52.

John Yorke, or Lygeard, Legiard, Legeard, as he is variously called, was instituted to Preston Vicarage on 26 April, 1421, the patrons as before, the first fruits amounting to £3 6s. 8d. (Harl. 6978 22a; Raines, xxii., 397). In the Dep. Keeper's Report (xxxiii., app., 21), his name in 10 Hen. V. (1422-3) is given as Legeard. Piccope (v. 333), quoting from Dodsworth (v. 53), gives "Johes de Yorke" as Vicar of Preston, 22 July, 20 Hen. VI. (1442). In 1443-4 John Yorke must have been resident in his benefice, for on the 24th February of that year the Archdeacon of Richmond launched forth a monition against the Rectors of Bentham, Burton-in-Kendal, Claughton, Windermere, and the Vicars of Lancaster and Garstang, and the Rectors of Whicham and Chipping for non-residence (Raines, xxii., 373, 375). This Vicar died 18 February, 1451-2, as appears by the following:—"Certificate from Tho. Orme, Decanus Pontisburgh, super jure patronatus ecclesie de Preston in Amounderness. On 5 Mar: in capella B. M. de Non Monketon, coram John Colby, Raphe Greinbank, W^m Watson, Cap^{ls} W^m Yorke, W^m Nebilse, John Richardson, John Sylversyde, W^m Sylversyd, W^m Heborne, John Bolton, Rob Yorke, and Henry Clarke, laici—vicaria vacavit a 18 . . . Cap. Ecc. Novi Coll. B. M. Leycestrie sunt patroni" (Ibid, 379).¹

THOMAS TUNSTALL, 1452-54.

Thomas Tunstall was instituted Vicar of Preston, 6 March, 1451-2, on the death of the former Vicar, being presented by the College of St. Mary Newark, at Leicester (Raines MSS., xxii., 379). On the 9th Sept., 1454, he was instituted, by exchange, to the Vicarage of Thurnby in Leicestershire (ibid).

As a chaplain in the Deanery of Amounderness, he occurs 8 March, 1442-3, being named in a commission of the Archdeacon of Richmond (ibid).

ROBERT COWELL, 1454-(1474).

Robert Cowell, in exchange for Thurnby Vicarage with his predecessor, Thomas Tunstall, was instituted to Preston, 9 September, 1454, patronage as before (Raines, xxii., 379). In 1459 his name appears in Preston Guild Rolls: "D'ns Rob'tus Cowhull Vicarius Eccl'ie de Preston." The last mention of him as holding this benefice is on 26 Jan., 1473-4, when, along with William Archer, chaplain, he occurs in a Preston deed in the Towneley MSS. (O.O. 1148).

THOMAS BOLTON (1494)-(1515).

The date of this clergyman's institution to the Vicarage of Preston I have been unable to ascertain. After a blank of more than twenty years, the earliest mention of him as Vicar here that I can find is on 1 May, 1494, when he occurs in the Rawstorne deeds (Piccope MSS.,

¹ John Yorke was perhaps a kinsman of Nicholas Yorke, Abbot of Whalley. A John York occurs as Vicar of Eccles, in Lancashire, 1402, 1405, and 1408 (Dep. Keep. Rep. xxxiii., append., 8, 9.) This Vicar is not mentioned in the new edition (1890) of Baines's History of Lancashire (vide iii., 255.) It will be noticed that Sir Richard Yorke, chaplain, was on the Preston Guild Roll of 1459.

xiv., 59). He is mentioned also by Kuerden, 10 July, 1501 (Ibid, xviii., 172). The date of his death is likewise obscure, but we know that he died Vicar here.

ROBERT SINGLETON (1522)-(1535).

Though we have no precise information as to the date of Robert Singleton's institution to Preston Vicarage, it is nevertheless recorded that, upon Thomas Bolton's death, he succeeded by presentation of Sir Alexander Osbaldeston, Knight, to whom the New College at Leicester had granted the presentation upon the next avoidance, and that his father was John Singleton, gent. Moreover, as his institution took place while William Knight was Dean of the Newark at Leicester, it must have happened between 1515 and 1522 (Duchy Lanc. Pleadings, Hen. VIII., vol. iii., N.D., L. 1).¹ The earliest positive mention of him as Vicar of Preston which I have found is in Feb., 1524-5, in Dalby's Liber Subsidii Archidiaconatus Richmundie (Record Office). He next occurs in 1535 in the Valor Ecclesiasticus, v., 262. I have met with no further trace of him; nor does his name appear on the Guild Rolls of 1542.

NICHOLAS BRADSHAW (1552)-(1562).

Nicholas Bradshaw was Vicar of Preston in 1552, when there was drawn up a list of the goods of Preston Church, as a first step to their seizure to the King's use.² At the Bishop's Visitation in July, 1562, the name of Nicholas Bradshaw, as lately deceased, is cancelled in the list as Vicar of Preston (Piccope MSS., xiii., 168). Or, as this cancelling may have been done afterwards, he may have died in 1563.

ROGER CHORLEY, 1563-1566.

Roger Chorley was instituted to the Vicarage of Preston, 17 Oct., 1563, on the presentation of Thomas Parkes (Piccope MSS., xviii., 173). About 1540, he occurs as clerk in Brindle parish, being conduct or stipendiary chaplain of Thomas Gerard; about 1547 we meet with him as clerk in Chorley parish; and in 1562 he appears as Curate of Chorley at the visitation holden in Wigan Church (Raines MSS., xxii., 256, 266, 267; Piccope MSS., xiii., 166). He died in 1566 (Raines MSS., xxii., 40).

LEONARD CHORLEY, 1566-1572.

Leonard Chorley was instituted to Preston Vicarage, 15 Sept., 1566, on presentation of William Chorley, of Chorley, gent., on assignment of Christopher Anderton, of Thaves Inn, gent. (Piccope MSS., xviii., 173). He had compounded for first fruits, 26 Aug. foregoing (Cler. Subsidies 1½, Rec. Office). In Bland's Annals of Southport, (p. 19), Leonard Chorley is stated to have been presented to Preston Vicarage in 1567, by John Bold, of North Meols, and William Patten. Possibly this may have been a second presentation. He resigned in 1572, and of his future career I have found nothing.

NICHOLAS DANIEL, 1572-80.

Nicholas ap Evans Daniel was admitted to the Vicarage of St. Leonard Shoreditch, by London, 29 December, 1563, on presentation of John Mullens, Archdeacon of London, late a Zürich refugee (Newcourt's Repertorium, i., 687). In 1568 he was deprived, perhaps for Nonconformity (ibid.). In the same year he occurs as Fellow of the Collegiate Church of Manchester; and in 1570-1 he gave some remarkable evidence before a Commission appointed by Archbishop Grindal to inquire into the state of that institution. One of the Fellows having stated that Daniel owed him £10, and that he was a common discloser of their secrets and a busy Fellow of the College, Daniel retorted that Sir Richard Hall, a brother Fellow, was "of unsound religion, favoured Papistry and heresy privately . . . that he was a frequenter of ale-houses, and a drunkard, and would hear no sermons." Hall rejoined by accusing Daniel of preaching Papistical doctrines. We can well believe Warden Herle's statement that there was "greatt dysquyetnes and dysagrement amongst them [the Fellows], to the offence of God and overthrow of the College." Against Daniel himself various charges were made, chiefly for heterodoxy and nonconformity.

Apparently his defence was considered satisfactory, for on the 4th Sept., 1572, Nicholas Daniel, M.A., was instituted to the Vicarage of Preston, on presentation of John Bold, of North Meols (Piccope MSS., xviii., 173), and he compounded for first fruits on the 19th November following (Rec. Soc. Lanc. Ches., viii., 410). Two years later he addressed what Dr. Grosart justly calls "a long and singularly interesting letter"¹ to the Bishop of Chester, describing his parochial

"The lyvinge god preserve yor honor longe a godly byshoppe over us.

NICHOLAUM DANIEL

Vic^r of Preston,

Fellow of Manchester Collegiate Church."

In the Answer of Wm. Wall, clerk, Curate of Preston, to the sundry and heinous offences brought against him by Vicar Daniel, he stated—

"That sins Xmas last, as he believeth, there was a corse brought to the Church Stile and ther had stoud above a quarter of an hower and Mr. Daniell being in the pulpitt he went unto hym and softlie wth a low voice wthout more that hard them wylled hym come downe and staie till hee had brought in the corse and he shold have gretter audience and he soe dyd gentlie and wthout anie more ado. He also stated that he cold nev^r have tyme to read the injuncions sins Mr Daniell was made Vicare and came to Preston to dwell biecause he useth to preach eivery Sondaie and hollidaie neyther can have tyme but seldom to teache the Cathechaisme biecause he useth upon Sondaies and hollidaies to preach ii times a day. He also stated that a child still borne of Tho. Dakin's was buried in the sandes by the mydwife as the use is in that Cuntrie and Wall being asked if he thought it ought to be taken up and buryed in the Church yard replied in the negative but Mr. Daniell caused it to be taken up again and buryed in the Churchyard as though it had been Xned and the mother was purified by Mr Daniell. During the iii daies before Ascension daie he went to the Crosse in the towne and willed the people to praye to God to prosper the fruites of the earth as is appoynted by the boke—And not far from the crosse Mr. Daniell did the same afore, and he said eivy of the said daies a Gospell at a crosse as a comen vow is and one daie he saw him (Mr. Daniell) doe itt. But sd. William Wall Curate of Preston confesseth that he hath comytted adultery wth one who called herself "Elizth" but her surname he knoweth not, wch Elizth is now wth chylde, and remayneth about a myle from Preston, and knoweth not whether the child be quick, wch was of his begettyng, and for his fault submitteth himself. He denied that he had received gift or reward from the wife of John Meare, Alexr. Hoghton, Edm. Biesley, &c. to conceal their faults. They have not received the holy and blessed Coion [communion] at hys hands sins Easter, or sins y^e Queen's Maties Gen^l Pardon. He confessed that he had used cardinge and diceing for drink, but hath cast ytt this iii yeres altogether. Denied that he adm^d the holy Coion [Communion] in any Ale house except but it were to sick folks; and that he never used to cause the bells to be rung on when the preacher was in the pulpitt; and that he never buryed a child of his in the sands, but said it was the use in that country for still born children to be so buried by the midwife, &c. (Raines MS.S., xxii., 148-9, 342).

And in his denial of the less serious charges, the "Evil Curate" was supported by the personal answer of Thomas Lyvesey, Parish Clerk of Preston.

1. He never refused to toll the Bell when he was required by the Vicar.
2. That he being one that can sing and plaie on the Organes and a teacher of children to sing dyd nev^r singe a psalm before the sermon nor hath no booke of psalmes.
3. That he came to the paynter when he was payntyng y^e pulpitt and asked hym what shold be paynted there and he answered and said that the Vicar and his wief should be set there; nay sayd this r'ondent then set Sr Willam and his wief too and aln. neg. at. (?) 4. That he nev^r rec^d any money for conceeling offence or offences of the parishioners there nor knoweth off anie that Sr William Wall Curate there rec^d. 5. That he never plaid at Tables in the Church nor knoweth of any els that plaid there. 6. That he caused not his brother to quarrell wth Mr. Vicar nor knoweth y^t any brother of his quarrell wth the say^d Vicar at any tyme. (Raines MSS., xxii., 156.)

As Nicholas Daniel is not named in Queen Elizabeth's Foundation Charter of Manchester College in 1575, it would appear he was not then a member of the College. He resigned Preston Vicarage in 1580, and is thenceforth lost to our view.

THOMAS WALL, 1580-92.

This Vicar, descended from an old Preston family, was instituted on presentation of Thomas Bold, of North Meols, Esq., 27 August, 1580 (Raines MSS., xxii., 140), compounded for first fruits on the 30th Nov. following (Cler. Subsidies, $\frac{1}{4}$, R.O.). Although he held the living for 12 years, nothing is now known of him, except what we can glean from his will, dated 18 August, 1592. He gives his body to be buried in the Parish Church of Preston; to his son Isaac he bequeaths the lease of certain burgages in Preston; to the same son Isaac and his heirs he also leaves one burgage and certain lands in Preston, which he had lately purchased, and failing issue, then to his second son Sir William Wall, "the evil Curate"; and further, he leaves his books to his son Isaac; and the rest of his goods (after discharge of his debts, legacies, and funeral expenses) to his son Isaac, and Juliana his daughter, equally between them; and he appoints his son Isaac, along with his wife Elizabeth, executors (Add. MSS., 32, 115).

Whether this Vicar of Preston were third son of William Wall of Preston, by Grace, daughter of Laurence Banester of Preston, or eldest son of Laurence Wall of Preston, it is impossible to say. In the Guild Roll of 1582, William Wall, clericus [the "Evil Curate" noted above], his second son, occurs; and in the Roll of 1602 occurs "Isack Wall filius Thome Wall cl'ici" (Preston Guild Rolls, 32, 50).

WILLIAM SAWREY, 1592-1603.

William Sawrey, M.A., was instituted 21 December, 1592, on presentation of Henry Bold, of North Meols, Esquire, who, it should be said, was a recusant (Piccope MSS., xviii., 173; Raines MSS., xxii., 40, 46). Such is the usual story of his presentation, on the authority of Bishop Chaderton's register; in any case he appears to have got Queen Elizabeth's presentation to Preston Vicarage, dated the 13th Nov., 1592 (Cal. Present. Duc. Lanc., 18a). On the 5th Feb. following he compounded for his first fruits (Lanc. and Chesh. Rec. Soc., viii., 410). Whitaker (Richm. ii., 427) calls him "Lawrey," and says he was instituted in 1593, two serious mistakes. Descended from the Sawreys of Plumpton, the future Vicar of Preston was baptized at Ulverston, 4 September, 1564, being second son of John Sawrey of Plumpton, by his wife, Jane Carus, sister of Justice Carus, Sergeant-at-Law to Queen Elizabeth (Bardsley and Ayre's Ulverston Registers, 42).

On the 12th June, 1594, William Sawrey was instituted to the Rectory of Windermere (Raines MSS., xxii., 52); compounded for his first fruits on the 23rd Oct. following (Cler. Subsidies, $\frac{2}{3}$, $\frac{1}{4}$, R.O.); and on the 10th March, 1606-7, we find him compounding for his first fruits for the Rectory of Halton (ibid., $\frac{2}{3}$). Both these parsonages he appears to have voided in 1610, whether by death or otherwise (ibid., $\frac{2}{3}$). Preston Vicarage he held until November, 1603, when he resigned it (Piccoppe MSS., xviii., 173; Raines MSS., xxii., 46).

In the Clerical Subsidy Rolls, William Sawrey's name figures repeatedly in the schedules of defaulters.

In 1543 a namesake and probably kinsman of his became Vicar of Sedbergh, and in 1547 Vicar of Urswick, holding both benefices together; and in 1576 Hugh Sawrey, probably another kinsman, became Vicar of Lancaster.

JOHN PALER, 1604-21.

John Paler was instituted to Preston Vicarage 12 Feb., 1603-4, on presentation of Robert Parker, yeoman; Whitaker gives no date of his institution. He compounded for his first fruits on the 10th May following (Cler. Subsidies, $\frac{2}{3}$, R.O.). On 5 Sep., 1607, he "openly and publicly declared" at Preston the confirmation of the Bishop of Chester in the matter of "certain sedilia in a vacant place in Preston Church in Amounderness (see chap. VI.), his name being given as "William Payler" (Raines MSS., xxii., 120). In 1608 a rate was imposed by the Bishop of Chester upon the clergy of the diocese "for the fyndinge of horses armes and other furniture accordingly"; Mr. Paler, vicar of Preston, and Mr. Norcrosse, vicar of Ribchester, were required to furnish a musket (Baines, new edit., i., 365). John Paler died 15 April, 1621, and was buried at Preston the following day, as appears from this entry in the Register:—Johannes Paler, Ecclesiæ Parochialis de Preston Vicarius, et in vineâ Domini insignis operarius pie et placide migravit ad Dominum, 15 Aprilis, 1621, die Dominica cuj. memoria fuit in Benedictione, Sepult. 16 April.

*Post obitum ult. incumbentis re xxxx dies (?) curio

Which may be thus rendered into English:—

John Paler, Vicar of the Parish Church of Preston, and a distinguished labourer in God's vineyard, departed in the Lord, piously and peacefully on Sunday, the 15th day of April, 1621. Whose memory was held in blessing. He was buried April 16th. After the death of the last incumbent for forty days' space, through the negligence of the churchwardens, so many entries are thus wanting.¹

An inventory of Vicar Paler's goods was made April 26th, 1621. This I am obliged to omit, with the exception of a few items, owing to exigencies of space. It affords a good idea of an incumbent's household furniture at the beginning of the seventeenth century:—

JAMES MARTIN, 1621-23.

James Martin, M.A., was instituted to the Vicarage of Preston on 8th May, 1621, on presentation of Sir Richard Hoghton, Knt. (Instit. Books, Series A, vol. i., R.O.), compounding for first fruits on the 29th of the same month (Rec. Soc. Lanc. Chesh., viii., 412). In the first Register at Preston is the following entry:—

Post vacationem bimestrem, aut praeter propter, Successit in Vicaria de Preston Jacobus Martin, facultat. Art. in Utraque Academia Magister, Regius ad Causas Ecc'ticas infra provinciam Ebor. Commissarius: Cujus Inductio Solemni More Consummata fuit 16^o Junii, A.D. 1621, Per Guil'm Benet, Rectorem de Croston.

From this entry we learn the date of Vicar Martin's induction, 16 June, 1621; and that he was Master of Arts as well at Oxford as at Cambridge. He had previously been appointed one of the King's Preachers for the County of Lancaster, for which duty he was paid at the rate of £50 per annum, and probably was resident at Preston and Ormskirk four or more years previous to his appointment to Preston Church. James Martin married at Preston, May 30th, 1616, Maria, daughter of John Southworth of Samlesbury, Esquire,¹ the entry in the Register being:—Jacob. Martin, in artib. Magister, et Maria Southworthe, mar. 30 die Maii [1616]. He had two children, whose baptisms are recorded in the Register at Preston:—

1617, July 17, Jacob. filius Jacobi Martin Theologi bap.

1617, Aug. 27, Uxor Jacobi Martin Theologi churched.

1618, Aug. 27, Thomas filius Jacobi Martin Theologi bap.

1618-9, March 16, Thom. filius Jacobi Martin verbi divini pro dno. Rege [buried] apud Ormskirk.

Upon his appointment to Preston he continued to hold the office of King's Preacher, as was the usual practice. But in a fit of reforming zeal, or from a desire to bestow the preachingship upon someone else, James I. issued the following letter to Dr. John Bridgman, Bishop of Chester:—

"Right Revd. Father in God, and trusty and well-beloved, We greet you well. Whereas out of our zeal to god's glory, and a care of y^e Souls of many Thousands of our Subjects within y^e County of Lancaster (there being a great Want of Maintenance of Preachers in most places of y^t shire), We have appointed 200^{li} of our free gift, and during our pleasure to be pd. yearly to 4 preachers, who are to preach in y^e several pts of y^e County among y^e Improvements there, by y^e Appointment of y^e Bp of y^t Diocese: We now understand, y^t y^e sd preachers, after they are admitted to those places, do accept of other Benefices remote from thence: and namely James Martin, one of y^e said preachers, hath now lately accepted of y^e cure of y^e Town and Parish of Preston; and yet intendeth to hold our sd pension contrary to our gracious meaning in bestowing y^e same, We have therfor thought fitt to let you know, That our pleasure is y^t henceforth those pensions be paid to none, but such as do wholly, and only attend those Improvements for which we conferr'd y^e same: And y^t if any of these 4 preachers now have, or hereafter shall have any benefice with Cure of Souls (unless it be some Vicarage lying among those Improvements where he is appointed to preach) that you presently nominate and assign some other suffic't and conformable Minister to his pension. And our pleasure is y^t you cur Receiver of our said County, or any other our officers, whom it may concern, do make payment and allowance thereof to such preachers only as our said Bp. shall appoint. Given at Westminster y^e 2^d June, 1621" (Tanner MSS., 73, f 25; Earwaker's Gleanings i., 19.)

is stated to have married ".....Martin, a clerk."

In 1623 James Martin was deprived of his benefice for simony, according to Canon Raines, who says (Lanc. MSS., xxii., 200):—

Martin vicar at Preston refused to christen a childe being thereunto desired, and having been brought two or three myles was taken home unchristened. He had churched divers women begotten with childe without publique confession of their faults. He is suspected to come to his living by simonie. The vicarage house is desecrated [deserted].

Of his late career I have found nothing.¹ Whitaker (Richmond ii., 427) erroneously says Martin was deprived of his preferment in 1626. It is noticeable that Martin's name does not appear on the Preston Guild Rolls of 1622.

ALEXANDER BRADLEY, 1623-25.

No mention of this Vicar, who was instituted 21 July, 1623, on the King's presentation by lapse, occurs in Whitaker's list of Vicars. The Registers and records of Preston contain not the slightest reference to Alexander Bradley, nor is any information forthcoming as to his life. No cause is assigned for his generally supposed deprivation.

JOHN INSKIP, 1625-26.²

John Inskip, who also is not included in Whitaker's list of Vicars here, was instituted to Preston Vicarage 19 May, 1625, on the King's presentation. He held the living little over a year, and it would appear from a paragraph in his will, in which he refers to his "pension," that he was chaplain or tutor in the family of the Bradylls of Portfield, near Garstang. He had six children, of whom three, a son and two daughters, were buried at Preston. The following entries are extracted from Preston Register:—

² "About this time," says Mr. J. P. Earwaker, "John Lewis, one of the King's Preachers for Lancashire, is stated in Dugdale's Visitation of Yorkshire to have been 'Vicar of Preston in Lancashire.'" And Col. Fishwick makes a statement to the same effect. (Earwaker's Gleanings, i., 24; Preston Guard. Sketches, Nov. 27, 1878). In the Preston Register, the following entry may refer to this John Lewis:—"Mr. John Lewis et Anna More m[arried] 30 October, 1626."

1624, Oct. 30, Susanna, filia Joh'is Inskip, clerici, sepult.

1626, Aprill 13, Christian, filia Mr. John Inskip, bapt.

1626, June 18, John, filius Mr. John Inskipp, sept.

1626, Oct. 4, Sarah, filia Mr. John Inskipp, sepult.

No mention of John Inskip occurs in Fishwick's History of Garstang (Chet. Soc., civ., cv.); nor is his burial recorded in the Garstang Parish Registers.

The following summary of his will is of interest:—John Inskip of Garstang in Com. Lanc., Clerke, makes his will the 7th of february 1631. He assignes over vnto his Executors the sum of 15^{li} due vnto him at the feast of St Michael the Archangel last past by John Braddill Esq being the remainder of a pension. And allsoe he assignes over to his Execs, such sums of money w^{ch} shall fall due to him from the said John Braddill Esq from the said feast of St Michael vntill the day of his death. All w^{ch} sums hee apoints to bee disposed of towards the payment of his debts. Hee assignes to his said Execs his interest in a messuage and tenement called Sumpners Tenement w^{ch} hee holdeth in Kerkland of John Butler Esq, To and for the vse of Deborah Inskip, Christian Inskip, and Jane Inskipp, his daughters. The rest of his goods after his debts legacies and funerall expences discharged hee gives vnto his three daughters to be equally devided amongst them. And makes William Werden of Preston, draper, and William Haidocke of Preston, salter, and Ellen Edmoden, his servant, his Execs. His Inventory amounted vnto—46^{li} 17^s 4^d

In 1619-20 a Mr. Inskip occurs as Curate of Radcliffe, and possibly may be identical with the Vicar of Preston (Lanc. Ches. Rec. Soc. xii., 54).

AUGUSTINE WILDBORE, 1626-30.

On Fishwick's authority we learn that Augustine Wildbore "was born about 1590, and probably educated at the Grammar School of Peterborough" (Chet. Soc., cv., 149). Thence he went to Cambridge, and from Sydney Sussex College graduated B.A. in 1610, M.A. 1614, B.D. in 1623, D.D. in 1633. From 1617 to 1620 he appears to have been at Wigan, and was on intimate terms with the Bishop of the diocese (who held Wigan Rectory), as he was godfather to Mary, third daughter of John Bridgman, Bishop of Chester, born at Wigan 3rd January, 1616-17, and baptized the morrow. Mrs. Wildbore was godmother to the Bishop's sixth son, James, born December 15th, 1618, and Mr. Wildbore was godfather to the seventh son, Charles, baptized in Wigan Church, 16 Jan., 1619-20.¹ He was instituted to the Vicarage of Garstang 7 Feb., 1620-21, on presentation of the Master of Wards (i.e., seemingly by the King, through the Court of Wards, the heir of the advowson being under age), compounding for his first fruits on the 25th April following. In 1625 he is described as "clerk, and one of the preachers whom his Majesty maintains in Lancashire" (Chet. Soc., cv., 150).

Augustine Wildbore, B.D. (Whitaker call him, "Wilding"), was instituted to Preston 18 Nov., 1626, on presentation of Sir Richard Houghton, Knt. and Bart. King Charles I., however, would seem to have recovered his presentation against Sir Richard, for upon that prince's presentation Augustine Wildbore was instituted to Preston on the 26th December following (Instit. Books, series A, vol. i., R.O.), compounding for his first fruits on the 20th Feb., 1626-7 (Lanc. and Chesh. Rec. Soc., viii., 412). Already, under date of the 7th Nov., 1623, had he received letters of presentation to the same benefice from King James I. (Cal. Present. Duc. Lanc., 42b), no institution thereon ensuing. After his institution to Preston he retained the preachiership, and Garstang Vicarage. That he was allowed to do so affords a curious commentary on the consistency of the new King's Ecclesiastical advisers, who (if they were the same) had under King James acted very differently in the case of Vicar Martin.

Vacating Preston Vicarage, Wildbore, on the 8th Nov., 1630, was instituted to the Vicarage of Lancaster on presentation of Thomas ffarington, Esq. (Instit. Books, Series A, vol. i.), and compounded for his first fruits on the 16th Feb. next (Lanc. and Chesh. Rec. Soc., viii., 413); here again the King seems to have recovered his presentation against Wildbore's patron, a new institution of Wildbore following on the 30th June, 1631, upon royal presentation by lapse (Instit. Books, as above), which presentation was issued on the 7th of the same month (Rymer, xix., 348).

A strong Royalist, Wildbore became obnoxious to the Parliament party, and in 1643 was declared a delinquent, and the Vicarages of Garstang and Lancaster sequestered, as appears from the Commons Journals, when Nehemiah Barnett was appointed as acting preacher of Lancaster. In 1647, according to the Journals of the House of Lords (ix, 522a), Barnett became full and permanent Vicar. Fishwick, in his History of Garstang (Chet. Soc., cv., 152) wrongly falls foul of Walker, who rightly gives October, 1643, as the date of Augustine Wildbore's ejection from Lancaster Vicarage. "He (Wildbore) was dispossessed by the House of Commons about Oct., 1643, who at the same time ordered Nehemiah Barnet to succeed him" (Walker's Sufferings of the Clergy, ii., 400b); which statement is borne out by the following extract:—Monday, 9 Oct., 1643, "An order for sequestering the Rents and Profits of the Vicarage of Lancaster, whereof Dr. Augustine Wildbore was late Vicar, to the use of Mr. Nehemiah Barnett, a godly, learned, and orthodox Divine; who is hereby appointed and required to preach every Lord's Day there; and take care for Discharge of the Cure of that Place, in all the Duties thereof, until further Order shall be taken by this House; was this Day read; and, by vote upon the Question, assented unto" (Journals of the House of Commons, iii., 270b). Three years later Wildbore appears to have given in his adhesion to the sequestration of his living, the Committee of Plundered Ministers allowing him the "full cleere 5th parte" of the tithes, etc., of Lancaster Vicarage towards the maintenance of his family.

Dr. Wildbore died at Driffeld in Derbyshire, where he was buried on the 19th April, 1654 (Chet. Soc., cv., 153). His wife, Jane, predeceased him, being buried at Garstang, 13th March, 1634-5 (ibid., 135). And, says Fishwick, their only surviving daughter, Elizabeth, "married Samuel Barker, of Driffeld, and was living there at the time of her father's death" (ibid., 153).

JAMES STARKIE, 1630-39.

Like his immediate predecessor, James Starkie, M.A., had a double institution to Preston, for the first time on the 11th Nov., 1630, on presentation of Sir Richard Houghton, Knt. and Bart. (Instit. Books, Series A, vol. i., R.O.), and again on the 2nd Dec., 1630, on the King's presentation by lapse, by reason of the patron's outlawry (ibid.), the royal presentation being dated the 22nd Nov. foregoing (Rymer, xix., 263). On the 25th Nov., he compounded for his first fruits (Lanc. and Ches. Rec. Soc. viii., 413). He is probably identical with the James Starkie, who was Master of Heskin Grammar School, 1623-25.

In 1639 Starkie vacated Preston for North Meols, being instituted to the Rectory of the latter place on the 25th of March of that year, on presentation of John fleetwood of Penwortham, Esq. (Instit. Books, Series A, vol. i.); and again on 18 March, 1639-40, on the King's presentation (ibid.). He compounded for first fruits on the 22nd July, 1639 (Lanc. and Ches. Rec. Soc., viii., 413). In 1648 and 1649 he attended the Lancaster Assembly of Divines, and he appended his signature to the "Harmonious Consent." He is not mentioned in the Church Survey made two years later; and he conformed under Charles the Second. On May 3rd, 1684, he was buried in his parish church (Piccope MSS., xvii., 136). To the Grammar School of North Meols, built by Bold and Hesketh, joint lords of the manor, he bequeathed £40.

Parson Starkie's wife, Elizabeth (maiden name unknown), was buried at North Meols, 3 Feb., 1675-6. Two of their children were christened at Preston: "John, son of James Starkie, vicar, bapt. 8th April, 1634" (buried 8 Dec., 1635), and Elizabeth, bapt. May 13th, 1632.

James Starkie was a foreign burgess of the Preston Guild of 1682, along with his son, James Starkie of Marton, and his four grandsons.

ISAAC AMBROSE, 1640-1655.

Isaac Ambrose, third son of Richard Ambrose, Vicar of Ormskirk (of which parish his elder brother Henry was afterwards Vicar), was baptized at Ormskirk 29 May, 1604, and was probably educated at the Grammar School there. Entered on the College books as "of Lancashire pleb. family," he matriculated at Brasenose College, Oxford, 2 Nov., 1621, and from the same college was admitted B.A., 25 Feb., 1624-5, in 1631-2 graduating M.A. at Trinity College, Cambridge (Oxf. Univ. Reg.; Cheth. Soc., cv., 161). On 17 June, 1627, he was instituted to the Vicarage of Castleton, in Derbyshire, which living he held until 1631 (Cheth. Soc., cv., 161). To Clapham Vicarage in Yorkshire he was collated on the 20th Nov., 1629, by John Bridgeman, Bishop of Chester, vacating it in 1632 (Instit. Books, series A, vol. i., R.O.). In 1633-4 he occurs as one of the four preachers of Queen Elizabeth's foundation in Lancashire, which office he appears to have retained until 12 April, 1662, when Thomas Blackburne was appointed in his stead (Dep. Keep. Report, xlv., app. i., 27). The exact date of Ambrose's institution to Preston Vicarage is uncertain, but it is extremely probable that it took place in 1640. On 29 August, 1642, "Isaac Ambrose, C'licus, Vicarius Pochiæ de Preston," with his two sons, Augustine and Richard, appears on the Guild Rolls as an In-burgess of Preston (Lanc. Chesh. Rec. Soc., ix., 95).

On the 2nd October, 1646, the county of Lancaster was divided into nine "Classical Presbyteries"; Preston, Kirkham, and Garstang parishes comprising the Seventh Classis. At the head of the "ministers fit to be of the seventh classis" is the name of "Master Isaac Ambrose of Preston." It is to be regretted that no trace has yet been found of the minute books recording the proceedings of this classis. The provincial Synod held its first meeting at Preston, 17th November, 1646, and at periods of about two months from this time onwards the Synod assembled there. At a meeting held at Preston, on August 12th, 1647, the signature of "Isaac Ambrose" is appended to a resolution concerning Mr. Pollitt, of Chorlton chapel. In the minutes of the Manchester Classis, July, 1648, is a note that "the first provincial meeting to be the eight of August next, in the church at Preston, and Mr. Ambrose to preach the same day at tenne of the clocke." And on the 6th October, 1658, he put his name, along with nine other ministers, to the following exhortation¹ :—

Wee that subscribe hereunto think it meet and accordingly purpose, as the Lord shall assist, to proceed to the practice of the said personall teachinge, each in our severall charges, and to signifie to the rest of our brethren both those whose concurrence herein we are certified of and others whose resolution we have not yet received, this our purpose.

In May, 1647, Ambrose was instrumental in obtaining the release of William ffarington, of Worden, Esq., who had been taken prisoner by the Parliamentaires in the previous year. The "certificate" Ambrose gave as to ffarington's character is exceedingly creditable to them both.²

A. Shawe (privately printed, 1890).

² The ffarington Papers, p. 107.

In dedicatory letters to the "truly religious and virtuous Lady Mary Vere," and to William, Earl Russell, he refers to the troubles and hard dispensations under which he had suffered, and in his Diary he speaks of the "opposition of wicked people," and of "ones heart" being "overpoured and exceedingly troubled with the cares of this life." Still more strongly does he write in the introduction of the second book of Looking unto Jesus, when he tells the Church at Preston that, had he not been engaged to them "in nearest bonds" he would not have stayed his ministry so long in Preston; and adds he "many and many a time I have been on the wing, yea sometimes the opposition has been so strong that I have wished with Daniel, oh that I had the wings of a dove, for then would I flee and be at rest."

Ambrose signed the "Harmonious Consent" in 1648, and the "Agreement of the People" in the year following, and in both these documents he describes himself as "Pastor of Preston." The Commissioners of the Parliamentary survey of 1650, term the Vicar of Preston "a painful minister," who "received for his sallary the proffits of the whole vicarage, w^{ch} about 30 years since, was worth ab^t 100 marks per ann., but in these distracted troublesome times the same is not so much worth; beside which there is 50l. per ann. of an augmentⁿ from the Com. of Plun. Min^{rs} and 50l. per ann. forth of y^e revenue of the Duchy of Lancaster to Mr. Ambrose as one of the Ministers within the County" (Lanc. and Ches. Rec. Soc., i., 146).

In chapter VI. it will be noticed that claim was made on the 13th Jan., 1647-8, to the seat "over against the pulpitt in the middle Ile of the church now enjoyed by Mr. Ambrose as the Minister of the parish." And at a meeting of the "xxiv men" of the parish, held 29 Dec., 1651, it was resolved that the parish clerk should keep the Registers, owing to the neglect of Vicar Ambrose.

In 1654 Ambrose was appointed an Assistant Commissioner for ejecting scandalous and ignorant ministers and schoolmasters (Athen., Oxon., iii., 659).

The same year, 1654, the inhabitants of Garstang parish petitioned the "ministers assembled in London" to appoint Ambrose as their minister. In their petition (printed in full in Fishwick's Garstang, pp. 167-8) the signatories refer to a previous desire they had had for Ambrose's appointment to Garstang, for "Pr. Rupert's forces being in y^e said countie, and other inconveniences, retarded Mr. Ambrose at that time, whereupon Mr. Edmundson (without any call or knowledge of ours) by y^e meanes of some souldiers enter into y^e place." They then go on to state that divers of themselves were able to call Mr. Ambrose their "spirituall father, of whose godly liffe and orthodox doctrine our whole countie hath a singular and eminent esteeme;" and that, owing to "y^e extraordinarie profaneness and lukewarmnes, poperie and severall strange heresies" being then prevalent in the parish, there was among them great need of "such a reverend and able man" (MS., Peel Park Library, Salford; Chet. Soc., cv., 167-8). After considerable hesitation, or, as Ambrose himself says, "after hundreds of passages both at Preston and Garstange," he accepted the call, and became Vicar of Garstang. Once his mind was made up he seems to have been heartily glad to leave Preston with what he calls its "hurries, jarres, envies, pride, discords, and policies of men in streets and townes," and to have looked forward with intense pleasure to the time when he would be able to "walk the silent fields and woods and hear more frequently the various tunes of melodious birds and keep consort with them, who without jarres are ever in their kind praising God" (Looking unto Jesus, p. 51).

The exact date of Ambrose's appointment to Garstang is uncertain, but Fishwick says that it was in the year 1655. A resolution passed by the "Gentlemen and xxiv" of Preston on the 27th April, 1657, speaks of the small and uncertain means of late provided for the minister.

On the 4th January, 1656-7, Ambrose preached a remarkable funeral sermon on occasion of the death of his friend and patron, Lady Margaret Houghton, wife of Sir Gilbert Houghton. Considerable disorder and confusion attended the funeral, which took place at night. With difficulty, says Ambrose, could the procession "pass through the streets with the corpse for the throng of people, but more ado had we to enter the church-door, and after the body was laid in the dust, such a noise was raised by the multitude that I plainly perceived I could not be heard. At last I began with prayer, and I found my voice too low, and my spirit too much distracted with the noise about me. In this confusion some standing on the seats, I saw a necessity of raising my voice to the highest pitch, and though I did so yet many who desired to hear could not hear" (Redeeming the Time). In the course of his sermon Ambrose observed that, owing to his removal from Preston, "he should not perform many of these last offices of love, probably never more than this." He then went on to pourtray the leading traits of character of Lady Houghton, who had been a very religious woman. "Ordinarily every morning and evening she was (he says) exercised in duties of meditation and prayer. . . . Nor speak I this by report only, for of her goodness and bounty, she was pleased every spring to invite me to her house [Houghton Tower], and by this means I was acquainted with her constant course." He speaks of her house as "a college for religion"; of her visits to the poor; of her "careful" management of her affairs; and characterises her as "a pattern to most of the ladies in our nation."

In 1662, under the "Bartholomew Act," Ambrose was ejected from Garstang Vicarage, owing to his refusal to subscribe the required Declaration.

Ambrose then returned to Preston, living in the Church Weind (now St. John's Street), where he was visited by many of his old parishioners from Garstang. It is related by Calamy that in 1663-4, having bid good-bye to some people who had come to see him, with whom he "discoursed freely," Ambrose retired to his parlour, and "being thought to stay long, the door was opened and he was found just expiring." He died aged 59, and was buried at Preston; the register recording his burial thus: "Isaac Ambrose, Clearke, heretofore Vicar of this parish of Preston, xxv. day Jan., 1663[4], sepult." The character of such a man as Ambrose is best seen in the acts of his life. We have a just and reasonable estimate of him from Calamy, who says: "Mr. Ambrose lived and died a Nonconformist; and was a man of such substantial worth, such eminent piety, and such an exemplary life, both as a minister and a christian, that it is to be lamented that the world should not have had the benefit of particular memoirs concerning him from some able hand. . . . He was holy in his life, happy in his death, and honoured by God and all good men" (Noncon. Mem., 2nd edit., ii., 362-3).

By his wife Judith (whose maiden name is unknown) Isaac Ambrose had three children. (1) Rachel, bapt. at Garstang, 25 Jan., 1634-5, wife of Joseph Moxon of Bolton; she is mentioned, along with "her good father, Mr. Ambrose," in Newcome's Diary, 23 Nov., 1669. (2) Augustine, baptized at Garstang, 11 February, 1637-8: he occurs as an Inn-burgess of Preston on the Guild Rolls of 1642 and 1682. (3) Richard, baptized July 13, 1640, according to an entry in the Preston Parish Register (but where baptized is not clear): he also occurs on the Guild Rolls of 1642 and 1662. Ambrose left no will, but letters of administration were granted in 1663-4 to his widow Judith (buried at Ormskirk, 20 Aug., 1668), and Joseph Moxon (Richmond Wills, Rec. Soc., ix.). It is likely, as Fishwick states, that the sons emigrated to America, where all trace of them appears to have been lost (Cheth. Soc., cv., 176).

Ambrose's published works are—"Prima, the First Things in reference.....to the New Birth....." London, 1650; an appendix to "Prima," London, 1650; "Media, the Middle Things in reference to the First and Last Things," London, 1650; "Ultima, the Last Things," London, 1659; "Redeeming the Time," a sermon preached at Preston, January 4th, 1657, London, 1658; "War with Devils;" "Looking unto Jesus," London, 1658; "Ministration of, and Communion with Angels," London, 1662. All his books were published in a folio volume in 1698.

WILLIAM COLE (1658)-1662.

William Cole is said to have been appointed Vicar of Preston "by some irregular process" in 1658,¹ in succession to Isaac Ambrose. He occurs as "Minister of Preston" in the Parish Register under date of 12th October, 1658 (see chap. IV.). William Cole was present at a meeting of twenty ministers, held at Bolton-le-Moors in 1662, to decide upon the action to be taken by them upon the passing of the Act of Uniformity. Cole was willing to read the Common Prayer, but there he drew the line, exclaiming that he had reached his ne plus ultra. He was accordingly turned out of Preston, "but found (says Calamy) some stronger motives in other parts, for he afterwards conformed, and was lecturer at Dedham in Essex" (Noncon. Mem., ii., 362). Calamy also states that after he left Preston he became "Dr. Cole." Within less than a twelvemonth of his black Bartholomew tide this ejected Vicar of Preston was on the 10th June, 1663, instituted to Dedham Vicarage, in Essex, upon presentation of King Charles the Second, resigning that benefice in 1665 (Newcourt's Repertorium, ii., 210).

William Cole died before Feb., 1676-7, his widow's burial being recorded in the Preston register: "1676-7, Feb.—, Mrs. Cole, relict of Wm. Cole, Clerk, of Preston."

THOMAS STANHOPE, 1663.

Thomas Stanhope was the son of George Stanhope, D.D., precentor of York minster and prebendary of the prebend of Driffild in the same church, and also Rector of Wheldrake, Burton Agnes, and Bolton Percy, all in Yorkshire. In 1663 he occurs as Rector of Hartshorn, in Derbyshire (Cox's Churches of Derbyshire, iii., 381); and, on the 14th Feb., 1662-3, was instituted to Preston Vicarage, on presentation of Sir Richard Houghton, Knt. and Bart. (Instit Books, series B, vol. iii., R.O.), another clerk being instituted in November following. Two years later, and until his death, he appears to have been living at Hoghton Tower, in all probability acting as chaplain to the Hoghton family.¹ The exact date of Stanhope's death I have not found; it would be before 1687, as in the Walton-le-Dale Register his son Thomas is described as "the son of Maddam Stanhope."

Thomas Stanhope married, first Barbara, daughter of George Allestree of Derby, Esq.,² by whom he had issue, a son, George, Dean of Canterbury from 1704 to 1728, when he died at Bath. Secondly, Thomas Stanhope married Catherine, daughter of Sir Richard Hoghton of Hoghton Tower, Bart., by whom he had issue (1) Richard, "sonne of Thomas Stanhope, clerke," baptized at Walton-le-Dale, Nov. 25th, 1665. (2) Thomas, buried at Walton-le-Dale, March 29th, 1687. (3) Philip, whose son Thomas was parish clerk at Preston in 1728 (see chap. VIII). (4) Benjamin, buried at Walton-le-Dale, June 1st, 1675. (5) Mary, "buried in linen" at Walton-le-Dale, May 26th, 1679.

¹ On the 25th Nov., 1669, one Thomas Stanhope, M.A., was collated to the last prebend of Sutton-cum-Buckingham in Lincoln minster; an empty or purely honorary title and distinction, as the prebend in question had been alienated in 1547 to the Crown (Le Neve, ii., 217).

SETH BUSHELL, 1663-1682.

Seth Bushell was the eldest son of Adam Bushell of Cuerden, Esq. At Dugdale's Visitation in 1664-5, he returned himself as 38 years old on the 24th Sept., 1664, so that he was born in 1626, but both in the Tyldesley Diary (p. 160) and in the History of Goosnargh (p. 121) he is said to have been born in 1621. Quoting from Dr. Bliss's MSS., at Oxford, Fishwick states that Seth Bushell became a commoner of St. Mary Hall at Oxford, in 1639, "and when Oxford became a garrison, returned to his own county. In 1654 he returned to Oxford and graduated B.A. and M.A., at which time he was curate of Whitby in Yorkshire."¹ On the 10th June, 1665, he took his B.D. degree, and on the 27th June, 1672, he became D.D.²

In 1650 the Parliamentary Commissioners reported "that Mr. Seth Bushell is the p'sent Incumbent there[at Euxton], and is a godly p'chinge Minister and conformable to the p'sent governm^t and came into the said place by an order from the Committee of Plundered Ministers, and hath had ffor his sallery forty pounds per ann. yssueinge out of the sequestra'ions of the tyths afforesaid (Lanc. and Ches. Rec. Soc., i., 102). Of the date of his institution to Euxton chapel (in Leyland parish) I have found nothing.

To Preston Vicarage Seth Bushell was instituted on the 27th Nov., 1663, on presentation of Sir Richard Hoghton, Knt. (Instit. Books, series B, vol. iii., R.O.).

The new Vicar of Preston proceeded to discharge his duties in the most exemplary manner, and it is especially noticeable that he was the first minister of the parish whose signature is attached to the minutes of the "gentlemen and xxiv."³ Doubtless his close connection with the town by birth had a good deal to do with the happy relations existing between the people of Preston and himself, but he was also, as has been said, "a loyal, pious, and charitable man,"⁴ and "a person of a moderate disposition," who "much discouraged persecution for religion or prosecution of any of his parishioners for what was customary due, and very courteous to dissenters of all denominations, so that none of his parishioners were troubled by him."⁵

Those close and careful custodians of the public purse, "the xxiv" of Preston, soon showed their appreciation of Mr. Bushell by passing the following resolution:—

At a meeting of the "xxiv" of the parish, held on April 16, 1666, it was "mutually ordered and agreed," that inasmuch as the "sallery and dues to our minister, Mr. Bushell, is inconsiderable consideringe his paynes," the churchwardens for the time being and their successors "shall pay for all the bread and wyne which shall be expended and provided for the Communion dues of Palme Sunday, Good fryday and Easter day, att the parish charge, and to continue so longe as Mr. Bushell is Vickar of Preston and noe longer."

John Clifton, parish clerk.

Dr. Bushell was instituted to the vicarage of Lancaster, 19 June, 1682, on the presentation of George Toulson, Esq. (Instit. Books, series B, vol. iv.), when he gave up Preston. He died two years after this appointment, on the 6th November, 1684. A brass in Lancaster Parish Church bears his arms, with an inscription, of which I give a translation:—

P.S.—Lo, here cast aside this mortal coil Seth Bushell, S.T.P., to God and the English Reformed Church everywhere most devoted, most affectionate and faithful to the two Charleses in most difficult times, to his own family and acquaintance deservedly most dear; After having happily presided over this his church in blameless life and with earnest discourses for three years, during which time—among other signs of his devotedness he both built anew and enlarged the parsonage which had just been pulled down, truly born for immortality and ripe for heaven he bade farewell to earth in the hope of rising again, on the sixth of November, in the year of Redemption, 1684, and of his age the nine-and-sixtieth.

He married, first, Mary, daughter of Roger Farington of Leyland, by whom he had no issue; secondly, Mary, daughter of William Stansfield, of Euxton, the ceremony being solemnized at Preston, as appears from the following entry in the Parish Register here:—

Seth Bushell of Exton, clerk, and Mary Stansfield, of the same, spinster, [married] the 23rd day of July, 1657, by me

Seth Blackhurst, Maior.

Witnesses: George Carter; John Pincock; Richard Haydock; and Will. Bushell.

By this marriage were the following children:—

(1) Clemence, born 1st July, 1658, baptized at Chorley, 13th July. (2) Adam, born 22 Feb., 1659. (3) William, "son of Seth Bushell of Euxton, clerk, afterwards Vicar of Preston, born in Euxton, March 5th, 1661 [?], and baptized afterwards by Mr. Welsh, minister of Chorley, at Spowte House in Euxton, the 9th day: Vid. Register of Chorley, or of Leyland, or of both for this."¹ (4) Alice, daughter of Seth Bushell, clerke, Vicar of Preston, born the 9th, baptized the 18th of December, 1664.¹ (5) Mary, born Nov. 8th, baptized at Preston, Nov. 18th, 1666. (6) Seth, born Feb. 16th, baptized at Preston, Feb. 28th, 1663-9. (7) Samuel, born Feb. 24th, 1669-70. (8) James, buried May 7th, 1673.¹ (9) John, buried May 7th, 1673.

Dr. Bushell's second wife died in May, 1673, after giving birth to triplets (one stillborn). She was buried May 21st, 1673.

For his third wife he married, at Preston, Elizabeth, widow of Mr. Evan Wall, of Preston, gent., 5th Feb., 1673-4, by whom he had no children, and who survived him, she being buried at Preston, in 1697.

At Preston Guild, 1682, was present as burgess, "Seth Bushell, Theologiae Professor," with his four sons, Adam, William, Seth, and Samuel (Lanc. & Ches. Record Soc., ix., 161-2).

Seth Bushell, Vicar of Lancaster, by his will dated 27th October, 1684, Desired his body to be buried in the parish church of Lancaster as near to the communion table as may be. He refers to certain lands he had "set to sale" in Ulneswalton, held of Lord Mollineux, and to a parcel of ground called Lund Hey in Leyland, of which his share of the proceeds was £144, which he left on trust to Elizabeth his wife and Christopher Greenfield of Preston, Esq., to pay his legacies therewith. He also desired his trustees to sell his interest in lands in Hackensall, Preestall, and Manchester for the same purpose.

To his wife he left all his lands, etc., lying in Euxton, commonly called "Spoute House" and the "Troy House" to his wife for her life. After her death the said lands to be held in trust for the use of Adam, his eldest son, in strict entail. A condition imposed was, that certain lands in Euxton, Heskin, and Wrightington called "Withinns" and "Carr House Lane," the inheritance of testator's second wife, deceased, were to be entailed upon Christopher Greenfield and Richard Dansier.

Legacies were left of £100 to his wife; of £20 to his son Adam; of his books to his son William; and to his youngest son Samuel, and to his daughters Alice and Mary, £300 each, "And as (he adds) my son Samuel is at present both a young and a tender child," I would have him put to some trade or calling suitable to his capacity. Other legacies were; To his daughter Greenfield 20s. for a ring; to his godson Christopher Greenfield 40s. for a silver cup; to Mr. Garforth, his curate at Lancaster, his "newest Beaver Hatt."

His wife and Christopher Greenfield were appointed executors. The inventory, of great length, amounts to £374 5s. Proved at Preston 24 October, 1685, by Elizabeth Bushell, widow of the deceased.

The printed writings of Dr. Bushell are:—(1) "A Warning Piece for the Unruly," in two sermons at the Metropolical Visitation of the their birthdays—except his son Seth and his daughter Clemence, an omission we are unable to explain.

Archbishop of York, held at Preston, and there preached, May 8th and 9th, 1673. (2) "The Believer's Groan for Heaven," 1678. (3) "Cosmo-Meros: The Worldly Portion," 1682. Bliss also mentions a Latin dissertation De Redemptione by Bushell, preserved in the Cole MSS. (Diet. Nat. Biography, notice by "C. W. S.").

Four days after the death of his patron, Sir Richard Hoghton, which occurred on February 10th, 1677-(8), Dr. Bushell (says Whittle) preached a funeral sermon in the parish church of Preston, "which made a great impression upon the people who heard it, so much so, that it was printed and given gratis."¹

THOMAS BIRCH, 1682-1700.

Thomas Birch, M.A., was instituted to the Vicarage of Preston, on presentation of Sir Charles Hoghton, Bart., on the 12th Dec., 1682 (Instit. Books, series B, vol. iv., R.O.). On Mr. W. A. Abram's authority we learn that Thomas Birch was third surviving son of Samuel Birch, gent., of Ardwick, by Manchester, brother of the Parliamentarian, Colonel John Birch. Sprung from a well-known Presbyterian stock, he was born in or about November, 1633, and christened at the Collegiate Church of Manchester on the 1st December following. Long before his coming to Preston, upon presentation of the newly restored King, on the 10th Sept., 1660, he was instituted to the Rectory of Hampton Bishop in Herefordshire (Instit. Books, series B, vol. i.); and on the 8th Dec., 1664, likewise upon his prince's presentation, he acquired one of the portions of Bromyard Rectory in the same county (ibid.).

Just as his successor, Samuel Peploe, proved obnoxious on account of his Whiggish leanings, so was Vicar Birch disliked by a large number of the parishioners, who were devoted adherents of the High Church and Tory party. Within less than a year after his institution to Preston, the Town Council (Aug. 24, 1683) passed a resolution that "y^e Bailiffe do take care to presente Mr. Birch, y^e Vicar of Preston, for his non-residence at y^e said Parish Church since his presentation and induction to the same. George Addison, Maior," et aliis. And two months later (Oct. 24th) the Council passed a like resolution. Soon after Mr. Birch became resident in the parish.

Some ten years later complaints were made against the Vicar that he was "disaffected to the liturgy and discipline" of the Church of England by disparaging in his sermons some passages in the Book of Common Prayer. It was also alleged that he had "offered" his son to serve the parish as Curate, although he had been educated by a Dissenter, had received no University training, and was under twenty years of age. Accordingly several persons made their complaints known to Dr. Nicholas Stratford, Bishop of Chester. In two letters (printed in full in Earwaker's Gleanings, ii., 6) which the Bishop sent in reply, an insight is obtained of the admirable manner in which the diocese of Chester was ruled at this time, as well as a striking account of the method of conducting divine service at Preston.

The second letter from Bishop Stratford addressed to the Mayor of Preston, affords some interesting reading. Herein the Bishop speaks of several irregularities that had crept into the customs of divine service at Preston, and that the Vicar had tried to amend, thereby creating against himself much ill-feeling.

Mr. Mayor,

I very heartily thank you, and all y^e other gentlemen, whose names were subscrib'd, for your Answer to my former Letter; Tho' I must confess it did not not give me that satisfaction, which I desir'd and hop'd for.

I told you that I had been informed that your Vicar is disaffected to y^e Liturgy and Discipline of our Church; and that he hath show'd himself to be so by speaking contemptibly in his sermons of some passages in the Common Prayer and by the neglect and contempt of several Canons, &c.

Now in answer to this, you mencion'd not so much as one Canon that he hath broken; You do not instance in any one parte of y^e Liturgy that he hath spoken contemptibly of; nor do you p'duce any words uttered by him that tend that way; But you only tell me in general that you have frequently heard such reflections from him upon our Liturgy and Dicipline, and y^e Professors thereof, as have oblidged you at some times to keep from y^e Church, and at other times, when there, to continue wth great uneasiness, while others have publickly departed the Congregacon.

Now Sir, I appeal to your self, whether such a general accusation be sufficient. If indeed you exhibit this in as an Article agst him, I shall then cite him to appear to give his answer to it; But I never can p'ceed to any censure till you descend to particulars.

Whereas you intimate, that he may take sanctuary under the late Act of Indemnity. He professes that he will not, but if he shall be found guilty of y^e breach of any Ecclesiastical Law, since he was Vicar of Preston, he p'tests solemnly, that he will plead no act of Grace for his Indemnity, but will readily submitt to y^e penalty of y^e Law.

The next part of your Answer gives me yet less satisfaction, for whereas I mention a Curate for reading of prayers; your p'posal is of a Preacher, that is a Lecturer only; and of such a Lecturer, as y^e Act of Uniformity will not allow (viz) of a Lecturer that shall read prayers; which is in effect a nonconforming Lecturer, for your words are, That if the Vicar will read the prayers constantly, visit the sick and do all these other Sacerdotal Acts belonging to his function, we will in that case provide such a Minister, to preach every Sunday, &c. Now if the Vicar read prayers constantly the minister you p'vide to preach must never read prayers, which is a plain contradiction of y^e Act of Uniformity. But in order to y^e restoring of y^e daily prayers, your Vicar has promised me, that for y^e three months next ensuing, the prayers shall be read every day in y^e Church either by himself or his son, and I hope that before these three months expire, he and the towne will come to a better understanding in this matter.

He tells me, indeed, that he has often reprov'd the abuse of the prayers, and endeavour'd to bring the Congregation to a regular use of them; and that it is from this alone that many have taken occasion to report him disaffected to y^e prayers themselves. I shall now instance but in one particular, He says it was the common practice in your Church, for y^e people to perform, not only their own but y^e ministers part too, to read the absolution and that with a loud voice. This he says, and some irregularitys, he hath often'd reprov'd, But to prevent misconstruction, he further says, That he was wont to usher in such proofs with a preface, in which he declar'd the excellencie of the prayers themselves, and that he spake only against the abuse of them. But the last thing is this, in which I am more particularly concern'd. I told you that your Vicar had offered his son to be ordain'd Deacon, and desir'd you to let me know, whether you had any legal impediment to object against him. In answer to which, having said, that you conceiv'd it no concern of yours whether he be ordain'd Deacon or no; you are pleased to tell me that as he was never at any University, so (as you believe) he is under 20 years of age, and hath been brought up at y^e feet of y^e most notorious Dissenter in the northern parts, and is still a frequent hearer of Dissenters in their separate meetings. Here are four things to be considered, which I must speak to apart. First y^t he was never at any University. I set a high value on University learning, and think it would be happy for this nation, if every Church and Chapell in it could be p'vided with a Minister who had spent some years in study at y^e University; but all y^t the Canon requires is that y^e person to be ordain'd have either taken some degree in the University; or y^t he be able to yield an account of his faith in Latin according to y^e Articles of Religion, &c. Now the week before Mr. Birch presented himself to be ordain'd he sent me an account of his faith in Latin, agreeable to the 39 Articles of y^e Church of England, and afterwards when he came to be examined by my self, the Dean and Prebendaries of this Church, by his extemporary answers to the questions they propos'd to him he approv'd himself this way to be sufficiently qualified. 2ly. You believ'd he is under 20 years of Age. But his father assur'd me upon the word of a Xtian that he was 22 years compleat on St. Stephen's day last past, and consequently that he is now 23 years current. 3ly. You say that he has been brought up at y^e feet of the most notorious Dissenter in these northern parts. Suppose he hath, yet if he himself be a sincere Conformist, he deserves so much ye rather to be encourag'd. Now the only trust our Church hath provided in this case, is Subscription to ye 3 Articles of ye 36 Canon; Whosoever do willingly and ex animo Subscribe to these and to all things contain'd in them, he in the judgment of our Church is a Conformist. That Mr. Birch did according to ye express words of ye Canon. But which is more than this; for my further satisfaction, I put ye question closely to his own Conscience whether he had any scruple or objection in his mind agst any part of Conformity? He answered me, y^t he had none, but was fully satisfied in every point. 4ly. But the last is that which I thought ye most material objection which if Mr. Birch hath not clear'd himself from, it would have put a stop to his ordinacon, viz., that he is still a frequent hearer of Dissenters in their separate meetings. His father (when I told him of it) said that he knew no such thing, nor had he ever so much as heard of it. But after he had made enquiry of his son, he told me y^t his son had confess'd to him, y^t he had been twice at separate meetings, and no more than twice since he came home, that is in a year and a half's time. I asked him if he approv'd of it; he said no, and y^t if he should goe to them hereafter he would turne him out of his house. I then spoke to his son, to try which way his inclination lay; he also told me, that he had been but twice at any meetings of Dissenters, for ye last year and a half; and he was resolved not to goe to them again; and thereupon expressly promis'd never to come at them more. I shall add but one thing more, viz., that he brought me a Certificate of his good life and Conversation for 3 years last past exactly agreeable to ye Canon

Chester, May 30th, 1692.¹

N. CESTRIENS.

By his wife, Mary, Thomas Birch had issue six sons, (1) Samuel, buried at Hampton Bishop, May 11, 1671; (2) Thomas; (3) John; (4) Samuel, baptized at Hampton Bishop, 31st March, 1672; (5) Richard, baptized at Hampton Bishop, Jan. 7th, 1673-4; (6) Ambrose, also baptized at Hampton Bishop, July 29th, 1675;² and three daughters, Ann, second wife of Samuel Peploe, Vicar of Preston, afterwards Bishop of Chester; Elizabeth, and Mary.

The Vicar's son, said by his father to have been fully twenty-two years old in 1692, about whom there was such keen strife, was probably Thomas Birch, who, Canon Raines says, was Rector of Hampton Bishop, Herefordshire. The second son, John, was a student of the Middle Temple, and died in 1733. The third surviving son inherited the Vicar's property in Herefordshire, and was living at Leominster at the time of his father's death: he died in 1752.

Mrs. Birch, widow of the Vicar of Preston, survived her husband nearly nine years, her burial being thus recorded in the Preston Register :—1708, Dec. 31, Mrs. Mary Birch, wid. of Mr. Birch, late Vicar [buried].

By his will and codicil bearing date 23 June, 1699, and 9 January, 1699-1700, Thomas Birch left his body "to be interred under the seat over against the pulpit in the parish church of Preston, decently and without that great expence and hurry sometimes used on like occasions." He ordered his Executors to appoint the preacher of his funeral sermon "with a charge to forbear (as was his own practice) personall recommendations," and to pay the preacher a guinea. To his sons, Thomas, John, Samuel, and Ambrose, and to his daughters, Alice and Elizabeth, was bequeathed £5 a piece for mourning. To his son Samuel he gave his lands at Bromyard in Herefordshire. His son Thomas was forgiven the moneys he owed his father on condition of paying to his son Ambrose the sum of £200. To his daughter, Mary, he left a moiety of lands in Bryning, Lancashire, and a moiety to his wife. He recommended his wife and daughter Mary to be careful of his grandchildren, and to be kind to them. To his daughter, Anne, he gave the mortgages upon lands belonging to Sir Thomas Stanley, Bart. ; to his son, Richard, his wearing apparel, books, and manuscripts ; to his wife and son, Richard, to his daughters, Mary, and Anne, and to Thomas Patten, Esq., each five pounds for mourning. Also he left the house he dwelt in to his wife and daughters, Mary and Anne, with the furniture, etc., "desiring that no division may be made so long as they shall live together therein." The book debts owing by poor people he remitted ; and to the poor of Preston he left £5 ; to his maid servant, Dorothy, 40s. ; to Robert Winder [parish clerk] he forgave "the mortuary due of Sarah Kendle's death yet unpaid ;" to his executor, William Shaw, £5. His son Samuel and William Shawe of Preston, gentleman, were appointed executors.

Vicar Birch's will was proved at St. Michaels-on-Wyre, 10 Feb., 1699[1700].

SAMUEL PEPLOE, 1700-1726.

This future Bishop of Chester, sprung from a Shropshire family, was born in 1668, and matriculated at Jesus College, Oxford, graduating B.A. in 1690, M.A. in 1693. On the 3rd May, 1695, he was instituted to the Rectory of Kedleston, Derbyshire, on presentation of Sir Nathaniel Curzon, Bart. (Cox's Churches of Derbyshire, iii., 174). Quitting this living in 1700, he was instituted to Preston Vicarage, on presentation of Sir Charles Hoghton, Bart., on the 29th May of that year. Like his patron, Peploe was a zealous Whig, and soon became known throughout Lancashire as an active and energetic minister, of broad views upon theology, and a staunch adversary of the Jacobites, who, in his time, included a great part of the people of Preston. This, coupled with his somewhat haughty bearing, rendered him obnoxious in the town ; although he greatly exerted himself in improving the educational and religious state of the place, as, for example, by taking part in the building of the Blue Coat School in 1702, and by founding Cadley School in 1707, and by his efforts to increase the number of places of worship in the parish, which are referred to in more detail in chap. V.

An interesting example of his zeal (and of his son's also) for the promotion of education is afforded by a memorandum in his own writing at the beginning of the third Register (see chap. iv.)

The often told story must now be again related of Peploe's bold conduct during the occupation of Preston in 1715 by the Jacobite forces. Tradition says that whilst the Hanoverian Vicar was as usual reading the prayer for King George I., a number of the old Pretender's insurgent party entered the church and threatened him with instant death unless he ceased praying for the "Hanoverian usurper." The courageous Vicar, with great self-possession, continued reading the prayer, only pausing to say—"Soldier, do your duty, I shall do mine." "The firmness of his tone (says Canon Raines) and the dignity of his manner, awed the rebel, who silently retired, and the alarmed congregation proceeded with their devotions. When this anecdote was related to George the First, he was so much affected by the cool heroism of his Whig supporter that he exclaimed in his broken German, with considerable emphasis, 'Peep-low, Peep-low! by — he shall Peep-high—he shall be a Bishop!' a royal determination punctually performed" (Chet. Soc., xxi., 15).

After the defeat of the Chevalier de St. George, in 1715, and the appointment of the Commission for Forfeited Estates in the following year, Vicar Peploe displayed considerable activity in furtherance of the proceedings taken against Catholics and their property. He sent to the Commissioners an elaborate report of his discoveries of "estates granted to superstitious uses in and about Preston" (Forfeited Estates Papers, p. 34, P.R.O.). This account includes not only some six or seven chapels, and sundry properties and monies held in trust for various Catholic charities, but also the private estates of priests, which were then liable to confiscation under the penal laws. Such informers were invariably well rewarded, and hence it is far more probable that Peploe's preferment was in acknowledgment of his anti-Catholic vigilance, than due to the questionable anecdote related by Canon Raines.

On the 1st July, 1718, Peploe was nominated by King George to the Wardenship of the Collegiate Church of Manchester, vacant by the death of Dr. Wroe. Without exception the Fellows of the College were opposed to the new Warden; while Bishop Gastrell and the clergy of Chester diocese generally were Tories, so that Peploe stood almost alone as "an Erastian and a Whig." Moreover, by the statutes of Manchester College, the Warden was required to be at least a Bachelor of Divinity, whereas Peploe was only Master of Arts. Instead of taking the necessary degree in the usual way at his University of Oxford, he qualified himself by obtaining from the Archbishop of Canterbury a Lambeth degree of Bachelor of Divinity. Gastrell refused to institute Peploe on the ground that a Lambeth degree was only honorary, while by the College Charter a degree conferred by an English University was required. Peploe declined to give way; and three years afterwards the Court of King's Bench decided the point in his favour. Peploe was accordingly admitted to Manchester Wardenship, and installed by proxy. His situation, however, was one "of great pain and disquietude." His attempts to promote religious freedom and toleration were most unfavourably received by Manchester Churchmen, just as upon the political questions of the day he was out of harmony with them. A very full and interesting account of Peploe's career as Warden is given in Hibbert-Ware's Foundations of Manchester (ii., 56-81).

On the 12th April, 1726, in succession to his former opponent, Dr. Gastrell, Samuel Peploe was consecrated Bishop of Chester at St. Margaret's Church, Westminster, by Lancelot Blackburn, Archbishop of York. Preston Vicarage he then gave up, but the Wardenship of Manchester he retained until 1738, when he resigned it in favour of his son. It is greatly to his credit that during his episcopate no less than 39 churches were built, rebuilt, or consecrated by him (Chet. Soc., N.S., vi., 164-5). He was largely instrumental in the erection of St. George's Chapel, Preston, and of Grimsargh Chapel. Bishop Peploe (as has been well said) "possessed a disposition alive to every claim of justice which was appealed to him to redress, and as indifferent of what the power of man could inflict upon him as of public opinion or censure, so long as he conceived that he was conscientiously discharging the duties of his office. His benevolent temper likewise prompted him to many acts of liberality, which caused him, notwithstanding the failing of a warm temper, to be greatly beloved in his diocese." And although in the age in which he lived his broad ideas upon religious liberty were by no means universally appreciated, in these more enlightened days we surely cannot refrain from expressing our admiration that he did advocate what he called "the liberty of serving God in public" for all Dissenting congregations professing Christianity, and even drew upon himself the withering reproach of "pleading for a public toleration of Popery in a Protestant country."

After an episcopate of nearly six-and-twenty years, the Bishop died at Chester on the 21st February, 1752, aged 84 years, and was buried in the choir of his own Cathedral, on the south side of the communion table. Upon his monument of Derbyshire marble, decorated with cherubs and foliage, and an escutcheon of the arms of Chester Bishopric impaling those of Peploe, is engraved the following inscription:—

His portrait, painted by Winstanley, which fronts this page, is reproduced from the engraving in Hibbert-Ware's Foundations of Manchester, opposite page 56 of the second volume.

Samuel Peploe married first, Ann, only daughter of Thomas Browne of Shredicote, co. Stafford, Esq., and by her had issue:—(1) Samuel, born in 1699. (2) Mary, baptized at Preston, July 29, 1701; she married, as his third wife, Francis Jodrell of Yeardsley and Twemlow, co. Chester, Esq., and dying in 1772, was buried in Chester Cathedral. (3) Anne, baptized at Preston, November 17, 1702,¹ her husband was James Bayley, of Manchester, Esq., Registrar of the Diocese of Chester; she died Nov. 29, 1769, aged 67, and was buried in Manchester Church. (4) Elizabeth, baptized at Preston, June 26, 1704; she married at Northenden, 7 March, 1735-6, John Bradshaw, of Darcey Lever, Esq., High Sheriff of Lancashire in 1753. (5) Jane, baptized at Preston, Nov. 25, 1705, and there buried Dec. 5 following.

Mrs. Peploe died in childbed, and with her new-born babe was buried at Preston: "1705, Dec. 5, Anne, the dear wife of Samuel Peploe, Vicar of Preston."

On the 8th January, 1711-12, Peploe married secondly, Ann, the daughter of his predecessor, Thomas Birch, the entry in the Register being: "Samuel Peploe, Vic. of Preston and Mrs. Ann Birch [married] Jan. 8, 1711[12]."

Of Bishop Peploe's publications Canon Raines notes the following:²

1. A Sermon preach'd at the Assizes held at Lancaster, 7 April, 1710, by Samuel Peploe, A.M., Vicar of Preston, and Chaplain to Lord de la War. London, 8vo.

2. A Steadfast Affection to the Protestant Religion, etc. A sermon preach'd at Liverpool, 11 January, 1715-16. Published at the desire of the Judge, the Sheriff, and the Grand Jury, assembled at the Assizes for trying the Rebels. London, 8vo., 24 pp.

3. God's Peculiar Care in the Preservation of our Religion and Liberties. A sermon preach'd at Lancaster Assizes, 24 March, 1716, before Judge Dormer. London, 8vo., 28 pp.

4. "Questions.....to be answered by the Clergy of the Diocese of Chester at the Primary Visitation of Samuel, Lord Bishop of Chester, etc." 4to., 1726, 8pp.

To these we may add the following:—

1. A Sermon preach'd at the anniversary meeting of the children educated in the Charity Schools.....of London, &c. London, 1730, 4to.

2. A Sermon preach'd before the Lords..... Jan. 30, 1732. London, 1733, 4to.—Second Edition, London, 1733, 4to.

¹ Canon Raines gives the date as Nov. 1, (Chet. Soc., N.S., vi., 165). It should be stated that the date of birth as well as baptism is often recorded in the Preston Registers from the year 1680.

² Ibid., 165-6.

3. Popish Idolatry, a strong reason why all Protestants should oppose the present Rebellion. A sermon. London, 1745, 4to.

SAMUEL PEPLOE (YOUNGER), 1727-1743.¹

Samuel Peploe, only son of Bishop Peploe, was born about the year 1699, probably at Kedleston, in Derbyshire, of which parish his father was then Vicar. The age, eighteen, recorded for him at his matriculation, 19 February, 1719-20, is plainly wrong. Educated at Wadham College, Oxford, he graduated LL.B., Oct. 29, 1726, and LL.D., July 2, 1763.

He was instituted to Preston vicarage, 4 July, 1727, on presentation of the new King, George II., thus succeeding his father and namesake in that living.² On the same day his episcopal sire conferred upon him a prebendal stall in Chester Cathedral (Le Neve, iii., 271). Within less than six months, 19 Dec., 1727, he was admitted to the rectory of Northenden, in Cheshire, on presentation of the Dean and Chapter of Chester (Ormerod, iii., 316). On top of these appointments came the archdeaconry of Richmond, to which he was collated 4 June, 1728 (Le Neve, iii., 268). And, on the death of Dr. Peregrine Gastrell, the Bishop of Chester promoted him to the office of Chancellor of the Diocese (Chetham Soc., vi., 167, N.S.). Preferment still accumulated upon the younger Peploe, as, on his father's resignation in 1738, the King appointed him Warden of the Collegiate Church of Manchester, where he was installed on the 25th October of that year. Finally, he was collated by his mindful father to the rectory of Tattenhall, in Cheshire, 16th April, 1743, having the foregoing day resigned the vicarage of Preston.

Of Samuel Peploe's life and work at Preston during the sixteen years of his incumbency there, but little is known. One instance of his zeal for the best interests of the parish will be noted in chap. iv. The entries in the Registers, almost invariably made by himself, are written in an extremely bold and legible hand. A slight, but significant, instance of the confidence reposed in the Vicar by the "xxiv" of the parish is afforded by a minute solemnly entered in the

¹ John Stanley, A.M., was presented to Preston vicarage by King George I., 13 April, 1726, the vicarage being void by cession of Samuel Peploe, now Bishop of Chester (Cat. Present. Duchy Lanc., 142a). There is no evidence that John Stanley was ever instituted to this benefice, although the younger Peploe did not become vicar here until 4 July, 1727.

² Peploe himself in the Register (see chap. IV.) records that the first marriage he celebrated in Preston parish was on Dec. 29th, 1726.

records of that body, under date of April 19th, 1731, to the effect that "the account of two bottles of wine" provided at the town's expense to "any strange ministers that shall att any time preach, shall be brought to the Rev. Mr. Archdeacon Peploe."

Canon Raines says:—"It has been recorded that he [Peploe the younger] thoroughly understood the vernacular of Lancashire, and generally addressed the lower order in their own uncouth and original tongue, although it is clear that he had a purer English at his command when the occasion required it. He was a man of cultivated mind, and, notwithstanding his lavish preferments, is said not to have been anxious in taking care of his own interests, nor a proficient in economy. He had a local fame, and seems to have valued it" (Chet. Soc., N.S., vi., 169).

His urbanity and gentlemanly spirit were highly appreciated by all classes; and the delivery of his sermons is said to have been marked with ease and dignity.¹ The epigrammatic saying, attributed to his son, contains probably more truth than most posthumous panegyrics: "he was a devout Christian, an able preacher, and a sound divine."

Dr. Peploe died, October 22nd, 1781, aged 82 years, holding all his aforesaid promotions but Preston vicarage, and was buried in the nave of Chester Cathedral. On the pyramidal marble monument, by Nollekens, erected over his remains, is cut the following epitaph²:—

SACRED TO THE MEMORY OF SAMUEL PEPLOE, LL.D., CHANCELLOR OF THE DIOCESE OF CHESTER, AND WARDEN OF THE COLLEGIATE CHURCH OF MANCHESTER. HE DIED OCT. 22ND, 1781, AGED 82 YEARS.

An engraved copy of a remarkably fine portrait of Samuel Peploe, painted by Gainsborough, appears in the second volume of Hibbert Ware's Manchester Foundations, opposite page 82.

Samuel Peploe married, first, by licence, in Manchester Collegiate Church, 27th Dec., 1727, Mrs. Elizabeth Birch, "daughter of the Rev. Thomas Birch, Rector of Hampton Bishop, in the county of Hereford, and niece of Bishop Peploe's second wife," and had issue:—(1) Ann, born at Preston, March 22, 1728-9; buried there, July 7, 1736. (2) Elizabeth, born at Preston, Sept. 12, 1730; buried there, July 22, 1731. (3) Lætitia, born at Preston, Nov. 8, 1732; buried there, Nov. 17 following. (4) Mary, born at Preston, Aug. 25, 1733; buried there, Aug. 6, 1736. (5) Samuel Birch, born at Preston, Dec. 4, 1737; buried there Nov. 2, 1740. (6) Ann, born at Preston, Jan. 14, 1738-9. (7) John, baptized at Preston, Feb. 11, 1740-1.

² Ibid., 163; Ormerod, i., 243.

Dr. Peploe in his old age married, secondly, on the 10th October, 1774, Rebecca, one of the daughters of Edward Roberts, Esq., Deputy Registrar of the diocese of Chester. She died without issue, 29th Oct., 1779, aged 59, and was buried in Chester Cathedral.¹

John Peploe, the only surviving son, in 1752 assumed the surname of Birch, under the will of his uncle, Samuel Birch, Esq. He was High Sheriff of Herefordshire in 1768, and died Jan. 26th, 1805.²

RANDALL ANDREWS, 1743-1782.

This Vicar, son of Randall Andrews of Wellington, in Shropshire, was born about 1710, and matriculated at Magdalen Hall, Oxford, 10th Oct., 1728, graduating B.A. on the 8th June, 1732. In 1733 he was appointed curate of St. George's Chapel, Preston.

Randall Andrews was instituted to Preston vicarage 30th April, 1743, on presentation of William Shawe, Esq., of Preston, patron for that turn only. He was Mayor's chaplain at Preston Guild in 1762, preaching the sermon on the opening day. A strong supporter of the Whig party, he incurred much political odium in consequence of his adherence to the house of Stanley. During the noteworthy election of 1768 when party feeling ran extraordinarily high, so bitter were Preston Corporation against the anti-Tory Vicar that his claim as being an inhabitant of the borough to vote for Burgoyne and Hoghton, the Whig candidates for representing Preston in Parliament, was rejected by the Mayor, on the ground that Mr. Andrews was not a freeman. One or two scurrilous lampoons aimed at the Vicar were printed, which are deserving of passing mention. In one, entitled "Randle of Andirty, or a new song on a north country Vicar who bought his living, stole his gown, and robbed his parochial," set to the tune of "Kettle Binder," the beginning is as follows:—

"Did you not hear of a certain Vicar?
There's none could get a benefice quicker,
He paid for it down, six hundred guineas;
'No matter,' says he, 'how my conscience within is.'"

Caustic reference is made to his yearning for clerical promotion; his jealousy of his curate's degree as Master of Arts, the vicar being represented as saying: "it grieves me that a curate should be in a shoulder-of-mutton sleeve, and his vicar but a pudding."

Although Vicar of Preston for the long spell of 39 years, nothing more have we learnt of Randall Andrews, save that he died in 1782, aged 72, and was buried at Preston on the 7th August.

By his wife, Elizabeth, Randall Andrews had issue (1) John, baptized at Preston, 23rd August, 1740, and buried there the same day. (2) Margaret, born and baptized at Preston, July 17th, 1743. (3) Elizabeth, born March 30th, 1748. (4) Randal, born June 6th, 1751, Vicar of Ormskirk from 1780 to 1800; he was buried there, Nov. 27th, 1800. (5) Mary, born 8th June, 1753.

HUMPHREY SHUTTLEWORTH, 1782-1809.

Humphrey Shuttleworth, born 29th Jan., 1735-6, was third son of Nicholas Shuttleworth of Elvet, by Durham, Esq. (a scion of the family of that name long settled at Gawthorp in Lancashire), by his wife Elizabeth, daughter of Humphrey March of Foxton, in the Bishopric of Durham, Esq. He entered as a scholar at Christ Church College at Oxford on the 20th June, 1753, graduating B.A. on the 27th April, 1757, and M.A. on the 18th March, 1760. His father, who died on the 18th September, 1770, bequeathed him £800, and £100 a year (Chetham Soc., xcii., 130).

On the 18th July, 1771, Humphrey Shuttleworth was instituted to the vicarage of Kirkham, on presentation of the Dean and Chapter of Christ Church at Oxford. Upon the death of Randall Andrews, he was instituted to Preston vicarage on presentation of Sir Henry Hoghton, Bart., on the 30th October, 1782. On the 16th July, 1791, he became prebendary of Weighton prebend in York minster (Le Neve, iii., 225). He was also a King's preacher of Lancashire, being thereto appointed by Bishop Cleaver of Chester on the 15th July, 1790. At the Preston Guild of 1802 this vicar preached the customary sermon at the parish church before an immense congregation (see post). He appears to have had his abode chiefly at Preston, even after his resignation of our vicarage in 1809; a stipendary curate being commonly left in charge of Kirkham. Prebendary and Vicar Shuttleworth breathed his last at Preston at his house upon "the terrace" in Churchgate, on the 14th August, 1812, and was buried in the chancel of Kirkham church. Upon a slab covering his grave is cut the following inscription:—

HERE LYETH INTERRED THE BODY OF THE REV. HUMPHREY SHUTTLEWORTH, LATE VICAR OF KIRKHAM. HE DEPARTED THIS LIFE ON THE 14TH AUGUST, 1812, AGED 76 YEARS. (Chet. Soc., xcii., 130).

Mr. Shuttleworth married at Preston, 28th Feb., 1774, Anna, daughter of Philip Hoghton, Esq. (third son of Sir Charles Hoghton, Bart.), and had the following issue:—(1) Richard Henry, born 4th July, 1780, died without issue; (2) Philip Nicholas, born at Kirkham, 9th February, 1782, bred at Preston Grammar School; for eighteen years (1822-1840) Warden of New College, Oxford, and Bishop of Chichester from 1840 until his death on the 7th January, 1842; (3) Mary Elizabeth; (4) Caroline, died in October, 1827; and (5) Frances Anna, died in 1816.

Mrs. Shuttleworth died in November, 1783, and was buried on the 28th of that month at Walton-le-Dale. She was half-sister to Sir Henry Hoghton, Bart., who succeeded his uncle in the title in 1768.

The Rev. Humphrey Shuttleworth published a series of Lectures on the Creed of Pope Pius IV., and a variety of tracts against Popery, which he is said to have distributed "with unsparing hand in this part of Lancashire."¹ He also published by request "a sermon preached in the Parish Church of Preston on Dec. 27th, 1781, before the Lodge of Amity, by the reverend brother H. Shuttleworth, M.A." (46 pp., 8vo).

JAMES PENNY, 1809-1816.

Descended from a family long settled at Knutsford, in Cheshire, and said to have originally come over to England from France at the revocation of the Edict of Nantes,² James Penny, youngest son of Henry Penny, apothecary, of Knutsford, by his wife Elizabeth, daughter of Thomas Brooke, Esq., of Astley, in Lancashire, was baptized at Knutsford on the 13th June, 1756. His father was brother to Edward Penny, the Royal Academician. Like his four elder brothers, James Penny began his education at Manchester Grammar School, his name being entered in the school register on the 8th July, 1767 (Chetham Soc., lxix., 145). He was an exhibitioner of the school to Brasenose College at Oxford, where he graduated B.A. on the 1st February, 1779, and, after passing to Hertford College, M.A. on the 24th May, 1784 (Ibid.).

² No such name appears in Smiles's Huguenots. Whatever its origin, the surname Penny was domiciled in England centuries before the revocation of the Edict of Nantes.

After serving for some years as Curate at Alderley, in Cheshire, to which post he was appointed in 1786 (Earwaker's East Cheshire), ii., 636), Mr. Penny in 1795 became Curate of Marton and Chelford Chapels, both in the parish of Prestbury, being instituted to Marton on the 8th December, on presentation of Davies Davenport, of Capes-thorne, Esq. (Ibid., 394), and to Chelford on the following day, on presentation of Thomas Parker, of Astle, Esq. (Ibid., 369). In 1803 he lost his wife Elizabeth, who died on the 21st November of that year, aged 41, and was buried two days afterwards at Chelford (Ibid.). The incumbency of Marton Mr. Penny resigned in 1806. On the 10th May, 1807, he was collated to Chipping vicarage by Bishop Majendie of Chester. Two years later, on the 26th Sept., 1809, on presentation of Sir Henry Philip Hoghton, Bart., he was instituted to our vicarage of Preston. Both livings, as well as Chelford, he held until his death, which took place at Preston on the 31st October, 1816, at the age of 60. He was buried at Preston on the 6th November, 1816.

Of James Penny's younger son, Henry, educated like his father at Manchester School, it is stated that he "served his clerkship with Grimshaw and Palmer, solicitors, Preston," and "subsequently went out to India," where he died (Chetham Soc., xciii., 84). The elder son, Edmund Henry, M.A., of Brasenose College, Oxford, became Rector of Great Stambidge, in Essex, from 1839 to 1879.

ROGER CARUS WILSON, 1817-1839.

This Vicar was second son of W. W. Carus Wilson, Esq., of Casterton, Kirby Lonsdale, formerly M.P. for Cockermouth. He graduated at Trinity College, Cambridge, A.B., 1815, M.A., 1818, and was chaplain to Viscount Galway. To the vicarage of Preston he was instituted, 1st March, 1817, on presentation of his father, patron for this turn only. His incumbency was chiefly remarkable for the great increase of churches in the parish. In 1825 and 1826 the chapels of St. Peter and St. Paul were consecrated; and in 1836, 1838, and 1839 were consecrated Christ's Church, St. Mary's, and St. Thomas's.

Mr. Wilson died very suddenly, Dec. 15, 1839, aged 47 years, and was buried at Preston. On the south wall of the chancel aisle of the Parish Church a monument to his memory was erected by public subscription.

His wife, by whom he had no children, survived him. Mr. Wilson was the author of "The Life of Peter Houghton, B.A., late assistant curate of Walton-le-Dale," London, 1832.

JOHN OWEN PARR, 1840-1877.

Born 8th August, 1798, this Vicar, the eldest son of John Owen Parr, of Liverpool, graduated at Brasenose College, Oxford, B.A., 1818, M.A., 1830. In 1821 he was a chaplain in the Madras Presidency; soon after curate of Henley-on-Thames; and headmaster of Islington Proprietary School. In 1834 he became Vicar of Durnford, in Salisbury diocese.

To Preston vicarage he was instituted, 16th April, 1840, on presentation of Hulmes's Trustees. In 1844 he became Rural Dean, a Proctor in Convocation, and a county magistrate; and in 1853 was nominated to an Honorary Canonry in Manchester Cathedral.

Canon Parr took a prominent part in public affairs. He was chairman of the local cotton relief fund; and was also chairman of the Burial Board. Canon Parr died Feb. 12, 1877, and was buried at Preston. On the south wall of the chancel aisle of the Parish Church is a monument to his memory.

By his first wife, Maria Elizabeth, eldest daughter of William Wright, Esq., of London, Mr. Parr had issue (1) Rev. John Owen Parr, M.A., Worthing, Sussex; (2) Wm. Chase Parr, Alton, Hants; (3) Harrington W. Parr, Governor of H.M. Prison, Warwick; (4) W. Manisty Parr, died in 1857; (5) Edward Parr, died young; and a daughter, wife of the late Rev. John Wilson, M.A., incumbent of St. James's, Preston. Mrs. Parr died 20th Feb., 1841. He married, secondly, Miss Proctor, by whom he had a son, Arthur, who died young.

JAMES HAMER RAWDON, 1877.

The present Vicar of Preston graduated at Brasenose College, Oxford, B.A., 1858, M.A., 1861; and from 1861-3 was a Fellow of St. Peter's College, Radley. He was curate of Halton, 1863-4; of Astbury, 1865-71; and of Great Yarmouth, 1871-5. On Jan. 21, 1875, he was licensed to the perpetual curacy of Shaw. To Preston Vicarage Mr. Rawdon was instituted July 12, 1877, on presentation of Hulme's Trustees. In 1884 he was appointed Rural Dean of Preston; and in 1890 became an honorary Canon of Manchester.

CHAPTER III.

The Stipendiary Curates of Preston.

BY virtue of a lease made to the Mayor and Burgesses of Preston for 21 years, bearing date 31 Henry VIII. (1539-40), the said Burgesses were bound to find a Priest during the said term, and to pay him yearly £6, which they observed accordingly, as likewise by a lease made by them to the said Priest, bearing date 33 Henry VIII. (1541-2). Robert Wilkinson accordingly was Stipendiary Priest here in 1547, at the aforesaid yearly salary of £6, he having no other living (Chetham Soc., lx., 204-5).¹

"This functionary and his office," says Canon Raines, "were unnoticed by the Commissioners of Henry VIII. . . . His stipend had been secured on lands lately belonging to the dissolved Hospital [more truly the Greyfriars] at Preston, and leased to the Corporation of the borough" (Ibid., 204).

The subjoined list of Curates, although far from complete, exhibits more than one name hitherto unrecorded in print.

ROGER BRADSHAW (1525-1530).
ROBERT WILKINSON, occurring 1547.
RICHARD BANNISTER, occurring 1557.
RALPH THORNBOROUGH, occurring 1558.
WILLIAM WALL, occurring 1574.
ROGER FARRAND, occurring 1614.
CHRISTOPHER HUDSON, occurs 1639.
WILLIAM ADDISON, occurring 1648.
JOHN HARRISON (1681-1684).
MR. FARRAND, occurs 1687.
CHRISTOPHER SUDELL, 1696-1698.
JAMES CLIFTON, 1698-1699.
RICHARD TAYLOR, 1699-1701.
GEORGE RISHTON, 1701-1706.
JOHN YOUNG 1701-1722.
JAMES MATTHEWS, elected 1723.
THOMAS ELLISON (1731)-1732.
JOHN HATCH (1747-1752).

¹ There was always a stipendiary curate or parish chaplain at Preston church, whoever paid him, though before 1525 we have met with the name of none. This foundation of 31 and 33 Henry VIII. simply settled for a while the amount and source of this chaplain's payment.

CHAPTER IV.

The Registers.

HAVE thought it quite unnecessary to enter here into the origin or history of Parochial Registers. In Mr. Chester Waters's Parish Registers in England, and other similar works, full information is readily accessible. But of the state and condition of the Preston Parish Registers it is necessary that a few words should be said. The earliest existing register begins in 1611, but at the beginning of the second Register are inserted two pages, evidently the remains of an earlier volume, containing some thirty or forty entries of the date, 1603, and later on will be noted a remarkable entry, from which proof positive—if that were needed—is afforded of the then existence of an earlier volume. Such an important—compared to parishes like Chipping and Garstang—Ecclesiastical centre as Preston then was is hardly likely to have neglected Thomas Cromwell's injunction, issued by the King's command in 1538. What has become of the earlier volume, or volumes, it is impossible to say; and it is hardly worth while making such a hopeless inquiry. We can only express our regret at their disappearance or destruction.

The first existing register commences then in 1611. It is a folio manuscript volume bound in sheepskin, and is in a very good state of preservation. The earlier entries, in Vicar Paler's handwriting, are remarkably bold and legible for the period. Later on (in 1650) the writing deteriorates, until at times it becomes almost indecipherable. The fact that churchings are recorded in the registers is, I understand, from a communication I received from Mr. Chester Waters some little time ago, quite unique. In a letter dated the 6th of January, 1890, Mr. Waters says:—"I have never met with any instance of churchings being registered, and I can confidently say that it never was the custom in the South of England. I have some recollection that at the end of one register there was a fly-leaf containing the doings of the Squire and his family in other places and parishes, and that one entry said, 'Madame was churched and her infant baptized at St. Martin's-in-the-Fields;' but this was a mem. of a miscellaneous series of events, including the date on which 'Madame came back from London,' and therefore I took no heed of it, except as an illustration of the odd things noted in registers." I consider, then, after such an authoritative statement that I am justified in saying that these entries of churchings in the Preston Registers are almost, if not quite, unique. It is impossible to account for their appearance. No reference to the entering of churchings in the registers is made in Cromwell's injunction. To a large extent it is obvious that such entries were superfluous. And, indeed, the then Vicar, John Paler, appears to have recognised this from the words he uses as a heading to these entries, as will be noted later on.

An interesting example of the elder Peploe's zeal (and his son's also) for the promotion of education is afforded by a memorandum in his own writing at the beginning of the third Register:—

"The second day of September, A.D., 1728, the house in which twenty-five poor girls are now educated in the principles of Religion, and taught to read, sew, etc., standing on part of the vicarage land on the north side of the town of Preston, and likewise one little necessary house near the said building, was erected out of the money collected in the parish church of Preston for the use of the Charity Schools," and, in order that the same may be kept in an efficient condition, "it is hoped that the succeeding Vicars of Preston will not interrupt the use and application of so charitable an undertaking by any claim which they may make to that small parcel of ground on which those buildings stand, and much less to any advantage they may make by converting the said buildings to other uses."

"The houses above mentioned were erected by me when Vicar of Preston,

His son added the following note:—

Saml. Cestriens."

"I renounce all private interest in the ground and buildings above mentioned during my incumbency, Witness my hand, Saml. Peploe, Vicar."

CHAPTER V.

Chantries and Chapels.

The Chantry of Our Lady.

HIS Chantry, at the altar of Our Lady within the Parish Church of Preston in Amounderness, was founded in the latter half of the fifteenth century by Helen, widow of Henry Hoghton, of Hoghton, Esquire. According to the Chantry's ordination, the chaplain, besides celebrating continually for the soul of the foundress and for all Christian souls, was bound also to keep a free grammar school (Chet. Soc., lx. 205).¹

Nicholas Banester was cantarist here in 1535, the clear annual value of the foundation being at the same time estimated at 61s. (Valor Eccl., Henrici VIII., v. 263).

At the dissolution under Edward VI., the incumbent of this Chantry was still Nicholas Banester; the return for plate "none," and the endowment, tenants, and yearly rental as follows² and so leased, "to the great prejudice of the inhabitants of Preston, but also to the great hindrance of the bringing up of the youths of that town and the country there near adjoining (Duchy Pleadings, 1 & 2 Philip and Mary, vol. 1. B. 10).

Roger Lewyns, priest, in his statement of complaint to the Chancellor of the Derby, about the year 1522, said, that Thomas, Earl of Derby, lately deceased, of his goodness, at the feast of St. Luke the Evangelist, 1518, granted the Chantry of Our Lady within the Parish Church of Preston, belonging to his inheritances, with all rights and profits thereof, unto plaintiff, for doing Divine service duly in the said Chantry, all of which rights and profits plaintiff has had and occupied without let or trouble to any man. But, of late, James Walton, Mayor of Preston, and others, Burgesses of Preston, along with divers riotous persons, to the number of 20 and more, with force and arms, to wit, "with billys and clubbs, swordes, buklers, and oder defensible wepyons," came on the 2nd day of October last to the Church of Preston, where plaintiff was "in the end of his masse, and ther and then, afor the time that" plaintiff "couthe have space to do of his albe and amyce, violently broke one Cofur standing at his altur ende and entreed the same and wrongfully by might and great power, spolyd, toke, robbyd, and caried away with thame from thense oon Chales of Syluer, and diuerse vestiments, masse bookes, and other juellez belonging to the said Chantry, and the keyes of the same. And if" plaintiff "had at that tyme made any resistaunce to thur wrongfull mysdemenor rehersed and evill purpose prepensed, he had been by the said James Walton and the orders the said riotous persons put in danger and great perell of his lyve and to have been cruelly slayn and murdered." He further complained that the said James Walton had commanded all plaintiff's tenants not to pay their rents, to plaintiff's utter undoing to the "perliouse" example to the King's liege people, &c.¹ He therefore prays for a writ of subpoena, against the persons complained of.

The Mayor of Preston, James Walton, replying for himself and the other persons concerned, denies that he ever heard of any such grant from the late Earl of Derby, and says that if any such were made, "it was null and void by reason that the town of Preston is an ancient borough corporate by the name of mayor and burgesses, time out of mind," which mayor and burgesses and other persons to their use are seized of certain lands and tenements in Preston and Walton to the yearly value of £6 in demesne as of fee, which they had of divers well disposed persons. In consideration whereof about 80 years ago [1442], the then mayor and burgesses "of their charitable mind which they bore for the souls of those who had departed to God," agreed with the profits of the said lands to have a priest continually to sing and pray for the souls of the said persons, and for the prosperity and welfare of the mayor and burgesses and other inhabitants of the town, within the Church of Preston, and every priest so appointed, should keep a free school within the said town to teach the scholars there. After acknowledging the diligence wherewith the said priests had done their duties in this regard, the Mayor goes on to state that of late, after the death of George Hale, clerk, the same service was void, and there was no priest there, by reason thereof the then mayor and burgesses "were content at the instance of the said late Earl, to whom they were much bounden, to accept such a priest as he would appoint." Accordingly the Earl of Derby appointed Roger Lewyns, the plaintiff, who would not keep the free school, and do other divine service, as former priests had done. Such being the case, the Mayor, at the time mentioned, after the said Sir Roger had fully ended his mass and was "avoided and gone" from the altar "in peaceable manner, thinking no evil to no person, took the said chalice, as it was wrapped and inclosed on the altar," and delivered it to Richard Fedeler, one of the wardens of the said Church, "among other the chalice, vestments, and ornaments, to the said Church belonging." After the delivery thereof (adds the Mayor) the said Roger Lewyns had and used the said chalice again and put it and the vestments in a chest appointed for the priest. The Mayor admits that he bade the tenants and farmers of the chantry lands not to pay their rents to plaintiff, and considers that it was lawful for him so to do, for the reasons given. He concludes by plainly denying that the Earl of Derby had a perpetual Chantry in Preston Church.

In his counter-reply, Sir Roger Lewyns again asserts that the Earl of Derby, not only in his own right, but also with the consent of the mayor and burgesses of Preston, gave him the said Chantry for life, and that he had enjoyed the rights and profits of the same peaceably for three years and more.

The known and undoubted incumbents of Our Lady Chantry at Preston are accordingly as follows:—

GEORGE HALE, who died in that office in 1518 (see p. 232).

ROGER LEVENS, or LEWYNS, appointed 18 October, 1518, by Thomas, Earl of Derby, by consent of the Mayor and Burgesses of Preston (see p. 232). The same Roger Levens we find incumbent here in 1522, the year of the said Earl's decease (ibid.). In February, 1523-4, he appears as parish chaplain or curate of Slaidburn in Craven, his wages £4 a year (Clerical Subsidies, $\frac{2}{3}\frac{4}{5}$ R.O.).

NICHOLAS BANESTER, who occurs in the Valor Ecclesiasticus of 1535 (see p. 230), and again at the suppression of the Chantry in 1547 (ibid.). Under Queen Mary, Nicholas Banester does not appear as in receipt of a pension, so that by that time we must assume him either as dead or as holding some other ecclesiastical preferment.

As to masters of the Free Grammar School before the foundation of this Chantry, the only one whom we can find is as follows:—

RICHARD MARSHALL, clerk, instituted 5 January, 1399-1400 (Harl. MSS., 6978, 19b.). In 1415, the same Richard Marshall, occurs as a member of Preston Guild Merchant (Rec. Soc. Lanc. Chesh., ix, 9).

The Chantry of the Holy Rood or Crucifix.

This Chantry of the Holy Rood or Crucifix, within Preston Parish Church, was founded early in the fourteenth century by Sir Richard Hoghton, Knt. (who died in 1340), son and heir of Sir Adam Hoghton by his wife Avicia Hoghwick. The altar at which the incumbent of this Chantry celebrated stood in all likelihood in the rood-loft under the great Rood, and above the screen dividing the chancel from the body of the church.

Quoting from the Registers of the Archdeaconry of Richmond, Raines says that on the feast of St. Katharine, virgin and martyr (25th Nov.), 1487, it was stated that

"Alexander de Hoghton and his wife Elizabeth have a Chantry within the Parish Church of Preston in Amounderness, and John Troutbeck is chaplain there, and shall celebrate for the souls of their parents, ancestors, and heirs and the same Alexander and his heirs shall support and repair the aforesaid chapel after the statute and ordination, and shall in the same find books, chalice, vestments, cruets, and all other ornaments which shall be needful for such chapel and chantry" (Chet. Soc., lx, 202).

On the 12th October, 1498, Sir Alexander Hoghton appointed William Galter to be chaplain of this Chantry (ibid., 203). Sir Alexander's next kinsman and heir, Sir Richard Hoghton, Knight, on the 15th May, 1525, confirmed the chaplaincy of the Chantry at the Rood altar in Preston Parish Church to Thomas Bostock (Piccoppe MSS., vi, 133), who still occurs as chaplain at Preston about 1530 (Cler. Subsidies, $\frac{6}{12}$, R.O.). In 1535 the clear annual value of this Chantry was returned as £4 4s. 10d., John Shepherd being cantarist there (Valor Eccl. Hen. VIII., v. 263). At the suppression in 1547 John Shepherd was still incumbent here; of plate there was returned "none;" and the endowment, tenants and yearly rental were as follows¹ :—

Many disputes appear to have taken place after the dissolution between the various claimants to the Chantry lands. In 26 Eliz. (1584), Henry Hodgkinson and Anthony Wall, entered suits in the Duchy Court, as to the ownership of certain lands, in particular, a parcel lying in Raye-moor near Ribbleton," late in the tenure of William Wall, and sometime parcel of the possessions of the Holy Crucifix founded within the Parish Church of Preston. Anthony Wall, refers to the fact that he had "heard that his grandfather, or great-grandfather, paid to the said Chantry a rent of 12d." About this time Lawrence Wall states that "of late" certain envious and evill dysposed persons dysdaynyng the good success and lyvinge" of plaintiff, "enticed" Robert Abbott, of Preston, then occupier of the aforesaid close of land, to purchase the same from plaintiff. Thinking the said Robert was acting in an upright manner, plaintiff concluded the sale. But soon after the said Robert being "at compatt" about the same with one Henry Hodgkinson, of Preston, then assignee of Hugh Dyconson her Majesty's farmer of the late Chantry of the Crucifix, claimed the land to be parcel of the said Chantry, whereas (says plaintiff), in very truth the said lands had never been employed upon any Chantry, Chantry priest, or stipendiary priest, or upon any other "superstitions." The Court held that the lands were Chantry lands. Abbott told a very different tale. He had been "forced" to pay £12 for the land—one acre in extent "a hard price" to a "poor man." When the Queen's farmer put in his claim, Abbott wished plaintiff to take back the land. Plaintiff declined, and so Abbot had to journey to London to defend the action himself.

The site in the Market-place, upon which afterwards was built the well-known house and shop, belonged to the Chantry of the Crucifix of the Parish Church. In 1616, it belonged to Henry Hodgkinson of Preston, draper, and in his will, proved in April, 1616, he bequeathed to his son "Thomas and his heires, one burgage or tent in the Market Place, in Preston," in the occupation of James Breres, charged with an annual chief rent of xxiiis. for the King. In 1628, John Jenkinson of Preston, draper, held the land on lease, and in his will, dated 13th of February the same year, refers to the "said buildings and frame" intended to be erected thereon, for which he had provided "divers and sundrie materialls." Jenkinson's widow, Ann, then purchased the reversion of the property for £60. In 1676, Grace, widow of a Dr. Cole, sole surviving daughter of John Jenkinson, describes the house and shops as in the possession of herself and Thomas Whalley and Edward Crooke. John Prescott, by right of his wife Grace, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Grace Cole, succeeded to the property. His son William Prescott, stationer, fell into difficulties, but "Mary y^e widow, being expert in y^e business of a stationer, which her husbaud followed, kept on the business nearly thirty years after his decease," and succeeded in paying off her husband's debts. In 1731, Richard Addison, woollen draper, was a tenant of one of the shops, and in 1765, his two sons, Thomas Addison, draper, and Richard Addison, upholsterer, are named as occupiers. In 1765, Henry Smith, town clerk of Preston from 1718 to 1748, to whom the property had come by his marriage with a daughter of William Prescott, left this and other property to Mary, wife of John Wilkinson, town clerk of Preston (1748-1766), and her sister Hannah Lucas. Finally, in 1822, the property was sold to the Corporation of Preston, by whom, in 1855, the ancient buildings were demolished "to make way for buildings more worthy of the town" (See W. Dobson's History and Description). From the drawings of the old house and of some of its details here presented a fair idea is obtained of this "admirable specimen of timber domestic architecture" of the period. "Its framework was of oak, and, with little exception, the whole was as sound as when first put in" (ibid.). It has been reasonably conjectured by Mr. W. Dobson that "probably foreign artists contributed the sculptured [carved] work." The house, he adds, "was of four stories, besides the cellar, and each projected over the other one. . . . The beam upon which each story projected was most elaborately carved, and they were all of different patterns, . . . each beam being supported by brackets bearing heraldic and other carvings. Among them are representations of a stag, a griffin, a huntsman, dogs running, a hewer of wood, and a curious figure, the lower part being the body of a man, with the head of a stag, as if a representation of Herne the hunter" (ibid.). The principal room was thirty-seven feet long by twenty-one feet wide, "and there are yet (in 1855) some traces of mediæval grandeur about it (ibid.).

Quoting from Kuerden, Baines says the Chantry of the Crucifix was in the seventeenth century known by the name of "the Hoghton Box," and Canon Raines says it was described to him as being "a small enclosure, panelled or boarded round as a pew, and not unlike the Roman septum or ovile, so called from its resemblance to a sheepfold." It was, he adds, "a homely contrivance . . . devoid of the usual architectural ornaments, glazings, paintings, and embroidery, of such foundations" (Chetham Society, lx., 203). In 1776 it is referred to as "the Hoghton chapel" (Church Books, ii. 44). "situate at the south-eastern corner of the church, containing, by a late admeasurement thereof, twenty-eight ffeet, extending westwards from the inside of the east wall to about a ffourth part of the arch next the pulpit." (See plan facing page 247).

The (perhaps complete) list of known Chaplains of this Chantry of the Holy Rood is as follows:—

JOHN TROUTBECK, occurring in 1487.

WILLIAM GALTER, appointed in 1498.

THOMAS BOSTOCK, confirmed in 1525, and occurring in 1530 or thereabouts.

JOHN SHEPHERD, occurring in 1535, and again at the suppression in 1547.

The Hospital or Free Chapel of St. Mary Magdalene.

This Chapel, dedicated in honour of St. Mary Magdalene, was attached to a small Leper Hospital near Preston, which establishment was taken under protection of King Henry II. (Dep. Keep. Rep. xxxi, append., 4), and, on the 20th Feb., 1206-7, under protection of King John (ibid. 6). It is not mentioned in Pope Nicholas's Taxation in the year 1291.¹

¹ The Hospitium beate Marie Magdalene mentioned in Pope Nicholas's Taxation, p. 329, and mistaken by Raines for this Hospital by Preston, is St. Mary Magdalene's Hospital at Ripon.

The earliest Warden that we have found is John Copeland, King's Chaplain, who in 15 Edw. II. (1321-2), became Master or Warden of the Hospital of St. Mary Magdalene, to which benefice he had the King's grant (Piccope MSS., vi, 23b). During the plague called the Black Death (1349-50), this chapel was vacant for eight weeks, when Sir Adam Kirkham, Rural Dean of Amounderness, was procurator of Sir Henry Walton, Archdeacon of Richmond, and received all the offerings belonging to the said chapel, of the value of £32.¹ At the inquest held upon Henry, Duke of Lancaster, on the 28th April, 1361, among the adowsons of which that great lord died seised is numbered the adowson of the chapel of St. Mary Magdalene by Preston, a benefice then reckoned as worth £20 a year (Piccope MSS. viii, 189). Next we meet with Walter Campeden, 13th October, 1366, as Warden of the Leper House of St. Mary Magdalene beside Preston. The wardenship he had of the gift of John, Duke of Lancaster, its value being then put at £10 a year (Add. MSS., 6069, 111).

For over a century, the history of the chapel is a blank to us. At length, in 1486, we come across a new Warden, James Standish, S.T.P., who on the 18th August in that year had King Henry VII's presentation (sic.) to the chapel of St. Mary Magdalene by Preston (Materials for Hist. Hen. VII, i, 541.).

On the 6th February, 1521-2, King Henry VIII., by his letters patent, nominated Thomas Barlow, priest, as incumbent there for life, in right of the Duchy of Lancaster. Here Barlow remained until 1547 or 1548, when at the dissolution of Chantries and Free Chapels he was pensioned off with £5 a year.²

In his petition, dated 19 Henry VIII. (1527-8), to Sir Thomas More, Knt., Chancellor of the Duchy, James Walton gives some interesting particulars about the free chapel of St. Mary Magdalene in Preston. He states that the King is founder and rightful patron of the chapel, and that Thomas Barlow is now incumbent of the said chapel by gift of the Crown, and that "the said ffrey chappel and all meases belongyng to th same" are "in greate ruen and dekey." "A thre yeres hence or therabowte," with the full consent of the then Chancellor and his Council, Thomas Barlow had demised and to farm let the said free chapel, and all meases, lands, and tenements, etc., thereunto belonging, to plaintiff, for 20 years, at a yearly rental of £7 6s. 8d., on condition that plaintiff continually, during the said term, found a priest weekly to sing one mass for the King's preservation, and also repaired the decayed chapel at his proper cost. By force whereof plaintiff was possessed of the same until January, 1527-8, when William Alcocke and two friars of the House of Grey Friars at Preston, with six of their adherents, acting under the orders of Thomas Todgyll, Warden of the said House, with force and arms at Preston came to a close containing 15 acres, parcel of the premises, called "Widowfield," entered therein, "expulsed out" plaintiff's servants, and put them in great fear and danger of their lives. Up to the present time, plaintiff adds, he has been unable to regain possession. It was true that James Walton made "grete labor" to him at divers times to take the said field of him, and that although he (the warden) "ne his brethren would never take it by lease of the said James," for peace and quietness he subscribed his name to a bill that James made and wrote. That bill notwithstanding, when the King's Commissioners came to suppress the said Friars, deponent on his oath confessed the truth.

Robert Walmesley, one of the "King's Maiestie gard," aged about 40, was also examined regarding the matter. In his deposition, made at Westminster, 29 January, 1544-5, he contradicts the warden's statement, for (he says) he saw the lease by which the close was granted to James Walton. And that about 19 Hen. VIII. (1527-8) the said James Walton sub-let the "wyddow field" to Sir Thomas Todgell, the warden of the said Friars, at a yearly rent of nine shillings. A condition of the lease was the warden was to discharge James Walton "for finding a priest to say mass one day in the week in the said chapel of Mary Magdalen." He adds that Thurstan Tyldesley, Esq., Richard Hawkesley, then prior of the now dissolved House of Penwortham, and William Browne, were present with deponent when the matter was concluded.

On the 6th August, in the same year, James Walton again laid a complaint in the Duchy Court, in which it is set forth that he had recently leased from Sir Thomas Barlow the undermentioned parcel of land belonging to the chapel :—

Four acres of land within the franchises of Preston in a close called the Dewe Bank, in the holding of Richard Kendal the elder of Preston, sublet by James Walton to the said Kendal for 21 years at a yearly rent of 5s. 2d.

A parcel of Magdalenes to William Noblett of Ingol, husbandman, for the same term, rental 7s. 7d.

Three closes to Henry Gregson, senior, of Elston, for the same term, rental 32s.

Two closes to Robert Whalley and William Hodgkinson of Ingol, husbandman, for the same term, rent 13s. 7d.

James Walton also held by indenture certain parcels of ground lying in the feildes of Preston, viz:—

One cloise called the brodehayes by est. containing xiiij acres at a yearly rental of xxvj^s. viij^d.

One 'en; with one orchard there vs.

Further, he complains that, on the 1st May last, he put into the said close 13 head of cattle to the intent to "recontinue" possession, whereupon William Whalley and others forthwith impounded the same, withholding them from plaintiff for two days and nights, until the said cattle were well-nigh starved. Not content with this act of spoliation, Whalley and his adherents proceeded to pull down the mansion place of the said chapel, "with the chimneys of the same, containing six or seven chambers at the least, and carried away all the timber and stones of the said house, and took away one of the bells being ordained for the said chapel, besides images, relics, and other adornments belonging to the said chapel, to the destruction of the King's foundation."¹

In 1528, Thomas Barlow, clerk, brought an action against Richard Assheton and Roger Livesey, priest, for an alleged trespass, intrusion, and destruction of timber belonging to St. Mary Mawdelyn Free Chapel by Preston.² And, in 1539, James Walton, the Master's lessee, laid a complaint against William Singleton for illegally holding lands belonging to the Free Chapel.³

In 36 Hen. VIII. (1544-5) a series of interrogatories were administered to Sir Thomas Todgill, clerk, by Sir Thomas Holcroft, Knt., acting on behalf of Sir Thomas Barlow, Master of the Free Chapel of St. Mary Magdalen in Preston in Amounderness, with regard to this same close in Tulketh called "wedowe ffield," which, as it was alleged, had been let to James Walton, who had sub-let it to the warden of the lately dissolved house of Grey Friars in Preston.

Summarising the statements made, we gather the following information :—

Thomas Todgill, "chaplayn of Grayes In," aged about 50 years, late warden of the late Grey Friars in Preston, in his sworn examinations, taken 18 June, 1544, said, that he was warden of the said Friars of Preston at the time of the dissolution thereof, and long before. He denies that James Walton ever let the close in question to him; he occupied it "by reason that it belonged to the said house of Friars, as all other his predecessors before him did." Only a quitrent of 9s. out of the said field belonged to the free chapel of Mary Magdalen.

On the 2nd June, 1548, Edward VI., by the advice and consent of his Council of the Duchy of Lancaster, leased for 21 years to Richard Wrightington, gent., all that his late Free Chapel, called Magdalenes, near Preston, "now dissolved," and the lands mentioned above, being in the whole 47½ acres, with a yearly rent of xii^d. issuing out of land in Broughton, and pertaining to the Magdalenes, for the annual rent of £5 16s. 8d. A year later, 18th April, 1549, the King conveyed the whole of the Maudlands property, by letters patent, to John Dodyngton and William Warde, of London, gent., who, on the 2nd January, 1549-50, sold the premises in fee for "a sufficient sum of money" to Thomas Fleetwood, Esq., "to hold as fully, freely, and wholly as any Priest or Incumbent, or any others have possessed the said Free Chapel, or any of its lands, which came to Edward VI. by a certain Act for the Dissolution of Chantries, Colleges, Free Chapels, etc., passed in his Parliament held at Westminster in the first year of his reign," to hold by fealty, and not in capite.

On 2nd December, 1560, Thomas Fleetwood, of Hesketh, Esq., sold all his late Free Chapel, called Mawdelens, near Preston, lately dissolved, and all its lands and messuages, for £300, to Thomas Fleetwood, of Penwortham, Esq., in whose family the property remained for a long time.¹

The known Masters or Wardens of this Free Chapel of St. Mary Magdalene are as follows:—

JOHN COPELAND, preferred in 1321-2.

WALTER CAMPEDEN, occurring in 1366.

JAMES STANDISH, presented in 1486.

THOMAS BARLOW, 1522-1547.

A meagre list of known wardens, in good sooth; the first three, however, are not named in Raines's Lancashire Chantries. Of John Copeland and James Standish I have found nothing but what has already been mentioned. But Campeden and Barlow are better known.

WALTER CAMPEDEN was instituted, 4th Jan., 1361-2, to the rectory of Wigan, in Lancashire, on presentation of Ralph Langeton, having about two years before (on Christmas Eve, 1359) acquired the prebendal stall of Botevant in York minster (Bridgeman's Wigan, Chet. Soc.; Le Neve, iii., 176). On the 13th October, 1366, besides holding the two preferments above mentioned, he occurs as Warden of St. Nicholas's Hospital at Pomfret, worth £20 yearly, and as Warden of the Leper House of St. Mary Magdalene by Preston, worth £10 a year, both of which latter promotions he has of the gift of John, Duke of Lancaster, whose Chancellor he now is (Add. MSS., 6069, 111).

Walter Campeden died intestate in 1370, as appears from the Register of Archbishop Whittlesey, who dismissed the administrators of his estate on the 12th of November in that year (Add. MSS., 6070, 3). Wigan rectory and his York prebend, and probably the two hospitals also, our pluralist kept until his death.

SIR THOMAS BARLOW was hereto nominated on the 6th February, 1521-2, by "the founder, the late Prynce of famous memorye, King Henry theight," by letters patent, and received the clear yearly revenue of the said Free Chapel for his salary, amounting to cxij^s viij^d. the reprises being iij^s. The story of his troubles with the Grey Friars of Preston has already been told. He continued Warden until the general dissolution of English Chantries and Free Chapels in 1547, and it is satisfactory to know that he was still in enjoyment of a yearly pension of £5 in 1558, when we last catch a glimpse of him (Clerical Subsidies, $\frac{2}{3}$, $\frac{1}{4}$, R.O.).

The Free Chapel was situated on the eminence upon which is now built Tulketh Hall, "nigh adionyng to the towne of Preston, and not ferre distaunte from the p'och church of Preston." Neither the chapel nor the hospital to which it was attached was probably of much size or splendour. From about 1520 to the chapel's dissolution the building seems to have been more or less ruinous, and it is more than likely that Sir Thomas Barlow was non-resident, as King Edward the Sixth's Commissioners reported that not only had the incumbent demised the chapel to one James Walton, but that the chapel itself was "defaced and open at both ends." The lessee, too, as has already been mentioned, gave evidence that in 1524 the "ffrey chappell and all meases belonging to the same" were "in grate ruen and dekey."

Belonging to the Free Chapel was the following plate, etc.:—One chalice, viij. ounces in weight; and one bell. The brass matrix of the common seal of St. Mary Magdalene's Hospital in Preston is now preserved and visible in the Fitzwilliam Museum at Cambridge.

The Friars Minor or Grey Friars of Preston.

Of Friars there were in Lancashire three houses, viz.:—Friars

¹ The old English Franciscan Province was divided into the custodies of London, Oxford, Bristol, Cambridge, Worcester, York, Newcastle, each custody containing some eight or nine loca.

Preachers or Black Friars at Lancaster, Friars Minor or Grey Friars at Preston, and Austin Friars at Warrington.

The House of Friars Minor in Preston, abutting on and giving its name to Friargate, was founded in the thirteenth century, by Edmund, Earl of Lancaster, younger son of King Henry III. In the organisation of the Old English Franciscan Province it was the northernmost locus included in the Custody of Worcester.¹ On the 4th Sept., 1291, the Friars of Preston were commissioned by the Archbishop of York to preach the Crusade, one in Preston, one elsewhere in that neighbourhood (Lett. Northern Registers, 96). Leland states that Sir Robert Holland, knight, the great opponent of Thomas, Earl of Lancaster, was a benefactor to this house, and that he was there buried. On the 13th Sept., 1349, Henry, Lord Percy, by his last will, bequeathed to the Friars Minor of Preston half a mark; in 1427, Sir Richard Tempest, Knight, bequeathed them half a mark; in 1437, Sir Richard Sherburne, of Stonyhurst, Knight, bequeathed them a mark; his widow, Agnes, bequeathing them 20d. in 1445 (Testam. Ebor., Surtees Soc.). On the 15th Aug., 1530, Richard Hesketh bequeathed them 20s. for a dirige and a trental of masses for his soul (Piccoppe MSS., iv, 131).

The earliest Warden we have met with is James, who occurs the last day of February, 1479-80 (Whitaker's Richmd., ii, plate between pp. 428-429). Then, in 1 Hen. VIII (1509-10), Lawrence Hoghton, of Lea, gave a tenement in Whittingham, with appurtenances, to Philip, Warden of the Friars Minor of Preston (Harl. MSS., 2112, 115b). In 1527-8 Thomas Todgyll was Warden of the Grey Friars of Preston, which position he appears to have retained until the dissolution of the house in 1540. In 1544 he was about 50 years old, and held the post of Chaplain of Gray's Inn, by London (See page 239). Finally, on the 16th July, 1553, on the Earl of Derby's presentation, he was admitted to the rectory of Holy Trinity in Chester (Ormerod's Cheshire, i, 263).

Leland's often quoted description (temp. Hen. VIII.) of the House of the Friars Minor in Preston, must again be given:—

"The Gray Freres College in the north-west side of the Toune of Preston in Acumundrenes was sett in the soile of a gentelman caullid Prestun, dwelling yn the Toune self of Preston, and a Brother or Sunne of his confirmed the first graunt of the site of the House, and one of these 2 was after a great man of possessions, and Viscount of Gurmaston, as I hard say, in Ireland. Divers of the Prestons were buried yn this House.....There lay in the Gray Freres at Prestun divers of the Shirburns and Daltuns gentilmen" (Itin. iv., 21).

"In its original state," says Baines, "the friary was a small square collegiate building with a chapel attached to its quadrangular cloisters" (Hist. Lancashire, iv., 305), magnified by Cuerden into "a large and sumptuous building." Close to the site was once a well, called "Lady well," "frequented, within living memory (1835), by the devout." Several relics have been found on the site, including a silver medal, half-an-inch in diameter, bearing date 1377, and a figure of the Saviour with a cross in the left hand, and the monogram "Jesu Xti., S.M.," on the one side, and on the other side a kneeling bishop receiving from St. Peter a pastoral staff (G. Esdale's Hist. Descript., 1891).

St. George's Chapel in Preston.

This chapel was built in 1724 by private subscriptions during the incumbency of the elder Samuel Peploe, Vicar of Preston; and in 1726 it was consecrated by Bishop Peploe, who thus had the privilege of completing what was mainly his own work. A print of the chapel as it appeared in 1845 is presented facing this page. A few years ago the edifice was rebuilt. In 1868, under Lord Blanford's Act, the chapelry became a separate and independent parish. The list of Curates here is as follows:—

1733-1743.	Randall Andrews
1743-1768.	Robert Oliver
1768-1774.	Josiah Lambert
1774-1783.	Henry Wilson.

1862.	Charles Harrison Wood. ¹

The Vicar of Preston is patron of the living.²

Grimsargh Chapel.

Built in 1716, this chapel, dedicated to St. Michael, was not consecrated until 1726. From a letter written to Bishop Gastrell by the elder Peploe, Vicar of Preston, under date April 4, 1715, we learn why the chapel was erected. Owing (he says) to the distance from their parish church, and "other convenient place of public worship," the people were "exposed to temptations and Popery," there being "no less than six" priests "in y^s one parish." "From my first coming to this place I have wished for some hopeful remedy ag^t y^s growing evil." With the help of Sir Henry Hoghton, patron of the church, who "has promised to build a chapel where it will be serviceable to the inhabitants," Peploe says he doubts not "to procure a decent place for y^e worship of God among 'em" (Chet. Soc., xxii., 470). In 1717 £200 was subscribed by Mr. Peploe, Sir H. Hoghton, and others (£40 of which was given "by a gentlewoman who desired not to be known") towards the endowment (ibid.). The interest on this sum, with what may be got "by teaching school," will "be a competency for a curate in y^s cheap country" (ibid.).

The "small rustic fabric" was enlarged in 1815; and in 1840 and again in 1868-9 restored and re-built by the Rev. John Cross, brother of the late William Cross, Esq., who purchased the manor of Grimsargh from Sir H. P. Hoghton, Bart. Of the curates of Grimsargh but a meagre list has been preserved.¹

CHAPTER VI.

The Church.

AS stated in the first chapter of this book, Preston Parish Church was originally dedicated to St. Wilfrid; but, perhaps out of repugnance to keeping a patron who was not a scripture character, the church was re-dedicated to St. John the Divine. We have searched in vain for the exact date at which this change happened. Whittle (History of Preston, ii., 35) makes this statement, without any authority:—

“During the reign of Elizabeth, A.D. 1581, the church at Preston was dedicated to St. John the Divine, by order of Dr. Chadderton, Bishop of Chester, and the former name of St. Wilfrid forbidden to be used in the future.”

The present fabric is wholly modern, and we have found no reliable description of the old building, with the exception of a ground plan of the interior as it was about 1644-50, a fac simile of which is here presented.

“With respect to the fabric of the church,” says Whitaker, writing in 1818 (History of Richmondshire, ii., 425), “it is a good ordinary building, suited to the population and consequence of the place. The choir, having been built of red crumbling stone, is now undergoing complete restoration by the impropiator [Sir H. P. Hoghton, Bart.]; and, as it will assume a new appearance, it may be proper to say that the late windows led to the conclusion of its having been built by the dean and canons of Leicester, not long after they obtained the benefice but the roof is a flat oaken ceiling of Henry the Eighth’s time.”

Previous to 1644-5 we have found little relating to the fabric of the church. It is said to have been rebuilt in 1581, but no authority is given. From the books of “the gentlemen and xxiv” of Preston, we gather a good deal of information, which is largely utilized in the account that follows. During the Civil War, the fabric of the church must have suffered much; in fact, in 1644, £50 was ordered to be levied for necessary repairs, and in 1646, it is spoken of as being “in great decay,” to repair which the sum of £58 was levied upon the parish in that year. Again, in October, 1648, “the xxiv” record

"that the church windowes and other partes of the church are much out of repaire, and soe much, that the repaires thereof will admitte noe delaye in this could season of winter." In 1649, "the xxiv" "condiscended and agreed to pay one Ralph Banckes the sum of ten shillings a year for life, so long as he kept the leads in proper repair," a saving clause in the agreement relieves the contractor from all extraordinary damage caused by accident, fire, or war. In 1656 it was reported that there was wanting in the church, "a linnen table cloth and napkins for the Communion Table, a pulpitt quishion for the Minister, and much flagging in the Alleys, and at the South porch doore;" that "the seacond bell in o^r steeple is crack'd and must of necessity be new cast, besides repaireinge the glasse windowes"—to provide all which would cost £20. On the 12th January, 1656-7, an agreement was made with Richard Johnson of Preston, glazier, whereby for the sum of 10s. a year the glass in the windows was to be kept in thorough repair.

On May 31st, 1671, "the xxiv" made the following order:—

"That, inasmuch as the church is foule, and uncomely, having not been whitened, washed, nor beautified for a long time, to the shame of the inhabitants and parishioners, and their discredit amongst strangers or foreigners repairing upon occasion to their church: and whereas the Artickles of Visitation, by the right reverend father in god John Lord Byshop of Chester does require that churches shall bee decently kept, and in a comely manner much rather than particular and private houses: Therefore wee the 24 men of the parish doe hereby order that the parish church shall be adorned and beautified, and desire the churchwardens to get the same done "as well and as cheap as they can with some good workman."

Four years later, Sept. 17th, 1675, attention was again called to the state of the fabric in the following terms:—

"Whereas the leads and the top of the steeple are exceedingly decayed, soe as the raine falls down in diverse places upon the timber in the lower lofts, not only to an annoyance, but endangering the rotting of the main timber, and principall beams in the steeple: It is therefore ordered that the churchwardens for the present year shall forthwith take care to see the same repaired in such manner as may be thought most convenient and of continuance for the future."

From an order, made April 12th, 1680, we gather some interesting information:—

"Agreed and ordered that four pinacles be erected and set upon the steeple of y^e church, that is to say in each corner one, at y^e general charge of y^e parish and wythal the Wethercock to be placed handsomely in the middle, and then the whole steeple pointed, and this be referred to the care of Mr. Mayor, Dr. Bushel, Mr. Hoghton, and Mr. Marsh."

During the next ninety years we have found no evidence of the condition of the church. But in 1769 it was decided to rebuild and repair the north side of the church, then in such a dangerous state as to have prevented service "being performed in the body of the said church." In February, 1770, it is recorded in the church books "that the roof of the church with all the pillars on the north side lately fell down." After considerable discussion "the xxiv."—or the select vestry, as they henceforth call themselves—decided to accept the scheme of one John Hird of Preston, who contracted to rebuild the nave of the church for £1,006 10s., on the same plan, dimensions, and style as the original building.

The apportioning of the cost of this and succeeding alterations led to many disputes (See chap VII.). Some idea of the fabric of the church as it was in 1792 may be obtained from the plate here given; the view is taken from the south west.

In 1813-14 the tower was taken down and rebuilt, and is described by Whittle (History of Preston, i, 52), writing in 1821, as "a lofty gothic structure, thirty seven yards high; consisting of a square tower, finely constructed, with strong buttresses at the corners, from the base to the top, surmounted by four triune gothic pinnacles, at each angle, decorated in the florid style, with crenelled turrets."

On the 2nd June, 1817, Sir H. P. Hoghton, patron of the church, intimated his intention to take down and rebuild the Chancel. Whittle (ibid. 54), has a good deal to say about the "florid" style and "stucco" work of "the inside of the chancel end." His description (ibid. 53) of the body of the church as it was in 1821, if meagre, is at least quaint:—

"The body of the church has embattled turrets, with strong buttresses, and an attic, mounting from the first roof, similarly crenelled, consisting of five Norman windows, in the north and south attic, and five gothic windows on each side of the body or nave."

A sketch of the church before its restoration is here given.

At length, in 1853, this building was pulled down, and the present church was erected as nearly as possible on the old foundations—the lower portions of the old tower not being removed—from the designs of E. H. Shellard of Manchester, at a cost of about £9,500. The church is a fine specimen of Gothic architecture in the Decorated style, and consists of a nave, north aisle, south aisle, chancel, chancel (or “children’s”) aisle, north porch, tower and spire, the height of the latter being 205 feet.¹

PEWS AND SEATS.

Disputes as to seats were of frequent occurrence.

In 30 Hen. VIII. (1538-9) Roger Asshaw and Jane his wife entered a plaint in the Duchy Court in which they stated that, being seized in their demesne as of fee of the manor of Elston, they and the ancestors of the said Jane have had and used time out of mind for them their tenants and farmers dwelling there a “fforme or a knelyng place” in the parish church of Preston, which is the parish church of all the tenants and inhabitants of the said manor: Now, about Midsummer last past (1537), Ralph Elston, gent., brought one of his daughters and another woman to the said form and commanded them to go in to the same and to put out plaintiff’s farmers or tenants “then quietly knelyng in the said fforme in the service of God.” Accordingly, the two women in “right vile maner did entre into the said knelyng place and most cruelly did menace the said tenants and farmers ther knelyng, to the great disterbaunce and inquietnes of the tenants and farmers and oders the parissshioners of the said parish then being in the said church at thayre divine service.” And again on St. James’s day last past the said Ralph Elston came to the church with four of his daughters and two other persons and “threatened to pull out any one who would say nay.” Since that time, “by the sinister and subtle means” of the said Ralph, the churchwardens with force and armes have taken away the said form or seat, and will not allow it to be set up again, nor permit the tenants and farmers of the plaintiff to kneel in the place where the form stood.

Ralph Elston, the defendant, says he is seised of the manor of Brokeholl called “oldebrokeholl,” in the parish of Preston, to which the said form or kneeling place “of ancient time without mind of man to the contrary” belongs, whereunto the said Ralph, his wife, and family dwelling in the said mansion house (as well as his ancestors) have repaired on "the holly and festyvall daies and other daies at their libertie and pleasure," and have occupied and enjoyed the said form as it was lawful for them to do. And so, when, about Midsummer last and on St. James's day, the said Roger Ashaw by his sinister procurement and commandment given to his tenants of Elston, "intending the breche of unytie, love, and amytie, used in most familiar wise" between his said tenants and the said Ralph, his wife, and family, caused his tenants to enter into the kneeling place; defendant's daughters and women servants came to the form and would have entered it as they were accustomed to do, but were obstinately, seditiously and most maliciously resisted by plaintiff's tenants to the disturbance of all the parishioners there assembled. Whereupon the churchwardens intervened and removed the cause of quarrel.

The churchwardens, Richard Whalley, William Sudall, and John Newton, in their answer to the bill of complaint state that, perceiving that "debate contencion and controverse" was beginning to arise between the parties concerning the right and title of a form, seat, or kneeling place within the said church, in such wise that "manslaughter sedicion and great inquyetnes were lyke to have insued" unless something was done to prevent it, they with the advice and counsel of the "worshipfull and substancyell men" of the parish took away the said form until the matter was lawfully determined.¹

The two following extracts are taken from the books of "the xxiv." :—

"Whereas there are certaine new seates y^t are erected and sett upp in the bell loft att the general charges of the parish: it is ordered and agreed the day abovesaid by and amongst the 24 gent. of the parish of Preston that the said seates shall bee and stand thus divided amongst the three ends of the parish: that is, that the two biggest seates next adjoining to the bell loft throughout shall bee for the use of the churchwardens and sidesmen of the said parish successively from yeare to yeare; and that the two next seates throughout shall bee for the use of the Towne of Preston; and that the two furthest seates from the bell loft on the south side doe belong the higher end of the parish, and that the two seates on the north side that are furthest off from the bell loft doe belong to the lower end of the parish: This is for the regulating of the said new seates as to the claims of the severall parts of the parish servents, and to prevent any controversies yt for ye future might arise about them amongst the parishioners."—April 8, 1667.

"Whereas the seats and pews in the church are exceedingly decayed, undecently kept, and out of order; therefore it is agreed that the churchwardens from time to time shall preserve and keep them in due forme and manner, excepting such of them as persons lay a particular claim unto, which they are to be admonished to repair and keep in decent and good order: which, if they the said persons neglect or refuse to do, that then the churchwardens shall repaire the said seats for the publick use, benefit, and good of the said parish, according as is provided in the Canons of the Church of England respectively, so as the pew doors, seats, and latches be kept from time to time in good and decent order."—April 20, 1674,

The pulpit stood in the middle of the nave (see plan), until 7 Aug., 1815, when a faculty was sought "to authorize removal of the pulpit, reading desk, and clerk's desk to the entrance into the chancel."

CHURCH GOODS.

At Preston, in November 1552, an inventory was taken of all the "jewells, vestments, ornaments, plate, bells, and other gudds" belonging to the Parish Church of Preston, before Sir Richard Houghton, Knt., George Browne and Thomas Barton, Esquires, by authority of King Edward the Sixth's Commission. The church goods "were presented by the Curate, Churchwardens, and other honest men" of the parish whose names are subscribed.²

} Churchwardens

By resolution, passed on the 25th April, 1659, "the xxiv" decided to provide for "the necessary uses of the church, minister, and congregation, these ornaments and materialls":—

"One convenient greene carpett for the Communion Table, of 6 yards of cloth; one faire longe linnen table cloth for it, and 2 napkins containing 11½ yards of holland; two silver bowles with covers, weighing 34½ oz., 4 p.w., costing £9 11s. 2d.; one pulpitt cushion of greene plush; a convenient frame of wood, marble or alabbaster for the use of baptisms and a cover for it; one Beare decently made for the carriage of dead corpses; one longe ladder and one short ladder, a new book of the Reading and singing psalmes for the parish clarke, and one stronge chest with three locks wherein to secure the churches goods and ornaments."

The sum of £18, besides "what moneys are allready in stock," was ordered to be raised to pay for the things enumerated. In addition to the above, it is recorded in 1660 that "there are belonging to the church ffyve pewter fflagons, to be used at the tyme of the Sacrament; also one spade and one hacke, all in the sexton's keeping. In 1675 we learn that these five pewter flagons, "being now by use worn out" are to be exchanged for new ones; and that three new plates of the best pewter for the services of the communion are to be provided, strict injunctions being given as to their being "decently and well kept for the future, and not lent abroad to any funer^{ls} or employed in any ommon services."

An "ornament" upon which a good deal of pains was bestowed was the painting of the Royal Arms. Immediately after the Restoration "the xxiv" record that "the most considerable and needful" business they had to transact was "the setting upp of his Majesties the Kinges Armes in the late usuall place in the church [over the chancel arch]; £15 was accordingly ordered to be raised for this and other necessities.

In 1719 a new silver flagon was purchased, "the two old calices (sic) and pattens to go towards the charge—Mr. Gastrell, the Commissary, having generously given four guineas to encourage the matter."

Two years later, it was resolved that "the green pulpitt quishon formerly given by Mr. Revald for the use of the parish of Preston be given to Grimsargh Chappell."

An "additional" silver flagon was purchased in 1725, and in 1729 a new silver cup was provided.

The present church plate consists of the following:—Four silver flagons, with the sacred monogram on the base, and bearing the inscriptions: "Thomas Astley and Robert Walshman, churchwardens of Preston, Lancashire, 1725;" "The gift of the Rt. Hon. John, Lord Gower, Baron of Stitnam, Preston, Lancashire, 1705;" "The gift of Madam Margery Rawstorne, widow, of Preston, to the church of Preston, 1708;" "Preston, 1719." Four silver cups. One large patten, and two small ones. One silver funnel, with the inscription: "The Parish Church of Preston, 1819."

THE BELLS AND RINGERS.

In 1552, as stated in the Inventory of church goods (page 252), there were "iiij bells, and a fyfte bell lent by Sir Richard Houghton, Knight," and for a century and a half this number of bells was retained.

On 30th July, 1660, "the xxiv" ordered that "the common ringers in pay belonging to the church shall receive and have out of the moneys of the parish the sum of 15s to be paid them for ringing all the day when his Majestie was proclaym'd King of England, and of two other daies for joy of his majesties reception to his Rights and dominions." With such "great paines," however, did the ringers perform their task, that "the xxiv" actually paid them 5s. more. Two years later, 24th June, 1662, we learn that "of late" the ringers have "very much neglected there duties, in not ringing all the ffyve bells to the service both forenoons and afternoons on the Sabboath daies." The Mayor of Preston was appointed to inquire into the cause of such neglect, and it was resolved to impose a fine of iiijd. upon each defaulter.

On April 16th, 1666, it was ordered that the sum of six shilling shall be paid to the ringers for "theire paynes" in ringing on the 29th of May. From 1651 down to the year 1685, it appears that the sexton of the parish, conjointly with the ringers, had to "find and maintain" the bell ropes "at their equall charges when and so often as y^e said Sexton could not maintaine y^e same out of his allowance of burialls" (one penny for each funeral); but henceforth, owing to "the ringers pay being now (in 1685) much less than formerly," the charge for the ropes was to be paid by the parish.

From time to time the bells gave a great deal of trouble. In 1693 they were repaired and rehung; in 1696 the fourth bell was re-cast; and on Nov. 22nd, 1711, £90 was ordered to be collected within the parish "for and toward the charge of casting the old bells and hanging, and a new set of eight bells." The total cost of the new peal of bells was £201 10s.; they were cast by Mr. Abraham Ruddall.

In 1735 an allowance of 25s. a year was made to Thomas Stanhope, parish clerk, "for finding and upholding a whole sett of Bell Ropes, the said Thos. Stanhope taking to himself the old ones." The same year the hours for bell-ringing on "the ringing days" were fixed:—8 peals—half-an-hour each peal, four peals before noon, and four peals after noon. The following year "the xxiv." decided that there should not be more than eight ringing days in the year, and that the ringers' allowance for drink on these days should be 2s. per day.

On 11th April, 1737, the seventh bell was ordered to be recast. In 1740 the ringers' "drink allowance" was stopped, owing to "their insolent behaviour to the 24 gentlemen." The anniversary days in 1743 were fixed as follow:—20th Jan.; 29th May; 11th June, 15th June; 11th Oct.; 30th Oct.; 5th Nov.; and 14th Nov. The allowance for each day was 9s., with £1 for Sunday ringing for the whole year, making a total of £4 12s. These ringing days in 1759 were reduced to five, viz.:—29th May; 22nd June; 26th June; 5th Nov.; 10th

Nov. And on 7th April, 1760, "ringing on a Wednesday night" was ordered to be discontinued.

In 1757, and again in 1769, the ringers were suspended for irregularity, disobedience, and insolent behaviour. On 9th March, 1762, it was decided to have the peal of eight bells recast, the tenor bell to weigh between 18 cwt. and 19 cwt., the rest in proportion. This work, with "a compleat repair to the clock," to be done by James Harrison for £130.

A special note in the minute book tells us that on April 1, 1771, "John Leach the younger, labourer, of Preston," was appointed "toller of the prayer bell." A month later the hours of tolling the passing bell were regulated as follows:—"from 8 o'clock to 10 o'clock in the morning, and from 6 to 8 in the evening." In 1784 these regulations were revised; no peal or single bell to be rung "for more than tene minutes" at the death, before and after the funeral. The fees were also fixed:—

	s.	d.
"For a poor person in the whole	1	3
For all others, except when the bells are muffled ...	2	6
If the bell or bells be muffled	5	0
For every peal rung at the request of a Roman Catholic	4	6."

The present eight bells, cast by T. Mears of London, were placed in the tower in 1814; they bear the following inscriptions:—

1st bell, "Venite exultemus Domino"—weight, 7cwt. 4lb.

2nd bell, "Foundation stone of this steeple, laid 4th June, 1814, by Sir Henry Philip Houghton, Bart., lay rector and patron"—weight, 7cwt. 14lb.

3rd bell, "4th June, 1814, 54th of George the Third, the King's birthday, Vivat Rex"—weight, 8cwt. 14lbs.

4th bell, "Account received of the treaty of peace, 1814,"—weight, 9cwt. 2qr. 9lb.

5th bell, "The Rev. James Penny, vicar, the Rev. William Towne, curate, 1814"—weight, 12cwt. 7lb.

6th bell, "Richard Newsham, Esqr., Mayor, 1814"—weight, 13cwt. 1qr. 23lb.

7th bell, "John Green, John Fallowfield, John Grimbaldston, Henry Heaton, James Middlehurst, John Harrison, churchwardens, 1814"—weight, 18cwt. 7lb.

8th bell, "Blessed are the dead that die in the Lord. Resurgent. T. Mears, of London, fecit"—weight, 25cwt. 1qr. 14lb.

THE CLOCK.

The clock was purchased from Litherland & Co., of Liverpool, in 1820; and, runs the minute in the church book, "inasmuch as it would contribute to the convenience and ornament of the town of Preston for the clock to have four faces," the extra expense was ordered to be defrayed by the town, "without prejudice to ancient custom."

THE ORGAN.

The first organ (the gift of John Horrocks, M.P.), built by James Davis, of London, was placed in the west gallery of the church in 1802. It had only sixteen stops, diagonal bells, but no pedals or pedal pipes. In 1822, an octave and half of unison pedal pipes, and horizontal bellows, were added. In 1836, some additions were provided by the organist, Mr. Greaves, at his own expense. In 1842, a new choir organ of 7 stops was added, at the cost of S. Horrocks, the Guild Mayor, by Mr. Gray of London. In 1850, the organ was rebuilt, a new pedal organ added, the swell extended to tenor C, and several new stops added to it and to the great organ. In 1854, funds for a metal double diapason were given by W. A. Cross of Red Scar, and John Horrocks, junior, added a sub-bass to the pedal organ, and also other stops. In 1872, further improvements were made, with the result that the organ became a fine instrument of 47 stops. Finally, in 1889, the organ was improved and altered by Hill and Son, of London, from plans made by Mr. Greaves, the organist, whereby the present grand organ of 55 stops, with the requisite accessory movements, was provided. This organ, removed to the chancel, was reopened May 16th, 1889.

THE ORGANISTS have been: Mr. Lawson; Mr. Thurston Clough; Dec., 1831—25th July, 1890, J. J. Greaves; and F. C. Adkins (present organist).

Of THE FONT we find it merely recorded that "in 1799 a new font was erected in the baptistery by Mr. Thomas Addison and Mr. John Green, churchwardens of the town." In 1856, the present font was given to the church by the three surviving daughters of Mr. Edward Gorst. It stands in the baptistery—a dark and gloomy place—at the west end of the church.

MONUMENTS AND INSCRIPTIONS.

Quoting from Kuerden's MSS, Hewitson (History of Preston, 458,) states that "in the 16th century, according to the Rev. Thomas Wall, who was rector [vicar] here, the inner walls of the church were 'encrusted with monuments of every age and style.' 'The names of those who flourished in this ancient borough were placed on tablets, cut most curiously in marble, to the memory of the following persons who had ruled, and respected the laws of this kingdom in their time.' " Then follows a long list of names of celebrated local families. If Kuerden's account is correct, we can only deplore the loss of almost every one of these records of the worthy dead. During the rebuilding of the parish church in 1854 were found three brass plates about 19in. by 9in. to the memory of Seth Bushell, woollen draper, and alderman of Preston. In spite of strict injunctions not to disturb or remove any plates or brasses that might be discovered, these three brasses were sold as "old metal" to a local dealer for eightpence halfpenny each. Although unfortunately one of the brasses has not since been recovered, the other two, after a somewhat chequered career, were found by Mr. T. Harrison Myres, of Preston and are now in safe keeping. One of the brasses contains the following inscription in plain Roman letters:—

Here lyeth interd Seath Bushell,
Woollen draper, bayliffe, and a brother of Preston,
Dying the xv of Septr., 1623, aged 53, Gave vnto his kinesfoolkes and God-children in legacies vi.c.£; also xx, s to the poore of this towne for ever, the vse to be given the said poore by the Maior or his depvty at Christmas and Easter; 4£ to the poore of Leeland & Walton, al ovt of his charitable minde.

The figure brass of Seth Bushell is curious; the worthy alderman is represented as wearing a gown, probably indicating his office of Town's Bailiff. His uplifted arms show the palms of his hands, and his whiskers, beard, and moustache stand out prominently.¹

It is also said that there was formerly a monument in Preston Parish Church to one of the Travers's of Nateby, then living at Tulketh Hall, Preston, on which was an inscription recording the descent of the family who "came in with William the Conqueror" (Baines's Lancashire, iv., 334-5; Whittle's Preston, ii., 34-5).

The following are the monuments and brasses now within the church. CHANCEL, north side:—

- (3) A small tablet:—Below lie the remains of MR. ROGER SUDELL, who endowed a catechetical school for the poor boys in this town; one conspicuously singular for his gravity, probity, and piety. He lived unmarried, died very old, and was interred December 28th, 1704. To continue whose memory his nephew, C. Sudell, prebendary of Chester, hath fixed here this small tablet, 1732.

The stained glass windows of the church comprise :—A five-light window at the east end, presented by Sir Henry Bold Hoghton, Bart., on which are painted the leading scenes of the Crucifixion. The inscription at the base is: "Ad Dei Gloriam Hanc Fenestram Fieri Fecit Henricus Bold Hoghton, De Hoghton, Eques., Auratus. Anno Domini 1854." The four-light window at the east end of the chancel aisle has the inscription: "This window is dedicated to the honour and glory of God, by John Baristow, 1854."

On the north side of the chancel are three windows. One, on which are depicted representations of Faith, Hope, and Charity, has the following: In . memory . of . Edward . Gorst . and . Elizabeth . his . wife . Mary . the . wife . of . William . Clayton . their . third . daughter . and . Thomas . Mee . Lowndes . their . eldest . son . The . memory . of . the . just . is . blessed."

The central window on the north side of the chancel was originally in the east end of the church prior to the rebuilding in 1854. It was presented in 1846 by Thomas German, Esq., during his mayoralty.

The third window was presented in 1855 "in memory of John Gorst, and Margaret, his wife."

In the south chancel aisle are also three windows. The first, representing the calling of St. John, has the following inscription:—"Presented by John Horrocks, in commemoration of the rebuilding of the church of St. John, A.D. 1854." The central window has for its subject, Christ blessing little children; it was presented in 1854 by Richard Newsham of Preston. The third window represents the Transfiguration, and has the following at the base:—"Soli Natalis Reremo Secundarum Memor In Dei Gloriam Æde Reparata, P.C. Carolus R. Jacson, 1854."

The nave windows have an interesting history. When the old nave fell in 1770, the painted glass windows were probably destroyed. Dodsworth had however copied them; and John Addison, Esquire, had designs made from the copies in the Bodleian Library, as he was "anxious to fill in the nave with stained glass similar to that which had adorned the old building" (Hewitson's Preston, 460). There are six windows on each side of the nave, on which are painted the arms of old Preston families, including those of Rigby of Middleton in Goosnargh, Shaw of Fishwick, Hoghton of Hoghton, Langton of Walton, Rawsthorne, Foster, Winckley, Fleetwood, Banister, Holand, Sherburne, Stanley, Patten, Singleton, Wall, Mort, and Blundell.

All the windows in the clerestory were given by John Addison, and his brother Thomas Batty Addison. These windows contain the arms and names of Royal and other notable visitors to Preston, from Edward I, 1306, to Carolus Edwardus Princeps, infelix, 1745; of Benefactors, Civil Authorities, including the Guild Mayors, from 1329 to 1842; of Ecclesiastical and Proprietary Authorities.

"Upon entering the baptistery," writes Whittle, in 1821, "you perceive the following books chained fast to the pillars of the great archway leading to the baptistery, and resting upon desks for public reading, viz., on the left hand, the Book of Homilies, in folio, and the Holy Bible, in 4to.; and on the right side, Fox's Book of Martyrs, in 2 vols. 4to., and a Synopsis Papism, in folio, all well bound, in brown calf, and lettered" (History of Preston, 59). All inquiries as to when and why these chained books were removed have been fruitless.

THE CHURCHYARD.

On May 13th, 1646, a resolution of "the xxiv." states that the churchyard doth in most unchristianly manner lye wast and open, being daily spoiled and abused by swyne, for want of makinge upp the walles and ffences about the same." In 1679, we are told that "divers tombstones have been secretly and privily conveyed into the churchyard without the consent of the Byshop of the Diocese, vicar of the parish, of the 24 men," within the last 20 years, to the prejudice of the parish and of private rights. The removal of the said stones was ordered by "the xxiv" "for and towards the flagging of the church, if the owners thereof will not remove them." In 1674, the churchyard was in a bad state, as appears from a minute of the xxiv.

"Whereas ther's many bones of the dead which lye scattered up and downe in the church, and church yard, which is looked upon as an undecent and uncomely thinge, and which 'twere convenient y^t they were from time to time gathered, and laid together untill, as a full heap or number of them being gathered together, they might be conveniently buried: and whereas there is not a convenient place for the laying and keeping of them together in; Therefore it is ordered and agreed y^t a charnell house be buidded, and y^t the Sexton from time to time to gather the bones together, and cart them into the charnell house, so as the church and church yard may be preserved and kept c ean, and free from that annoyance for the future; and that the Sexton shall in due time bury the said bones out of the charnell house, in that he hath by a foregoing order a penny allowed him at every buriall more than anciently was due."

In 1792, it is recorded that the churchyard had become greatly inadequate for the purpose of interment; and it was decided to purchase a plot of land on the south side from the Earl of Derby, "at a reasonable price."

The oldest gravestone now to be seen in the churchyard is a small flat stone, with the inscription:—MARY COWBAN, 1574. There are no other old stones visible.

Writing in 1814, Dr. Whitaker thus describes the unseemly sounds which then came from the Cockpit near the south-western corner of the churchyard. "I have distinctly heard the infernal yells, the diabolical oaths and curses which issued from that place while standing before the altar of God." The building ceased to be used for this purpose in 1830. As is too often the rule whenever a church had an existence in pre-Reformation times, the worst characters of the town are to be still found in the purlieus of our parish church.

CHAPTER VII.

The Records of The Four and Twenty Gentlemen.

THE ancient institution of this body has been explained in The Parish, and in English Gilds, to have had its origin from the custom of choosing "sworn men" as representatives of the parish for purposes of aiding in the assessment and other parochial duties. In the Hundred of Amounderness many of the parishes had their "four and twenty" or "thirty" sworn men; but in Preston and Ribchester the "four and twenty" had the honourable title of "gentlemen." With the exception of Goosnargh and Ribchester, no other parish in Lancashire appears to have kept up the custom until the present time.

The duties of this body were varied and important; and from their records we obtain a good deal of information which is both curious and valuable. Not content with the absolute power over the fabric of the church, nor with the control of the parish purse, they aspired to dictate to the parson, sometimes not without success. Upon negligent members of their own body they were very severe; from the clerk, sexton, and bell-ringers they required strict obedience; and, upon the whole, "the gentlemen" appear to have managed parish business in an exemplary manner. It is to be regretted that the accounts of expenditure prior to 1749 have not been preserved, as from them we should have gleaned many items of interest. The first book of records now extant commences on the 1st January, 1644-5, with the following resolution:—

Att a meeting of the xxiiijth of the said parish, and of the churchwardens, and others of the same parish. It is this daie agreed upon and ordered, That whereas the sum of xxx^{li}. was heretofore ordered to be levied within the said parish, for and towards the Repaire of the Church (a great parte whereof is as yett unpaide). Now forasmuch as the decayes of the said church (by the judgement of skillfull workmen) are greater than the said sume of Thirty pounds will sufficiently repaire: We therefore thinke fittinge and soe order, that not only the arrearages that are unpaid of the said sume of xxx^{li}., but also that xx^{li}.

more be assessed and collected, viz. :—within the Towne of Preston vill. xiijs. iiij^d., In the upper end of the parish, vill. xiijs. iiij^d., and in the lower end of the parish vill. xiijs. iiij^d., as an addition to the said sume of xxx^{li}., which in all amounteth to the sume of fiftie pounds. Which said sume we do order to be employed for repaire of the leades, glasses, belles, and other needfull reparations, in and about the said church.

And wee doe further order that the churchwardens of the said parish in their severall divisions shall collect the said severall summes, and that in case any shall neglect or denye to paie the same, that the said churchwardens make levie for the same by waye of distresse, or otherwise, as we shall directe, and that the same moneys soe collected and levied shall be paid over by the said churchwardens to Mr. Henry Blundell for the Towne of Preston, To Mr. Robert Elston for the upper end of the parish, and to Mr. Edmund Werden for the lower end of the parish, to be by them disposed of for the uses aforesaid. And we doe order that the said churchwardens shall forthwith collect and levye the said severall sommes of money, and if they or any of them shall neglecte or delaie the collection of the said sommes, That then they shall be dealt with as in that case wee or the greater parte of us shall think meete. It is ordered that forasmuch as through the distractions of the sd tymes, divers parish-churches want repaire, And noe care is taken for the repaire thereof: THEREFORE for the preservation of the Ruine thereof, the churchwardens of every parish where such necessitie shall require, shall laye, and asseesse such sommes of money upon their severall parishes as shall be requisite for the necessary repaire of their parishe churches respectively. And shall levy and collect the same as in such case hath formerly been accustomed. And if any shall bee refractory and refuse to pay their proportionable part thereof; The churchwardens in their respective divisions shall distraine the goods of all such persons soe refusing for the satisfying thereof, that soe needful a worke bee not retarded. And that the overplus of the goods so distrained, shall (after the sale thereof and satisfaction given) be returned to the owners; And if any churchwardens shall neglect the performance thereof they must expect to bee accompted hinderers of the publike good and to answer their contempte.

The first complete list of the "gentleman and twenty-four" is given below. From it we notice that Preston parish for local purposes was divided into three sections—"Preston town;" "the upper end," comprising the townships to the north and east of Preston; and "the lower end," including the southern and western townships. This arrangement, still preserved in the modern vestry of Preston, led to many disputes as to the liability of each division for the repairs of the church and churchyard. The Mayor and Aldermen of Preston, invariably appear to have been members of the "four and twenty," representing the town.

The names of "the xxiiij men of the parish of Preston, as they were agreed on, in or about Maye, 1644.

The 8 men of Preston towne.	{ Mr. William Shawe, Maior of Preston, and the Seaven Aldermen his brethren.

1645. June 3rd. "An order concerning non-attendance at meetings.

"It is this day ordered by us whose names are here under subscribed that upon any publike notice to bee given in the church of Preston that the 24 men of the parish and the churchwardens belonging to the whole parish appointed to attend here, upon any particular day to be assigned and nominated for the occasion or affairs of the Church or anything concerning the same; shall, att such particular dayes and tymes, bee present in their owne persons within the said church to doe and perform such things as are then required upon paine of everyone absenting himself to forfeit, vizt: for any of the 24 men, 3s. 4d. a piece, and for any such churchwarden absenting himself vjs. viijd., unless, for the absence of any such person a reasonable excuse bee then sattisfactory to those then appearing. The churchwardens at the tyme being giving notice to those of the 24 men within their severall divisions or leaving summons att their houses."

Mathew Addison, maior.

Ric. Hoghton (and others).

1646. An order made by the Hon^{ble} Sir Richard Hoghton, Bar^t. patron of the parish, the worsh^l Mr. Maior of Preston, and dyvers others of the xxiiij. men of the parish, at their meetinge the xiiij. day of Maye.

"Whereas two severall levyes of xxx^{li} and xx^{li} have been within these three years taxed upon the towne and parish of Preston for the Reparaⁿ of the Church, which have been gathered in parte, but as yett no full accompt made of laieing out or disbursing thereof: And forasmuch as dyvers workmen have complayned for want of their wages and paye for worke done in and about the church, as glasiere, plummers, and others, whereupon it was by command published, that all wee the xxiiij., together with all the churchwardens for these three years last past should have convened together here in the church this daie, for a full and perfect accompt makinge and satisfaction to the workmen of soe much of the severall summes aforesaid as are still unmade." Ordered that a meeting be held on the 29th Maye "by ten of the clocke in the forenoone." Any of the xxiiij. neglecting to attend "(not haveing a very just cause of absence) to paye the some of three shillings." Any of the churchwardens failing to appear and produce their accounts "to forfeite and paye the summe of ten shillings, to be levyed of their goods for the churches' use. Ric. Hoghton."

At a meeting on the 29th December, 1651, reference is made to the preceeding order; "notwithstanding the same," add the gentlemen,

"Mr. Robert Elston, and Mr. Rich. ffarrington (being of the eight of the upper end of the parish) are now absent, and Mr. Willm. Cottam, and Mr. Seth Blackhurst (two of the eight of the towne) also now absent, and likewise Richard Goodshaw, Willm. Hayes, Willm. Moreley, Henry Billesborow, Robert Gregson, Robert Noblett, and Willm. Chrychlowe (being 7 of the eight men of the lower end of the parish) nowe all likewise absent; whereby the business intended to have been done was for want of their appearance and attendance hindered and putt off; It is therefore ordered, that every one of them soe absent to forfeit iijs. iiijd., unless they or any of them can and doe showe a reasonable excuse of such absence at the next meetinge of the 24 here in the church on the second of february next." John Sharpe, churchwarden for Cottam, was ordered to pay 6s. and 6d., 'without any delay or excuse,' for default."

The following order shows that the then Vicar of Preston did not attend to his duties properly:—

"Whereas by a late Statute of this present Parliament att Westminster, it is enacted and ordeyned (amongst other things) that there shall be a Register Booke provided at the charge of the parishioners of and in every severall parish within this nation wherein to enter and Record the names of all persons baptized, and of Burialls and Mariages, according to the daies and tymes of such severall ordinances. And that the Minister of every such parish shall keepe the same, and perform his duty therein, accordinge to the tenor of the said Acte ; Now forasmuch as there hath bene of late, a great neglecte of Registringe such said persons, which may happen to prove very prejudiciall to some therein that bee concerned, And that Mr. Ambrose the present Minister of this parish hath bene the cause of this late omission and neglecte ; and seemes still to be unwillinge to keepe the said Register, and to doe his duty therein as hee ought by lawe : Therefore, for prevention of the like prejudice and inconvenience for the future, Wee order and desire that Thomas Maudesley, ye parish cleark doe keepe the said Booke, and perform his duty therein as behooveth, for and untill our next meetinge on the seacond day of february next, att which tyme wee will condiseind to and agree (in case the said parish-clearke be ordered and doe agree to keepe the said Register hence forward) that hee shall have a competent allowance of the parishioners for the same, to be ordered unto him at our said next meetinge. And in the meane tyme, the said Mr. Ambrose is to be spoken withall to know yet whether hee will keepe the booke as he ought, or els to allowe meanes for keeping thereof out his own dues.

29 Dec., 1651."

No record of the meeting on the 2nd Feb., 1651-2 (if held) appears. But on the 24th November following it was decided that, owing to the absence of the churchwardens for both ends of the parish "on the Sabbath daies," when notice was given of meetings of the twenty-four, "all the churchwardens should repair to the parish church every Sabbath day to divine service, in order that they might be able to give due notice of meetings to members of the twenty-four. A fine of 12^d. to be imposed upon defaulters, unless some reasonable excuse was forthcoming. This notice is signed by twenty members.

Five yeaas later matters in respect of attendance were no better ; as, on the 12th Jan., 1656-7, it is recorded that the churchwardens were not ready with their accounts, and that divers of the 24 men of the parish were also absent. Accordingly it was ordered that publication should be made in the church by the parish clerk of a full meeting of the churchwardens and 24 men, to be held in the church on Candlemas day next, at one o'clock in the afternoon.

This meeting was duly held, and the only item of business done entered in the books is thus recorded :—

"Unanimously agreed that Mr. Thomas Eyves of fishwick shall be from that time forward one of the eight men in the upper end of the parish of Preston in the place and roome of Edward Cuerdall, whom they have thought good to discharge in that behalf, the said Mr. Eyves to doe and acte with them in all things as hath been accustomed."

This resolution reflects no little credit upon the gentlemen :—

"Whereas, at a meeting this day it was discussed amongst us of our great want of an able minister for our church And of the small and uncertaine meanes which of late have beene had, for the maintenance of a minister, And having taken the same into sadd and serious consideration, Wee have (for the better encouragement of such minister as may hereafter be presented and inducted by the patron with the consent of us of the xxiiijth of this parish) thought fitt, And unanimously order and doe hereby engage ourselves, that all such antient dues as have been formerly paid to the minister here by the parishoners, shall be duly paid to such minister soe to be presented, with our consent as aforesaid, And to that end wee of the three severall divisions, whose names are subscribed, do undertake to see the same paid in our severall & respective divisions accordingly.

27 April, 1657."

From the following order we learn the mode of election to fill up vacancies in the twenty-four:—

Att a generall meeting, held the 25th day of April, 1659, that whereas two of the eight men for the lower end of the parish are lately dead, it is agreed by the consent and nomination of the other six surviving men in that end, that John Harrison of Lea and Robert Hankinson of the same be hereafter two of those eight men. And it is also now ordered and agreed that henceforth upon the death of any of the eight men in the three divisions of the towne and parish the rest of them in that end shall nominate who shall succeed them, without any relation to any others whatever.

Signed by 19 members, 6 of whom make their marks.

But later on, in 1682, it will be noticed, the "gentlemen" admitted the right of the Hoghton family to nominate members for the lower end of the parish.

In Feby., 1663-4, a warrant was served upon John ffarrington of Elston, gent., one of the High Constables for the Hundred of Amounderness, by Alex. Rigby and Christopher Parker, justices of peace for the county, for £13 the amount of two years arrears of the rate levied upon the parish of Preston for and towards the relief of maimed, indigent, and poor officers and soldiers" who have faithfully served his Majesty that now is, and his Royal ffather in the late warres." The "gentlemen" at a meeting held on the 18th of this month, decided to pay the amount forthwith.

At a meeting, held on the 16th April, 1666, it was ordered that the sum of 6s. shall be paid to the ringers for their pains in ringing on the 29th day of May," being the birth-day and the day of the happie restoration of our gracious sovereigne Lord Kinge Charles the Second over England, etc.," by two shillings of every end of the parish, until further orders.

In chapter VI. will be noticed several extracts from the books of the gentlemen relating to the fabric of the church as well as to the various disputes which arose from time to time as to the seats in the church.

An instance of the business like way in which the gentlemen regulated the affairs of their own body is afforded by the following order:—

"May 31, 1671: An order for the confirming of former orders—Whereas divers orders are extant in this book, which the whole number of the 24 have not put their hands, as not being all present; or wherto the clerk himself (as keeper of this book of orders, and by the appointment of the 24) has only subscribed his name. All yet which orders upon perusal this day we find to be good, and accordingly consent unto. Therefore it is hereby ordered, that all such orders as are already agreed upon, as before stated are to be regarded as if signed by the whole body, or major part, of the 24."

In 1674, the signature of "Seth Bushell, D.D., and vicar of Preston," is appended to the resolution, the first instance recorded of what was after all only an act of grace on the part of the gentlemen, as is clear from the following list of members on the 20th April, 1674:—

The eight men of Preston,	{ Mr. George Addison, gent., maior. Mr. William Sudell, alderman, Mr. Luke Hodgkinson, alderman. Mr. Lawrence Wall, alderman. Mr. Thomas Hodgkinson, alderman. Mr. James Ashton, alderman. Mr. John Kellett, alderman. Mr. Willm. Lemon, alderman.
The eight men for the Upper end of the Parish.	{ William Boulton, gent. William Houghton of Grimsargh, gent. Richard ffarington of Ribbleton, gent. John Marsh of Elston, gent. Thomas Eyves of flishwick, gent. James Morreau gent. Richard Houghton, gent. Thomas Walmsley, gent.
The eight men for the Lower end of the Parish.	{ Richard Houghton of Lea, gent. Robert Hankinson of Lea. John Harrison of Lea, Edward Gregson of Ashton. Richard Cowband. Richard Ash of Ingoll. William Simpson of Cottam. Edward Porter of Ashton.

The following order is of interest:—

1682. April 17th. An order about the choice of the 24 men.

"It is this day ordered that William Simpson one of y^e eight men of y^e lower end of this parish be and hereby is (by y^e consent of Sir Charles Hoghton Bart.) discharged from his attendance for y^e service of y^e said parish by reason of his extreme age and infirmity. And y^t (at y^e nomination of y^e said Sir Charles Hoghton) Thomas Jackson of Cottam be and is hereby nominated and appointed one of y^e eight men for y^e lower end of y^e said parish in y^e room of y^e said William Simpson. And it is further declared by y^e persons of y^e lower end of y^e said parish (now present) that y^e nomination and appointment of y^e eight men for y^e lower end of y^e said parish hath anciently belonged to y^e said Hoghtons, and that y^e same now of right belongs to y^e said Sir Charles Hoghton." Richard Cowband discharged, and Willm. Short of Ashton elected in his stead. "But [in another hand] this order to be noe president or any way oblidgering upon the towne of Preston as to the nomination of their eight men. But as to the said towne and the higher end of the parish their Elections to be as formerly."

Et aliis.

On the 13th March, 1682-3, the only time, the signature of "Thos. Birch," Vicar of Preston is attached to a resolution passed on that day.

At a meeting held the 31st March the following year—

It was ordered that "a book be procured and bought at y^e charge of y^e parish wherein shall be fairly entered the yearly accompts of the parish church-wardens" after being passed by the four and twenty.

It was also "resolved that y^e rate of 12^d for every fox head be allowed and payd at y^e bringinge of such heads to y^e parties y^t bring them."

In 1697, Mr. Edward France was "appointed" a member of the 24 by Sir Charles Hoghton. In 1705 the Bishop of Chester issued an order about the disptes that had arisen between the three divisions of the parish about the payment for the clock recently erected in the parish church.

For over 30 years no items of interest occur (except such as are given in chapter vi.). On the 19th April, 1731, was passed the following resolution:—

"At a generall meeting of the 24 gentlemen of the Parish of Preston it is hereby ordered that the churchwardens for each end shall for the future bear all expenses that may happen for what is called the Churchwardens Dinner at their coming into office, or any expenses on Sacrament Days except 2 bottles of wine to be allowed to any strange clergyman that shall at any time preach, and the acct of wine to be brought to the Rev. Mr. Arch Deacon Peploe, or who he shall appoint to take care of the same, as also that the present churchwardens, as well as those hereafter to be chosen, pay out of the common assessment the sum of Twenty Shillings to the Parish Clerk for the time being for Rent for a Seat in the Charity Gallery now appropriated to the Charity Schools, and made use of att present by the singers, as also nothing shall be done to the value of Ten Shillings in repair by the churchwardens, but the town-churchwardens shall acquaint those of the country; as also it is ordered that the two Bills touching sidestones and grates, value £9 11s 11d which is yet unpaid be allowed to the succeeding churchwardens, and by them to be paid and brought in the next year's acct."

In 1732-3, the following were the gentlemen and twenty-four of Preston:—

For the town of Preston.	William Atherton, Esq., Mayor.
	Sir Edward Stanley, Bart., alderman.
	Mr. Edmund Assheton, alderman.
	Mr. Lawrence Wall, alderman.

	Mr John Melling.

On the 26th March, 1733, it was ordered by thirteen of the 24 that "Every one of the 24 gent. now in being, and for the future their respective successors, also the father or mother, wife or child of the said present 24 gent., as well as those succeeding, shall be excluded from paying any fine for breaking ground [for burials] within the church."

Then, in 1738, two of the churchwardens, having "caused a very extraordinary charge in expenses by likour" [liquor] were ordered to pay the sum of £1 9s. to the credit of the parish account, or "in default to be prosecuted as the law directs."

In 1746 it was ordered that "the forms or seats for the poor shall be removed out of the middle aisle and set under the belfry."

With the commencement of the Second Book of the Records of the "Gentlemen and xxiv" in 1749, the Church Accounts are given in detail. The following are items of most interest:—

In 1770 "the gentlemen and twenty-four" dropped their ancient title, and henceforth style themselves "the select vestry." The exact reason for this change is not stated, but it appears to have arisen through dissatisfaction of the old custom of laying rates for the repair of the parish church. The two rural divisions of the parish protested against each paying one-third of the rate; and, in 1790, "at a general vestry meeting" attended by nearly fifty of the leading inhabitants of the parish, it was unanimously resolved "that the old mode of raising the rates for the repairs of the church ought to be varied and the following adopted—the town district to contribute one-half and the Higher and Lower districts each one-quarter." Disputes still occurred, and finally it was decided to have the matter settled in court. The case was tried at Lancaster Assizes in 1797, with the result that the ancient custom was established. For some years the rates were duly levied and paid, until by degrees the burden of supporting their parish church fell upon the town alone.

CHAPTER VIII.

The Churchwardens and Parish Officers.

THE six churchwardens of Preston parish were elected by "the xxiv," two for each division, viz.:—the town of Preston, or "the middle division;" the townships of Fishwick, Elston, Ribbleton, and Grimsargh; comprising "the higher" or "upper division;" and "the Lower division," made up of the townships of Ashton, Lea, Ingol, Cottam, Barton, and Broughton. This mode of election is still observed by the modern select vestry of Preston. Numerous references to these officials will be found in Chapter VII.

In 1802 the select vestry passed the following resolution :—" That the Churchwardens shall in future go thro' the town during Divine Service with wands which they are required to provide at the parish expence : and Mr. Mayor here present is requested and agrees to permit and order the Town's Sergeants and Beadle to attend the Church Wardens on such duty."

Parish Clerks.

The duties of these officials were arduous and important for many centuries. At Preston, in 1574, these, we are told (see pp. 44-5), included "tolling the bell," "singing and playing on the organ," and "teaching the children to sing."

On June 3, 1646, the clerk was ordered to "constantly attend" the xxiv of the parish, and "enter their orders, and write such precepts and other things" at the meetings, for doing which the sum of 20s. a year was allowed.

The list printed below is incomplete.

(1562). John Gradwell.	1692-1725. Robert Winder.
(1574). Richard Livesey.	1726-1738. Thomas Stanhope.
(1622). William Lawrence (?)	1738-1782. Henry Barnes.
1643. William Audland.	1782-1825. Joseph Barnes.
1643-1667. Thomas Mawdesley.	1826-1838. Edward Croston.
1667-1672. John Clifton.	1839-1868. Thomas Woodhouse.
1672-1692. Christopher Santer.	1868. . R. P. Woodhouse.

A few notes are appended.

THOMAS MAWDESLEY appears to have been a notable man in his day. To his care and industry we are indebted for full reports of the numerous meetings of "the xxiv," and for the unusually full entries (considering the troublous times) in the registers. He made his will, 2 Feb., 1663-4, from which we learn that, on his marriage with Ellen Charnley of Preston, spinster, 12th Dec., 1655, he received a dowry of £20. Being childless, he left to his wife not only the sum of £20, "but alsoe two-full thirds" of all his goods "(excepting only all such my books as at my death I shall be owner and possessor of tending to the practise of the common lawe and others of the like nature)," which said books he left to his friends Mr. Peter Wright and Mr. John Lawe. Bequests were made to his daughter (by a former marriage), Mary Clarkson, and to his grandchild Jennet Clarkson. The inventory of his goods amounted to £46 5s. 4d. Thomas Mawdesley was buried at Preston, Jan. 1st, 1667.

THOMAS STANHOPE, grandson of a vicar of Preston (see p. 60), and son of Phillip Stanhope, was baptized at Preston, April 13th, 1693.

In Peter Walkden's Diary (p. 117) is the following reference to Stanhope:—

"1730, May 16.—Sent son Thomas to Proud Preston with 4lb. of butter for Mrs. Sudal, and by him I sent Mr. Stanhope, clerk of Preston, 4 briefs with the moneys collected thereon, viz., 4s. 7d."

His burial is thus recorded in the register: "May 27, 1738, Mr. Thomas Stanhope, parish clerk."

The Sextons.

At Preston the duties of sexton and beadle appear to have been discharged by the same person. In 1646 the sexton was allowed 13s. a year for "the sweepinge and decent keepinge of the church from disturbance," etc. In 1749 the beadle's salary was 5s., with the customary "hat," "coat," and "shoes;" and in 1815 this official received 20s. a year.

The subjoined list is not complete:—

(1582). Edward Gregson.	1747- . William Barnes.
-1631. John Mytton.	1818-1825. Joseph Barnes.
1652- . Henry Mytton.	1826-1849. Edward Rogerson.
1671. Alexander Jolly.	1849-1873. George Rogerson.
1671-1735. Seth Jolly.	1873- . R. P. Woodhouse.
1735-1747. Henry Worden.

The following "order" from the minute book of "the xxiv" is curious:—

"I do hereby appoint William Barnes of Preston to be Beadle for carrying the Bier and impower him to carry the same so long as he behaves well. Witness my hand this 25th day of March, 1747—Sir Henry Hoghton."
